

ROAD BUILDING FOR JOBS NOW SOUGHT

Best Method of Unemployment Relief, Says Pou; Backs Waynick Stand

Daily Dispatch Bureau,
In the Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 10.—Road building is one of the most effective means of putting people back to work in North Carolina and is in complete accord with the plans of President Roosevelt to put more people to work in the nation, George Ross Pou, counsel for the North Carolina Protective league, said here today. Pou and his organization are in complete accord with the recommendations that will be made by Chairman C. M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, the legislature appropriate $10,000,000 a year for new road construction in the State and $10,000,000 a year for maintenance for then ext two years. The Highway Protective League is also strongly opposed to any further diversion of highway revenues, since such diversion would not only make it impossible for the highway department to carry out its rebuilding and maintenance program, but would also reduce the amount of Federal funds which the State will otherwise receive from the Federal government.

"For North Carolina to neglect its highways at this time would be one of the most shortsighted steps that could be taken," Pou said. "It would also be contrary to the program which President Roosevelt has just outlined to decrease unemployment and hasten general recovery. The President pointed out in his message to Congress a few days ago that he believed a program of public works would do more to put men to work and hasten recovery than anything else."

"A program of road building in North Carolina will put thousands of men to work and for every man put to work building roads two more will be put to work producing materials and equipment needed. Surveys indicate that for every dollar spent on road construction approximately 80 cents goes into labor."

"This is not time to stop building roads in North Carolina especially when the legislature may be called on to make a cash appropriation for unemployment relief. If North Carolina does stop building roads it will be distinctly out of step with the Roosevelt administration and will enlarge the State's relief problem while new road construction will lessen it."

The two governing ideas which lie at the root of the development of the modern world are, the idea of the freedom of the individual and the idea of the equality of all individuals.

Opposes Further Diverting of Any State Road Funds

Daily Dispatch Bureau,
In the Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 10.—Vigorous opposition to further diversion of highway funds was voiced today by Senator Carl L. Bailey, of Washington county. He explained that he voted for the million-dollar diversion two years ago simply because an emergency existed.

He also approved, he said, "in principle," the request of Capus Waynick, chairman of the highway commission for $3,000,000 to be used for immediate maintenance and repair of roads and bridges. "I haven't had time," said

Senator Bailey, "to examine in detail Mr. Waynick's plans outlined in his report, but I know by firsthand knowledge that our highways need immediate repairs. This is true in my own county, where secondary roads are deteriorating because of lack of funds."

Senator Bailey said he expected, if it is necessary, to actively fight any move to further divert funds from the highway department, and expressed the hope that it will not be necessary to maintain the present rate of diversion.

He is being prominently mentioned for the chairmanship of the Senate Roads Committee. Others say he is in line to head one of the two Senate judiciary committees. In either case it is expected that he will be a leader in formulating any plans for the highway department.

Mr. Waynick's report states that there are 5,000 bridges in the State unsafe for present traffic loads. He asks one million dollars for their immediate repair. The remaining two million would be spent in rebuilding and repairing secondary roads, many of which, he declared, were breaking down rapidly because of insufficient repairs. The $3,000,000, if appropriated, would be spent before the expiration of the present fiscal year, or before July first.

HOME RULE FAVORED BY MUNICIPALITIES

Raleigh, Jan. 10.—When mayors from more than 100 North Carolina towns and cities meet here January 23 for the one-day convention of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, they will be faced with a proposal whereby cities will be allowed to govern themselves under a "Home Rule" plan.

The proposal will be presented to the convention, which is meeting here for the purpose of shaping a legislative policy for the league, by Mayor

Wickes Wamboldt, Asheville. The "Home Rule" plan has been tried with success in other cities over the United States, and "I believe it will succeed in North Carolina, if given a chance," Patrick Healy, secretary of the League, said this afternoon.

The league also will take action favoring municipal sharing of state highway funds for maintenance of city streets. It was announced from the organization's headquarters here. Paul Betters, executive secretary of the American Municipal Association, Chicago, will make a whirlwind trip to help the Tar Heels municipal officials round out their legislative policy. He will be one of the main speakers at the convention.

The convention will be culminated by a banquet in honor of the 1935 General Assembly.
