Mrs. George T. Hewes of Gulf Port, Miss., is in the city for ten days.

Dr. L. B. Morse spent Friday in the city of Asheville.

Chas. R. Whitaker spent Monday in Asheville on business.

Ramsey & Staton, one of the best known local firms have moved from the Pace block at the depot into the Allen stand in front of the county court house.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wilkins last Saturday a son, John T. Wilkins Jr. The mother and son are doing well.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson, twins last Thursday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Orr of this county a boy last Sunday night.

Dr. Edward J. Witt of St. Joseph, Mich., is spending a few weeks with his brother-in-law, Dr. L. B. Morse, of this city.

Mrs. W. F. Dowd and family left Monday afternoon for her home in Charlotte after spending the summer here.

Quite a number of Hendersonville people journeyed over to Asheville last Friday night for "Mutt and Jeff" at the auditorium. The musical comedy was fully up to the expectations and the local people enjoyed every minute of the play.

Special meetings are being conducted at the East Hendersonville Baptist church this week by Rev. W. W. Marr, pastor of the Baptist church at Biltmore. All persons are urged to attend these meetings.

D. W. Gallamore one of the counties citizens who lives on the Shaw's Creek road brought to the Hustler office Wednesday a twin apple. This apple was different from any shown in this city and can be seen at the Hustler office.

W. H. Justus has returned from a two weeks' trip to New York and Boston. Mr. Justus reports a grand trip and says the Rexall stores conducted through the United Drug company of which he is a stockholder reports one of the best years' business and is thoroughly pleased with the prospects of 1912.

The women of the Baptist missionary Union will hold a meeting at the Fruitland Baptist church, fifth Sunday, Oct. 29. An all day meeting. Every woman in the association is not only invited but is requested and expected to be there.

T. B. Carson, one of Hendersonville's progressive merchants has shown his value in advertising in The Hustler. In fact he has been one of the heaviest advertisers in the past few weeks. Shoes for everybody the famous Endicott-Johnson brand of shoes is the line Mr. Carson has been pushing and he is thoroughly satisfied with the beginning of the fall trade on this brand.

Before the doctor had hardly gotten through giving attention to one badly cut up negro McCoy, there was another caller with even worse cuts upon his head late last Sunday night. The last negro was named Chas. King. The police began a quick search or the guilt parties an arson located them. One of the affairs took place on Main street. All parties concerned were colored and it is thought that liquor started both fights.

Henderson county man returned to the city several days ago for a few weeks visit after living a number of years in the Eastern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. King of the Blue Ridge section spent the day Tuesday in the city with friends.

The court calendar is now being prepared for the coming term of civil court to convene here the second week in November.

Will Owens, colored who cut Chas. King last Sunday night has not yet been found although various reports as to his whereabouts have been sent the Sheriff. The reports so far proved to have been false alarms.

County Tax Collector V. C. V. Shepherd is on to his job and is now going through the county collecting taxes at the various townships in the county. He will be busy for several weeks, keeping him out of his office most of the time.

There were seventeen road sentences given to prisoners during the recent term of criminal court, all of which are now busy at work on the famous Buncombe road which passes through this county. Out of these there were only five white and the rest negroes. The sentences ranged from 60 days on up to 5 years which has the longest term to be served. Ten of the prisoners were already working part of their time on the roads when Criminal court convened in this county.

Take Care of Apples.

"The farmers of Henderson county are not paying enough attention to their apple crops this year. In fact I have been in a position to see that every year it looks like our apples are getting inferior to what they were in the past years," remarked a well known citizen.

"Why is this do you think?" asked a Hustler man. "Well I do not think the average farmer takes any care of his apple trees. They let nature take its course and as a result other sections of the state are producing a far superior apple. I do not include every apple grower in this county with this class. Some of our farmers have learned that the best policy is to begin early in the winter and prune his trees and to spray them in order to grow a perfect apple. This done at the right time by all the growers of the county would put the Henderson county apples high in the market and would bring thousands of more dollars into the pockets of the farmers."

These statements were made by one of the county's best citizens and can be relied upon as being sound advice to those who have in the past neglected their apple trees.

TAFT APPEALS TO WOMEN.

In Magazine President Calls on Them To Help Him Get Peace Treaties Through.

New York, Oct. 17.—President Taft in the current issue of The Woman's Home Companion makes a direct appeal to American women to help him persuade the senate to approve the arbitration treaties.

"The voice of the American woman should speak for peace," the president asserts.

In part the president writes: "The evil of war and what follows in its train I need not dwell upon, but the sufferings and perils of the men in the field, distressing as they are to contemplate, are slight in comparison with the woes and anguish of the women who are left behind. The voice of the women of America should be heard for peace."

CONFIDENCE

We Back up Our Statements with Our Personal Reputation and Money.

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think that it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemists. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best-known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They apparently act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause inconvenience. If they do not positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and thus relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, your money will be refunded.

Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Three sizes of packages, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Justus Pharmacy.

Night Watchman Finds 36 Sticks of Dynamite With Fuse Attached on Bridge and Has Exchange of Shots With Men Who Are Supposed to Have Put It There.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 16.—A report received here today by officials of the Southern Pacific Railway Company from C. B. Brown, section foreman for the road at Naples, Cal., gave details of the discovery of thirty-six sticks of dynamite under the Caltran viaduct, 20 miles north of Santa Barbara, several hours before President Taft's special train passed over the bridge en route to Los Angeles this morning. The dynamite was found after the watchman engaged in a revolver battle with two men, who escaped.

The dynamite was discovered at 2 o'clock this morning. The president's train passed over the bridge at 5:31. The night watchman saw two men on the bridge shortly before 2 o'clock. They were at the opposite end of the 1,000-foot span and ran when ordered to halt. The watchman ran across the bridge, firing several shots, which were returned.

After the pair had escaped in the darkness, the watchman returned to the bridge and began an investigation. Near the center of the span, lodged on one of the supports of the viaduct, he found the thirty-six sticks of dynamite with a ten-foot fuse attached to one of the sticks. He left the find untouched, going immediately to Santa Barbara and notifying the officials.

Sheriff Wines of Santa Barbara county went immediately to the bridge with several deputies and removed the dynamite. A general search is being made for the men.

Morality in Roads.

At the National Good Roads Congress, Bishop Fallows said:

"Good roads are closely allied to religion. Good roads in the country districts would not only increase the church attendance, but would improve the general moral tone of the community. It is a work that is worthy of the assistance of all the churches in the country."

That is good gospel. A man's ideas and purposes are always bettered by fair surroundings. Order, neatness, usefulness constitute a sort of high plane of thinking. Given the character of the material conditions of a community and you can almost tell how it will vote or in what numbers it will go to church. A dirty gutter is an obscene story. A deep mudhole in a country road is a nest of profanity. A miserable old broken down hog pen nearby is a scandal in the neighborhood. A man's thoughts are largely what his surroundings make them. If they are ragged, filthy and disordered so is his thinking.

So, making good roads, parks, sidewalks, gutters the tone of public sentiment is elevated and it can then be counted upon to support the true progress of the community. A bad outlook pulls a man down like a bad companionship.—Exchange.

Former Citizen of Rutherford Suspected of Murder and Arson.

In Rutherford county evidence is being gathered to incriminate one of its former citizens, who has moved to South Carolina recently, of one of the most hideous of crimes. The accused man, it is asserted, is guilty of murder and arson. It is charged that the man, whose name will be given out in a short time, did murder a young boy several years ago near Island Ford and also burned a government liquor warehouse, after stealing the whiskey. The man in question will probably endeavor to escape through an insanity plea, but steps are being taken to prevent this. Detectives are on the trail and a sensation is promised soon.

Distinguished Jurist Succumbs to an Acute Attack—Dean of Supreme Bench.

Washington, Oct. 14.—"Good-bye. I am sorry I kept you all waiting so long." With these words Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States, often acclaimed the greatest constitutional authority of the day, once a conspicuous figure in national and Kentucky Republican politics and long a leader in Presbyterian councils, passed away early today. He had been ill less than a week. He was 78 years old last June.

Justice Harlan had been ill with acute bronchitis less than a week. He sat on the bench last Monday when the court heard arguments on the so-called anthracite coal trust case. The following morning Chief Justice White announced that Justice Harlan was "slightly ill" and yesterday asked attorneys to consider that Justice Harlan was sitting in their cases although not physically present.

Justice Harlan, however, was in a much more serious condition than his colleagues in the court realized. Despite his advanced age, he was robust and ordinarily enjoyed the best of health. He was rarely absent from the bench, an attack of influenza a few years ago being almost the only illness from which he had suffered for a long period.

The sudden death of Associate Justice Brewer very much affected Justice Harlan.

Chief Justice Fuller's death in the summer of 1910 was also a shock to the venerable jurist.

Justice Harlan continued to perform his share of the work of the court. His great ambition was to serve until next June, when he would have exceeded the service of any other man who ever sat on that bench. As it was his service was longer than that of any other justice except Chief Justice Marshall and Associate Justice Stephen J. Field.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The body of the late Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States was laid to rest today in Rock Creek cemetery. The burial was preceded by a brief funeral ceremony at the Harlan residence on Columbia Heights and by a public service in the New York avenue Presbyterian church of which Justice Harlan was an active member for many years.

forth she merrily tared to the Forest of Arden, with "a gallant curtle-axe" and a boar spear in her hand. Rosalind was at heart a suffragist, at least, as were most of Shakespeare's heroines, though she took the cause more jocosely than her sisters of today. There is nothing lightsome of purpose to these twentieth century Rosalinds. The boar spear and the curtle-axe are not enough. They must have votes to boot; and votes they are getting.

"We are gloriously happy," exclaimed Dr. Anna Shaw, national president of the Woman's Suffrage association. "Our victory in California marks the beginning of the end."

Dr. Shaw, to be sure, was speaking under the first flush of Friday's news from the far west, and her estimate of the election's meaning must be taken with a grain of caution. It is, nevertheless, an interesting fact that California adds a sixth member to the family of states that have granted women complete suffrage.

It was a long time ago—so long ago, indeed, that few ladies now living will admit any personal knowledge of the event—when Wyoming led the way toward letting women vote. Even as far back as 1830 the suffragist movement, in those days known as "Women's Rights" was militant. And the work of its pioneers is an enduring part of the nation's history. Susan B. Anthony, Frances Wright and Lucy Stone rendered a vital service in awakening their generation to the need of good schools for girls, and to their earnest labors are due, in a large measure, the fruits of higher education for women, as we know it today.

The suffrage movement itself, however, proceeded in slow and desert stages. It was some forty years before Wyoming broke the ice, and then there was a monotonous stretch of over two decades until Colorado followed in 1893. The trouble seems to have been not that men were opposed to the cause, but that so few women were interested in it. (Let us hasten to explain that we refer only to conditions as they were in the benighted past.)

Since the nineties progress has moved more briskly. At the beginning of that decade was formed the National Woman's Suffrage association. In 1895 Utah and, the year following, Idaho, joined the suffrage column. And now, after several stout sieges, California has surrendered.

In nineteen other states women enjoy more or less liberal, though not unlimited, power at the polls. In Louisiana they may vote on questions that involve public expenditures. In many cities they vote for members of school boards and on bond issues. And who has not heard of Her Honor Mayor Wilson, the aggressive and competent head of Hunnewell, Kan?

In the teeth of perpetual storm the English parliament has refused the female ballot, but a number of the more enlightened British colonies have granted it, notably New Zealand and South Australia. Only two years ago twenty-five women sat in the Finnish legislature on a day the same time Norway, Sweden and Denmark accorded their dames and damsels a franchise that is virtually complete.

By no means, therefore, is the politics of the world altogether under the masculine thumb. Indeed it never has been and never could be. Who knows but that the boss of the home may become also the boss of the party? Certainly, if a few other states follow in California's footsteps that will be the case.—Atlanta Journal.
