Charles Hyman, an oil cloth peddler, who gives his home address as Boston, was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police James Sullivan on a warrant issued by Grand Juror William W. Hart, charging that he sold oil cloth and other wares in this city without a license. Hyman pleaded guilty before the fine of $10 and costs of $7.03 was imposed by Judge E. L. Scott. This policy of trying to elude the $2 license fee seemed hardly a sound business proposition to the judge, and little explanation was necessary for Hyman to see it in a similar light.

Granite manufacturing was temporarily closed down tight today, for it is today the granite cutters will endeavor to revive the old custom of holding an annual picnic. Few men put in an appearance at the sheds today, though some did not wish to lose the time and money. Manufacturers, therefore, failed to sound the whistles at 7 o'clock as is customary. The picnic bids fair to be successful with many cutters and their families leaving on the late morning cars for Caledonia park. An exceptionally good program has been arranged by the committee in charge which includes besides several speakers and athletic contests of many kinds.

Expression of Gratitude.

Words seem wholly inadequate, but we wish to thank all those who helped us to save our household goods in such excellent condition when the farm buildings burned and express our sincere appreciation for the substantial aid and words of sympathy since that time.

The Sugar Situation.

The London Times' trade supplement of May 22, reports that the German sugar beet crop for 1919-20, will ultimately turn out 740,000 long tons of sugar as against the previous year, which gave a total of 1,193,000 long tons. From this we see that that section of the German beet sugar crop, known as such, turns out for the season now closing 453,000 tons less than the crop last year. Last we forget, let us remember that Cuban crop will turn out 850,000 less than was expected on December 1, 1919, and over 300,000 tons less than the crop of the previous year.

Java turns out over 400,000 tons less than the previous year, and Willett & Gray now estimate the decrease in the world's sugar production at 1,531,000 long tons, as compared with that of last year. Under these conditions it would seem simply absurd to look for low-priced sugars. The canners and preservers, who were so forward with their threats a few months ago that they frightened Secretary Palmer into negotiations with Argentina for a certain amount of sugar for their relief, will now probably miss their Argentine supply, as the present dispatches are to the effect that the Argentine government has placed an embargo on all sugar shipments. What sugar Argentina has, it now appears, she intends to keep. If in the face of these data the Cubans, who have sugar, are charged with the great crime of asking higher prices for it, then all the world is equally criminal, if we may judge by the prices of wheat, of corn, cotton, etc., and yet we hear no complaint concerning other high prices, excepting in a general way. The Cubans are reluctant sellers at any price below of five or six weeks ago, when sugars touched 23 1/2 cents, cost and freight, to New York. The concerted action of a few sugar buyers in New York to boycott Cuban sugars and to depend upon the incoming tide of sugars from other countries to New York induced by the high prices is not a very altruistic act on the part of the sugar refiners to protect the dear people against still higher prices, against 25 to 30 cents for sugar, which would be more nearly a proper level at the present time.—Louisiana Planter.

Joseph Brunell has been laid up from his work at the stonesheds several days by a severe bronchial cold.
