The month of March seems destined to be the season of highest attainment in musical lines for many a year. The first event which was extraordinary was the presentation of "Creation" by the choir of Zion Baptist church on last Thursday night. The reputation of this choir was sufficient to fill the large audience room, and all felt the thrill which good music gives. The oratorio is a combination of chorus and solo work with Mesdames Pinn, Motley, Moore and L. H. Jones, Messrs. Gatewood and Clark taking the leading roles. Dr. Jones as Adam and Miss Eva Carter as Eve being the principal soloists. In the chorus there were Misses Webster, Gatewood; Mesdames Batley, Waller, Gould, Ford, Turner, Ball, Mrs. Over; Messrs.

Clark, Davis, Chapman, Waller and Russell. Madam Faulkner as chorister trained the choir, Mrs. C. D. DeFrantz was organist and A. L. Madison was cornetist.

The universal approval which was accorded the singers was deserved. Possibly the appreciation shown was made the greater because the audience was provided with librettos which permitted them to enjoy the beauty of thought and language as much as the tonal excellencies of voice and organ.

This oratorio was an ambitious production, nothing like it having been attempted here by a church choir before. The glory belongs to it both for the effort and for the success. That it dared to try is glory itself; that it succeeded and pleased a multitude should be a source of pride to Denver. The chorister especially is to be commended.
