The House of Romanoff.
The house of Romanoff passed out of existence with the death of its last survivor, Empress Elizabeth, daughter of Peter the Great, who was succeeded as ruler of Russia by her nephew, Peter of Oldenburg, duke of Holstein-Gottorp, son of her younger sister, Grand Duchess Anna. It is from this czar, who reigned as Peter III., that the whole of the reigning house of Russia are descended, and they are, therefore, not Romanoffs, but Oldenburgs.

Paid Her a Compliment.
Dr. Johnson never had reputation for paying compliments, but it is related that once when Mrs. Siddons, the great actress, called on him in Bolt court and the servant did not readily bring her a chair he said, "You see, madam, wherever you go there are not seats to be had."

The Two Sides.
"There are two sides to every argument," said the ready-made philosopher.
"Yes," replied the gloomy person, "but it makes a difference which side you choose. There are two sides to a piece of fly paper."—Washington Star.

Nicely Fitting.
"It was a very appropriate birthday present our young friend, the lawyer, got, wasn't it?"
"What was the present?"
"A new suit."—Exchange.

SLAVES OF THE DESERT.

A Lashing Taken With Gratitude by the Emir's Servants.

Abd-el-Rahman was a heavy scold who boded ill for some one, and his fingers caressed his rawhide korbak as he watched the camels being laden. When all was ready to start he called out four names, and four dejected-looking Arabs answered shamefacedly to the summons.

The Emir spoke to them dispassionately, as one might speak to one's dog, and then, tossing his korbak to the nearest of the four culprits, he bade him lay on a dozen of the best, while he watched and criticised each stroke with grim earnestness.

It was not a pleasant sight to watch, and I thought it policy to turn aside, but the rest of the caravan thoroughly enjoyed the exhibition and greeted each well-laid blow with approval.

When the punishment was completed each of the culprits in turn came forward and kissed the Emir's feet, thanking him for his mercy and calling Allah to witness that they were his dogs to do with as he wished.

From their subsequent conduct I have no reason to believe that they did not mean every word they said, though at the time I was skeptical. It is not every day that one learns such an object lesson in humility and feudal service.—Wide World Magazine.

INSPIRED AUTHORS.

Ideas Come to Them, It Would Seem, In Spite of Themselves.

Bernard Shaw has stated more than once that he is "inspired." "I am pushed," he says, "by a natural need to set to work to write down conversations that come into my head unaccountably. At first I hardly know the speakers and cannot find names for them. Then they become more and more familiar, and I learn their names. Finally I come to know them very well and discover what it is they are driving at and why it is they have said and done the things I have been moved to set down."

Other writers and painters, too, have described their processes in a similar way. William Blake was positive and emphatic in describing himself as a mere amanuensis, writing down the words that were audibly spoken to him, and he painted in the same way from a model set before his eyes and visible to him alone. Rodin, the French sculptor, gave his assent to the same idea of models visible to the eye of the artist. Dickens said that his characters were actually visible and audible to him, and it will be remembered that "Kubla Khan" was dictated to Coleridge while he was seated—London Spectator.

Sacrifice!
There was only one piece of pudding for dinner, and Mrs. Jones divided it between her children, Ned and Grace. Ned looked first at his plate and then at his mother's empty plate. "Mother," he said, "I don't think I can eat my pudding while you haven't any." "Why Ned," said the mother, much pleased, "how unselfish you are, dear! But, you see, my boy, there is no more pudding." "I know that, mother. You take Grace's!"—London Mail.

One Exception.
"Where there's a winner there's always a loser."
"Not always."
"Well, name an instance to the contrary."
"When you're playing cards with your girl for kisses."

Unfeeling.
Mrs. Benham—I'm afraid the doctor's bill is too high. Benham—But he saved my life. Mrs. Benham—That's what I'm figuring on.—New York Times.

There is no time so miserable but a man may be true.—Shakespeare.

Baltimore, Md., March 3.—Edwin C. Burleigh, elected to succeed Obadiah Gardner as United States senator from Maine is ill at a hotel here. His physician hopes he will be able to proceed to Washington to take the oath.

Women That Men Admire
It is true men admire a pretty face and a good figure, but sooner or later they learn that it is the healthy, happy woman that is most of all to be admired. Women who are troubled with nervousness, backache, the blues or other symptoms incident to female ill health drag a woman down to despair, should not forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness to more women in America than any other remedy and should at least give it a trial.—Advt.

MONTPELIER.

Two Deaths Saturday—Mrs. Floyd E. Goodno and Mrs. Hannah Bailey.

There was quite a mix-up on Barre street last night when the fire trucks were on the way to a fire on Ridge street, a single team pulling in front of truck two near the foot of Downing street and attempting to keep ahead in spite of calls from the department and from people on the street. In trying to pass the single team, the truck forced it against a hydrant, threw out the man and smashed the sleigh. The man was uninjured. Proceeding, the horse on that truck lost its footing and fell when within a quarter of a mile of the fire, breaking the shaft on the right side. And when all was over it was found to be only a chimney fire, which was extinguished by chemicals without any damage, and for which there was no necessity of calling out the whole department. There has been for some time considerable feeling against teams which deliberately pull in front of the fire department when it is making a run, but yesterday's was the first accident which has resulted.

The city council had a special meeting Saturday night and nominated grand and petit jurors. The grand jurors were also nominated, as follows: J. Stone, John Mahoney, E. E. Smith, Calvin Parmenter, John Grandfield and Arthur Henry. The petit jurors were nominated, Jesse King and Robert Whelan being added to the list. The renominations were as follows: Leo A. Newcomb, J. G. Dillon, G. R. Lawrence, Irad Ellis, Mitchell Menard, J. F. Lee, John Ryan, J. C. Finn, E. M. Buck, F. H. Wedge, H. C. Kent, L. T. Leland, E. M. Nichols, D. F. McGovern, J. P. Flint and H. C. Holmes.

The engagement is announced of Miss Winnifred Kaylor to E. S. Abbott, principal of the high school, and a surprise party and kitchen shower was given Miss Kaylor Saturday afternoon and evening.

Robert R. Pierce, who for the past two and one-half years has been in the employ of the Montpelier Savings Bank & Trust Co., has gone to New York to be employed in the department of foreign service of the Standard Oil Co. Mr. Pierce graduated from the Montpelier high school in 1908 and attended the University of Vermont for two years.

Mrs. Floyd E. Goodno died Saturday at the home of W. H. Goodno of tuberculosis, from which she had suffered for two years. A year ago she spent several months at the Pittsford sanatorium and seemed to be benefited thereby. The end came suddenly. Mrs. Goodno was born in Belknap Falls, Feb. 26, 1882. She is survived by her husband, infant son, mother, two brothers and three sisters. The funeral will be held in Walpole, N. H., her former home, tomorrow.

Mrs. Hannah Bailey, wife of John E. Hale, Jr., died Saturday night at her home in Wrightsville, after five months' illness with heart trouble. Mrs. Hale was born in Barre, Jan. 15, 1853, the daughter of Joshua and Eliza Bailey and was married to Mr. Hale, Aug. 3, 1874. To them were born five children: Arthur O., Charles M., Mrs. Alice A. Hill, Dean B. and Guy M. She is also survived by two brothers, H. N. Bailey of West Berlin and J. C. Bailey of Chicago. A private funeral was held from her late home this afternoon, on account of the illness of Mr. Hale with a broken hip, and burial was in Green Mount cemetery.

A son, William Lincoln, was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. William S. Smith.

George F. Stebbins of Springfield, Mass., has purchased the Comique theatre of R. H. Henderson of Wells River and will run it himself. He has already taken possession.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY.

The musical clubs left on Tuesday morning for a trip of several days through the northern part of the state. They gave concerts at Fairfax, Swanton and Enosburg Falls. They returned on Saturday morning. Twenty-six men made the trip.—L. L. Muller, U. S. coast artillery, N. Y., was a recent visitor of friends in town.—Private Harmon of the band has received an appointment to West Point and is now studying for the examinations, which come in April.

The Curious Guanaco.

"Amurra" guanaco whispered one as they crouched low in the bont "Kill" and he pointed to the rifle beside me in the stern sheets. The gold en brown of the white breasted, deer like animal stood out, a little note of color, complementing strongly against the verdant green of the dark, wet forest side, but well out of range. I had seen the Indian guanaco skin caps (cloaks) sold by the fur dealers of Punta Arenas, but this was my first glimpse of the animal itself, many thousands of which I saw later during my expeditions through Tierra del Fuego and Patagonia. You are a queer animal, indeed," apostrophized an Argentine lieutenant as he and Captain Musters once viewed a solitary guanaco. "You have the neck of a horse the wool of a sheep, the neck of a camel, the feet of a deer, and the swiftness of the devil." Yet withal a graceful animal and at a distance not unlike red deer, though larger.—Oetting.

Jarred Her.

A Chicago woman was traveling in the Orient. On a trip through a desert she was carried by four stalwart blacks in a chair suspended on poles. The natives started out with great cheer but as the journey progressed and the sun beat down upon them they began to chant a prayer to Allah. It was melodious, though a bit mournful, its constant repetition was soothing, and the lady dozed. On awakening, the prayer, grows more mournful, almost despairing, was still being intoned. Turning to her interpreter she asked the meaning of the mysterious words. The interpreter pretended not to hear but being pressed for an answer finally bowed low and said:

"Madam, since you insist, they pray that the great Allah may make you less fat."—Chicago Tribune.

"To-day is the to-morrow of yesterday. Do it now!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Yes, and to-day is the yesterday of to-morrow. Don't regret it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Miss Maude Fealy Comes To Barre Opera House To-night.

Miss Maude Fealy, who will be seen at the opera house this, Monday, evening, March 3, in her new play, "The Right Princess," is one of the best known actresses in America and England. Although still in her early twenties, few stage women of the country can boast of as varied or as successful a career. When a mere girl she appeared as Eunice, in the original production of Quo Vadis, and later was seen in the title role of Janice Meredith and in "The Colonial Girl." Before she was out of her teens she became leading woman for William Gillette in "Sherlock Holmes." She went to England with that piece and scored tremendously in London and other large cities of that country. While there she was engaged for the following season by E. S. Willard and appeared with him in "The Professor's Love Story," "David Garrick" and other pieces. She retired from Mr. Willard's company to take Ellen Terry's place with Sir Henry Irving and remained with him until his final retirement. Her work in the roles created by Miss Terry were said by English critics to be fully up to the standard set by the great English woman and was praised on all sides. So pleased with her efforts was Sir Henry that once when he was ill for six weeks and unable to continue his tour he paid her a salary for the time she laid off. Miss Fealy was the only one in the company who received this generous treatment. Miss Fealy and her mother, who was with her during all her European engagements, visited Paris while Sir Henry was ill. While there, the American star noticed a beauty contest in the "Paris Figaro Illustré." More for than anything else she had her mother send in her photograph and although there were nearly 20,000 women entered from all parts of France, Miss Fealy won the first prize, 1,000 francs. Among the well known American actors for whom Miss Fealy has been leading woman may be mentioned Richard Mansfield, Nat C. Goodwin, William Collier and Robert Hilliard.

In "The Right Princess," Miss Fealy is sure she has the greatest piece of her career. The production was seen in San Francisco for seven weeks and in Chicago for two months.—Advt.

"The Shepherd of the Hills."

The most popular American novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author, Harold Bell Wright, with the assistance of Elsbeth W. Reynolds and Lem B. Parker. This will be good news to the millions of Mr. Wright's admirers. For everyone who has read this popular story will be glad to see "Sammy Lane," "Preaching" Bill, "Young Matt," "Dad Howitt" and all the people of the "Mutton Hollow" take life and appear behind the footlights.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" will have its local premiere at the opera house to-morrow night.—Advt.

John Hyams and Leila McIntyre in "The Girl of My Dreams."

Leila McIntyre, who is the co-star with her husband, John Hyams, in "The Girl of My Dreams," coming to the opera house next Saturday night, has been on the stage since she was four years old.

Her first public appearances were at church entertainments. Several of her uncles were ministers, and she was in great demand because of her "cute," childish manners. Soon she began to take child parts, and she says she has acted every kind of character except an old man. She has been villainess and star, played comedy and tragedy, but her forte is childish "bits." And as a demure little Quakeress in "The Girl of My Dreams," she is said to be exceptionally well cast.

Besides being very pretty and childish, Miss McIntyre has that undefinable quality called "charm."

Mr. Hyams, too, is well known for his clever work and especially for his dancing, and he gives admirable support to his charming wife.—Advt.

EAST BARRE.

Mrs. Cheney of Montpelier is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Irving Bates.

Fred Lord has purchased the house, owned and occupied by Amos Partridge, and will move his family there at once.

Mrs. Charles Gravel has been ill at her home the past few days but is now somewhat better.

The following menu will be served town meeting day in Odd Fellows' hall by the Congregational church: Vegetable hash, boiled dish, cold meats, rolls, baked beans, brown bread, pickles, pies, doughnuts, coffee and cheese.

Miss Gladys Durkee resumed her school work to-day, after a week's absence caused by illness.

What a Woman Discovered

One woman in this city recently discovered that she was paying four profits on almost every article she bought at the store. That before it came to her, there was the manufacturer's profit, the jobber's profit, the wholesaler's profit, and the storekeeper's profit, all to be paid. She thought this excessive cost had to be endured and was gratified to learn that she could buy her household supplies at manufacturer's prices direct from the Larkin Co., thus avoiding these unnecessary profits and getting $1.00 worth of household supplies for every 50c she spent. To-day she is ordering her soaps, teas, spices, and hundreds of other household supplies direct from the Larkin Co. and saving money on every purchase she makes. She is, moreover, telling her friends about this "Factory-to-Home" method of dealing and the big savings it means for everybody. Write to the Larkin Co., Buffalo, N. Y., yourself and ask them for their large Catalog R 21. This describes each of the products (there are over 500) and gives full information about the Larkin "Factory-to-Home" method of dealing.—Advt.

Father John's Medicine Cures Colds and Builds Up the Body Without Use of Alcohol or Dangerous Drugs.—A Doctor's Prescription, 50 Years in Use.

Absolute Truth of This Story Attested by Guarantee To Give $25,000.00 to Any Charitable Institution if Shown Otherwise

Father John's Medicine is a physician's prescription. Prescribed for the late Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., by an eminent specialist in 1853.

Father John recommended this prescription to his parishioners and friends and in this way it became known as Father John's Medicine.

This story is true and we guarantee to give $25,000.00 to any charitable institution, if shown otherwise. Father John's Medicine will cure coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles, prevent consumption, and make flesh and strength if taken faithfully. It is not a patent medicine, and does not contain alcohol or poisonous drugs.—Advt.

FIRE BELIEVED INCENDIARY.

Many Families Made Homeless At Saco, Me.

Saco, Me., March 3.—Fire believed to be incendiary made three families homeless and threatened to sweep the business section yesterday.

Help from Biddeford and snow on the roofs kept loss down to $5,000.

The police are seeking the incendiary and the city council expects to-day to offer a reward for the arrest of the fire bug.

HIS SENTENCE COMMUTED.

C. R. Heike Will Not Have to Serve Prison Term.

Washington, March 3.—President Taft last night commuted to a fine and cost the sentence of Charles R. Heike, secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company to eight months in the New York county penitentiary and a $5,000 fine.

He was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States of sugar duties.
