We suppose Haggood still rules in Peru, Vt.

Morris McDonald must feel like a deflated football.

This street car strike does not need to be referred to The Hague.

Radium couldn't cure "Bob" Bremner—but, then, probably nothing on earth could.

Those Keene firemen had a new one on their hands when they tackled that stonished fire.

From all the evidence at hand, Hans Schmidt was about as guilty as a man could be, and the second verdict was as near right as human agency could make it.

Forecasted official changes in the Boston & Maine R. R. indicate that the little Barre & Chelsea R. R. (formerly the Barre R. R.) must put on a new headlight.

Huerta invites the reporters down to Mexico and promises an army to protect 'em. Better look out, boys, lest you be forced to look out from the inside. Perhaps Huerta couldn't keep his word, if he would.

In its position to the federal department of justice for an investigation of the alleged monopolistic control of news gathering and selling by the Associated Press, the New York Sun news bureau pays a deserved compliment to the former as one of the greatest and most skilful news gatherers in the world. Doubtless, too, the Associated Press stands ready to defend itself against any reasonable allegation that may be brought against it by even such a strong and prominent agency as the Sun news bureau, whose own news gathering service has been the source of admiration oftentimes among newspaper men.

THE KEENE STONISHED FIRE.

The destruction of two-thirds of a large granite manufacturing plant at Keene, N. H., means a serious loss to the company, and the promoting concern, not so much because of the actual monetary sacrifice (for the insurance carried was unusually large) but more because of the loss of time on contracts which call for early shipment. The Victoria White Granite company was employing about nine gangs of men, including all branches of the industry, and the setback while the plant is being replaced also means a great deal to them if they are not able to find places of work in some other granite center or in some other line of occupation. The fire comes

A HAPPY CHILD IN A FEW HOURS

Listen, Mother! When Fretful, Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered. When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advt.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Brush This Through Faded, Lifeless Locks and They Become Dark, Glossy, Youthful.

Hair that loses its color and luster, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe. Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Advt.

just before a time when business is likely to be the best in the year, and it was most unfortunate in that respect, too, inasmuch as the building cannot be constructed and equipment replaced in time to permit the firm to get out a full volume of Memorial day work. But in spite of the seriousness of the misfortune, the members of the firm and the company, which owned the building, seem to look ahead with a marked degree of confidence in spite of the fact that granite cutting in Keene is conducted under some handicap, since the rough granite has to be hauled there from quarries in other places, a situation somewhat similar to that in which Northfield finds itself. But the pluck of the promoters of the industry at Keene seems to have been rewarded with a good business, as the payroll of 134 men indicates; and such a payroll will not be lost by Keene business men without strong effort to retain it. Therefore, the fire of yesterday becomes but an incident.

TUBERCULOSIS AS A COMMUNICABLE DISEASE.

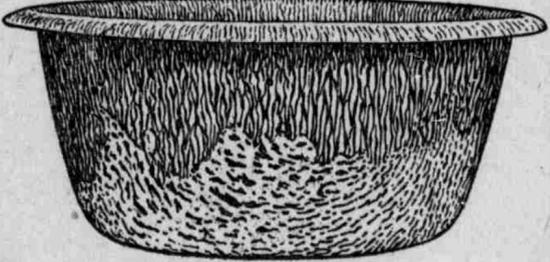

A short time ago an article was printed in the Christian Science Monitor of Boston, purporting to be the opinion of a medical expert, that tuberculosis is not an infectious disease and intimating that it was not inimical to public health that persons in advanced stages of the disease should mingle with and use articles used by other people. The medical expert quoted in the article has not yet seen fit to make any statement concerning the published article, but a statement is soon made by another recognized authority on tuberculosis, Dr. Edwin R. Baldwin of Saranac Lake, N. Y., which tends flatly to contradict the position which was accredited to the expert in the previous article, and since the aforementioned article probably has been put before many of our readers (we received two marked copies of the journal in addition to the copy coming regularly) it seems no more than fair that the statement of the second expert be given. The statement is as follows: "It is hardly believable that any person of intelligence to-day could deny that tuberculosis is an infectious disease, yet a widely circulated article appearing in a Christian Science paper purports to correctly quote a specialist as holding this view. That such was not the correct statement of the author's views can readily be seen by the reading of medical journals to which the author has contributed. Only the part that called attention to the slight danger to adults was utilized, that referring to the danger to children being entirely omitted. "While the specialist deplored the exaggeration of the danger to adults and protested against phthisophobia he is an advocate of the methods of prevention and care of tuberculosis, especially of hospitals for advanced cases. It is only too evident that the review in the Christian Science journal intentionally omitted the reference to infection in children and in the comments that followed did so for the purpose of prejudicing people against hospitals and segregation of the tuberculous generally." While we do not subscribe to the insinuation that the opinion of the contemporary was deliberately colored to suit itself, we do believe that full weight
