There ought to be a good deal of strength to that onion sowers' strike in Hatfield, Mass.

It is unfortunate that the local power company cannot "bottle up" the electricity going to waste in a season of full streams.

The Burlington Equal Franchise league may be said to be bringing up their reserves when they admit mere man to associate membership.

There won't be another Titanic disaster because there won't be another ship crossing with such a tremendous passenger list this season.

Report comes from Paris, Ill., that some woman voters in a recent election sold their votes for $3 apiece. There seems to be hull market.

The late Urban A. Woodbury's hostility to the open saloon was carried even into his last will and testament when he stipulated that his hotel in Burlington should be conducted as usual and without a bar.

The hedgehog bounty industry was not over-lucrative in Rutland county last year, the returns being only a paltry $258. Time was when a single "business man" in the industry might make as much as that in a single year.

A few Vermont summer resorts are advertising themselves in the metropolitan press, but the number of such is pitifully small in comparison with the total number of Vermont resorts which have something worth advertising.

When the United States finds the time ripe for mediation in the European war, don't make the mistake of calling it intervention, for intervention, in the European dictionary, has an entirely opposite meaning. It is left for Italy to intervene, if Italy cares to, which probably Italy doesn't.

Whatever comes of the agitation for a new passenger station in Brattleboro, the proposed structure ought to be on the village side of the railroad tracks, so that the public will not be compelled to cross the tracks or go over a raised passageway or through a subway in order to reach the station.

Nine house building permits granted at a single session of the city council do not indicate slack times in the contracting line in Rutland; nor do the plans for building a new business block, a fine church and some private dwellings in St. Johnsbury. Both signs of progress are noted with pleasure.

The Society of Those Who Tried Theodore Roosevelt for Alleged Libel will, of course, have a restricted membership; but the Sons and Daughters of Those Who Tried Theodore Roosevelt for Alleged Libel will, in turn, be blessed with far less confined membership. We await the founding of the society and then its auxiliary.

With the nomination 14 months away, three Republicans already have avowed themselves as candidates for governor of Maine and two more of the same party are expected to hurl their hats into the ring. We were inclined to think that Vermont takes its politics hard, but we confess the strain is as nothing compared to Maine's anxiety.

Ballplayer Almsmith of the Washington Senators made a base hit, but in the wrong place, when he struck a Washington motorman. He no doubt sees it now through a $50 fine. Most league ball-players are a gentlemanly lot, but there are a few whose heads are turned by flattery and who, in consequence, are inclined to be arrogant.

It is encouraging to the people of the state that some apparent progress is being made toward discovery of a cure for poliomyelitis in the research now being conducted at the medical college laboratory in Burlington; but, at the same time, it is reasonable to curb expectations until something more definite is revealed than at present known. It is a trifle premature to make anything like positive assertion.

In view of the fact that the New Hampshire legislature refused to take action on "relief" for the Boston & Maine railroad, the action of the Vermont legislature in refusing to commit itself to such a policy seems to have been on the side of prudence. The problem as likely to be affected by legislation in Vermont is comparatively insignificant in comparison with that as influenced by the legislation in New Hampshire; and no doubt the favorable action was sought from Vermont as a leverage upon the other States vitally interested, like New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Maine.

IMMIGRATION AND DISEASE.

It is a timely warning which some medical men of the United States have been making within recent days, respecting the inspection of immigrants into the United States at the close of the European war or just preceding the close of hostilities. The warning is timely for two reasons, one of which is that there undoubtedly will be a great movement of people in the war-stricken countries toward the United States and the other of which is that epidemics already are infesting some of those countries and are threatening to assume even more alarming proportions. When the war ceases or is about to cease there will be poor prospects for many people in the countries which have been the most seriously ravaged by the war, particularly those countries which lie in the southeastern part of Europe; their homes will have been destroyed in considerable number and the wage-earners of the families will have been wiped out entirely or incapacitated for heavy labor in support of the household, while the commercial and financial conditions will have been brought to such a low state of activity that there will be little demand for labor for a long time.

These poor prospects mean that a great many people will turn their eyes to a more prosperous land and that land is likely to be the United States, a country which stands for better things as viewed by many European peoples. Included in that number who seek to find a place in the United States will be, by necessity, many who have been attacked by disease or who may be carrying germs of disease which will break out shortly, for the best information obtainable at the present time tells of pests sweeping over several of the war-ridden countries, and these pests are not likely to subside as long as the war continues and the medical men are largely at the front or engaged in caring for wounded soldiers. Therefore, the immigration service of the United States has a very important work to perform in the interval beginning with the announcement of the great international truce in Europe. Let their work be strict and without relaxation. The public health of the United States depends in large measure upon them.

CONGRESSMAN SHOT DEAD.

No Weapon Found Near J. M. Faison's Body.

Goldstein, N. C., April 22.—Mystery surrounds the death of Congressman John M. Faison, third North Carolina district, who was found early yesterday morning at his home with a bullet through his head.

No weapon was found near the scene. Though five members of the family were sleeping in the house Tuesday night, all say they heard no shot report during the night.

$10,000,000 PAID.

By British Life Insurance Companies On War Claims.

London, April 22.—British life insurance companies have paid war claims of almost $10,000,000 to relatives of soldiers and officers killed during the first seven months of war. One company alone has had to meet eight thousand claims.

MORE HEAVY BUYING IN WALL STREET

Stocks Take an Early Start Upward—Steel and Copper Are Active Features in Trading.

New York, April 22.—Another wave of buying orders, combined with further covering of short contracts, lifted stocks one to two points in the first half hour of yesterday's active session. Bethlehem Steel opened at a three-point advance, which it soon increased to over seven, and other specialties also showed conspicuous strength. Coppers were the chief feature as agroup, moving to best prices of the current movement on a further advance in the price of the metal.

Leaders like Reading, Union Pacific and St. Louis rose a point, and New Haven added that much to Tuesday's sharp advance, but its subordinate issue, Ontario & Western, lost three points. Recurrent weakness in Rock Island stocks and bonds, together with profit-taking, provoked general reactions before the end of the first hour. Bethlehem Steel losing all its advantage, with numerous declines in more staple issues. Sales in the first hour approximated 350,000 shares.

CAN FLEET GET THROUGH CANAL?

Navy and War Department Officials Fear Some of Uncle Sam's Warships May Not Find Depth Enough.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—Fear that if the Atlantic fleet starts through the Panama canal to San Francisco in July, part of the dreadnoughts will get through and part of them may not be able to do so, and that thus the fleet will be divided and the country left in a badly defended state is what is worrying navy and war department officials.

This fact was disclosed yesterday in connection with published reports that the authorities were apprehensive that the vessels of the fleet would be unable to get through the canal and had called for reports from Governor Goethals and from Captain Hugh Rodman, marine superintendent of the waterway.

It has been represented that sufficient dredging has not been done to remove slides in the Culobra and Cucaracha regions, so as to enable the dreadnoughts to pass. The depth of water is said to be about 30 feet, whereas the dreadnoughts draw nearly that.

Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department explained the situation yesterday. He pointed out that there was no real apprehension that a single war vessel could not go through. But what the navy department is concerned about is as to whether the entire fleet will be able to pass through and not get caught in a situation in which perhaps half the vessels would be on the Atlantic side and the other half on the Pacific side.

True, this country is not expecting war, but at the same time it is the fixed policy to keep the fleet assembled, or its units so close together as practically to be assembled. It is to find out the exact situation with reference to the passage of the fleet as a whole that the war department has asked Governor Goethals to give an opinion, and the navy department has asked for the views of Captain Rodman.

Thus far Goethals has refrained from taking the responsibility of a prediction.

VERMONT FARM IN DEAL.

Claim Made That Its Value Was Exaggerated.

Springfield, Mass., April 22.—The report of Elisha H. Brewster, as special master in the case of Max Lipman against Francis Grobowski, filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of courts, finds that the value of a farm that was one of the items in a real estate transaction between the two men was exaggerated. The action is a suit in equity of a written agreement for the sale of a house and lot on Plainfield street.

THREE-STORY GARAGE.

And Combination Livery to be Erected in Brattleboro.

Brattleboro, April 22.—Kenneth E. Mosher closed yesterday afternoon a deal with Attorney General Herbert G. Barber by which the ownership of the Barber property on Flat street directly opposite the present livery stable of Mosher & Tucker, a lot 115 by 90 feet became Mr. Mosher's property. He will begin at once the building of a three-story garage and livery building, with basement. Plans are being drawn for the building by Arnold Peckitt and bids will be called for Thursday or Friday.

Mr. Mosher says one floor for garage purposes will be available for use July 1.

The basement will be used for livery purposes, with entrance from a runway on the first floor. The main floor and the second floor will be for garage purposes and the top floor for the present will be for rent. The building will cover the entire lot and will be of the best construction.

MONTPELIER CHORAL SOCIETY.

Prices for Concerts the Same as Last Year.

The rehearsal Tuesday evening of the Montpelier Choral society was the largest in point of attendance of the year, over 200 members being present and a great deal of work was accomplished in the study of the male chorus, Schubert's "Omnipotence" and "A Tale of Old Japan." The photographs of the soloists who appear at the May festival were on exhibition. During the intermission Mrs. Bradbury and Miss Glee V. Wood of Barre rendered a duet which amply merited the enthusiastic applause of the chorus. After the rehearsal the executive committee met to consider the final plans for the May festival. It was brought out in the discussion that instead of four soloists to appear as has been the custom in the past, there have been provided two additional artists, all of the six being foremost in the concert field, having appeared in the programs of the Handel and Haydn and St. Cecilia societies of Boston, and many other prominent choral organizations. It appeared to the committee that while many were gratified last year to have a world star in the person of Mme. Reache, the general sentiment of the community seemed to be a preference for the first-class concert soloists and a greater variety of program with added choral selections. By adding two soloists and arranging for but one to appear at more than one concert, the committee felt that it had met the wishes of its patrons, especially since among the number are found such high grade artists as Grace Bonner Williams of Boston and Reed Miller of New York.

In view of the foregoing, the committee decided to allow the prices to remain unchanged, namely: Season tickets, $2.50; single tickets for concerts, 75 cents, $1.00 and $1.50; matinee, 50 cents, one price. The season tickets therefore are $1.00 less than the price of the single tickets for all concerts and the committee recommended their purchase by patrons as the best plan to adopt. In the opinion of the committee the festival this year will be the best all-round musical entertainment ever offered by the society, now in its fifth year. Inquiries are already being received from Burlington, Rutland, St. Johnsbury, Woodsville, N. H., and nearer points for particulars of the concert. It is a gratifying indication that each year sees a greater demand from outside places for these concerts with words of praise and commendation for the efforts of our local people in maintaining such a first-class organization.

A communication was addressed to the Board of Trade of Montpelier and signed by all the committee, setting forth the nature of the society's work and suggesting the closing of stores during the afternoon of May 26 while the matinee is being given.

At the rehearsal next week Professor Frederic Edwards of Montpelier will render a selection during the intermission.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Easier, Quicker and Without the Blister

There's no sense in mixing up a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can so easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white MUSTEROLE.

MUSTEROLE is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of a pleasant white ointment. It takes the place of the out-of-date mustard plaster, and will not blister!

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

During Which Rev. George Y. Bliss Was Made Coadjutor Bishop.

Burlington, April 22.—The services yesterday in consecration of Rev. George Y. Bliss as bishop coadjutor of the diocese of Vermont were carried out in the following manner:

Rt. Rev. A. C. A. Hall of the diocese of Vermont was the presiding bishop and consecrator. He was assisted by Rt. Rev. Dr. Codman, bishop of Maine, and Rt. Rev. Dr. Berry, bishop of Rhode Island.

The presenters were Rt. Rev. Dr. Parker, bishop of New Hampshire and Rt. Rev. Dr. Davies, bishop of western Massachusetts.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Kinsman, bishop of Delaware. Some of the points of his eloquent and scholarly address will be found below.

The attending presbyters were Rev. Dr. Arthur Whipple Jenks of the diocese of New Hampshire and Rev. Frederick Maurice Kirkus of the diocese of Delaware.

People began to arrive at the church as early as 10:15 and by 11 o'clock, the hour of the service, the edifice was filled. As the notes of the processional hymn, "Rise, O Church With Light, Imperial Salem, Rise!" pealed forth from the organ, played by Harrison A. Cooke, the procession entered the church and marched up the center aisle to the chancel. The choir led, followed by the clergy of the diocese, the bishop-elect and his supporters, the consecrators and others who participated in the service.

Bishop Hall began the service of the holy communion, after which the epistle was read by Rt. Rev. Bishop Perry of Rhode Island, and the gospel by Rt. Rev. Bishop Codman of Maine.

Rev. C. Bernard of Newport and Rev. Grint of St. Johnsbury read the required certificates and testimonials.

Then came the sermon, which was followed by the presentation of the bishop-elect, by Bishop Parker and Bishop Davies, the bishop-elect standing, vested with his robes. The bishops addressed the presiding bishop, saying, "Reverend Father in God, we present unto you this godly and well-learned man, to be ordained and consecrated bishop."

After the reading of the certificates and testimonials required by the church, the new bishop gave his promise of conformity as follows:

"In the name of God, Amen. I, George Yemanus Bliss, chosen bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in Vermont, do promise conformity and obedience to the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States of America. So help me God, through Jesus Christ." Then came the litany.

The prescribed questions and promises between the presiding bishop and the bishop-elect were asked and answered, and the bishop was vested with the power and dignity of his office as the presiding bishop and his associates laid their hands upon his head while he knelt before them. The presiding bishop said: "Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a bishop in the church of God, now committed unto thee by the imposition of our hands. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. And remember that thou stir up the grace of God which is given thee by this imposition of our hands; for God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and love and sobriety."

The presiding bishop then delivered the Bible into the hands of the new bishop. The choir sang the anthem "How Lovely Are the Messengers," followed by "Veni Creator Spiritus."

The offertory at the service was for missionary work of the diocese. After the offertory the choir sang the anthem "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," and the service of holy communion was continued, the newly consecrated bishop participating.

After the service, the ladies of St. Paul's parish served lunch to 230 persons including those participating in the service of the morning and out of town church people. Mrs. Waterman was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

This evening at 8 o'clock a public reception will be held in the parish house in honor of the new coadjutor bishop.

The arrangements for the consecration, which went off smoothly, were in charge of a committee headed by Elias Lyman, J. T. Stearns and Dr. J. D. Tanner, to whom is due credit for efficient organization work.

Sketch of the New Bishop.

The new bishop was born in Shelburne March 12, 1864, the son of George and Mary Adelaide (Stevens) Bliss. He is a nephew of the late Rev. Dr. J. Isham Bliss, whom he succeeded in the office of rector of St. Paul's. The early years of his life were passed in Shelburne and later in Brandon, from whence in 1875 he removed with his parents to Santa Barbara, Cal. Ten years later he returned to Burlington and entered the University of Vermont, from which institution he was graduated in 1889. In the fall of the same year he entered the General Theological seminary in New York City. The summer of 1890 he spent in travel abroad, visiting England and the continent. He completed his seminary course in 1892 and received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. After graduation he returned to Burlington and on Trinity Sunday, June 12, 1892, he was ordained deacon. He was elected rector of St. Paul's May 16, 1899, 16 years ago.
