

WHO'S WHO "AT THE DEPOT"

READ!

While Hendersonville has been growing fast, there is no section of the city advanced with more rapidity than the well known "Depot Section." Here you will find nearly every line of business life represented by sturdy citizens who have done much in making Hendersonville what she is. The announcements on this page are from the leading houses. Many of you readers know them, others of you have heard of them. They are bidding for your trade. A trip through the business section of Hendersonville is never complete until you have visited the "Depot Section." The farmers have long since discovered this and the city folks are rapidly realizing that it is a fact beyond dispute. You can note from the spaces on this page the variety of lines represented in this section. There are others who were not progressive enough to be grouped in this style, but who are seeking your business. The Hustler gives its personal guarantee that the merchandise advertised on this page is exactly as represented.
