Revamped Tax Bill Now
Up for Senate's Debate

existing capital stock levy.
The experts said that, roughly, the bill would raise about $250,000,000, approximately the same figure mentioned for a widely different bill passed by the House. The bill as originally drafted by the Senate Finance Committee last week had been estimated to raise $450,000,000.
Democratic leaders, moving to begin debate in the Senate tomorrow, said prospects for quick adjournment now were better—and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, even asserted that it might be possible to quit next week. Some other legislators mentioned September 1.

"I am not minimizing the value of our cotton export business," adding "we want to maintain and preserve that value by all means. But remember, it is the value of that export

AN OPENING bid of two of a suit should show 9 safe playing tricks with a single biddable suit, 8 playing tricks with two biddable suits and 7 playing tricks with three biddable suits. The precise number of quick tricks held is unimportant. The total number of tricks that the bidder should win in his own hand is the vital point. While players state that an opening bid of two of a suit insures a game, that cannot be strictly true. Nearly every hand requires some assistance to go game. In case declarer's partner has a few 'top honors there may be a slam.
Last Thursday evening I held the North hand in a duplicate game. It has 6½ quick tricks but nobody made more than 1-No Trump or 2-Diamonds on the cards held. I made an opening bid of 1-No Trump.

In striking contrast to the above hand with its unusual number of quick tricks, still worth only an opening bid of one, is the following hand, sent to me from the Lake Placid club, worth an opening bid of 2-Hearts, by West, although he holds only a single quick trick. The great number of playing tricks justifies his forcing tactics.

Bidding went: West, 2-Hearts, first bidding his longer suit; East, 2-No Trumps, to show absence of quick tricks; West, 3-Spades; East, 4-Spades.
Play went as follows: North led the 4 of clubs. The "rule of eleven" showed declarer void of the suit. Dummy's 9 covered and the Q was ruffed. West led the Q of hearts and North won his first trick. He led his J of clubs. Again West ruffed. The J and Ace of hearts went on the next trick. Dummy ruffed. West ruffed a diamond. Dummy ruffed a heart and South overruffed with his Ace, winning the second defensive trick. The remaining seven tricks belonged to West, he having left 3 top trumps and 4 established hearts. Declarer could ruff either a diamond or club return lead, pull trumps, then run off his hearts. In case a trump was led back the same result could be accomplished.
The opening two bid had assured having bidding kept open until East could be shown both major calls and allowed to choose between them.

Marian Martin Pattern

PATTERN 9339
Marian Martin had leisure hours in mind when she designed this graceful afternoon frock for the woman of larger proportions. The soft jabot cascades down the bodice in graceful folds, concealing those extra pounds and curves! The bodice gathers in front to a doublepointed yoke, another slenderizing feature with its diagonal lines. Medium-length sleeves puff, then hug the forearm below the elbow. Crepe is a perfect medium for this pattern, but in satin you'd have an all-season "best dress." Do choose sparkling novel buttons and buckle. Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.
Pattern 9339 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 24, 36 38 40 42 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric.
Send your order to Daily Dispatch Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

business that we want to maintain, not just the exports themselves for their own sake."
"Before I go further, let me explain that it is unthinkable, either to abandon our exports or to sell out our cotton farmers and the fertility of their farms for a five or six cents price. Either of these alternatives is intolerable."

There are only 1,630 miles of untreated gravel roads and 15,476 miles of untreated gravel roads."
There are requests on file in the commission now for at least $100,000,000 worth of new highway construction, all of it worth while and badly needed, Waynick said. Yet the state,

Y. W. A. Holds Its
Monthly Meeting

The Y. W. A. of the First Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. A. S. Hale.
The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn. The devotionals were led by Evelyn Neathery. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved followed by the roll call with eighteen members present and one new member, Mrs. James Early.
Business was discussed and the society voted to get three additional subscriptions to the "Window" in order to meet the requirements of the Standard of Excellence.
Mr. Hale made a very interesting talk on Japan, stating briefly some of the outstanding facts of the country.
During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

MISS HAZEL CLARK
DEAN FOR COLLEGE

Greensboro, Aug. 12—Miss Hazel Clark, of Jersey City, N. J., has been chosen dean of students at Greensboro College, according to Dr. Luther L. Gobel, President, who announced today that Miss Clark will assume her responsibilities at the opening of college September 10. Miss Clark succeeds Miss Olivia Harmon, whose term ended June 1.

Following her graduation from the Lockport High School, New York in 1929, Miss Clark received a diploma from the Central School of Hygiene and Physical Education, then attended the University of California and now holds the B. S. and A. M. degrees from Teachers College, Columbia University. She is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor society, and of Kappa Delta Pi, national educational honor society.

McDonald Offers
Help to Griffin

which he has just written Griffin, in which he outlined his position. The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Griffin:
"As a friend and as a public official, you will have my cooperation in your new position as executive secretary of the State School Commission."
"As you know, I was and am of the opinion that the office of executive secretary of the State School Commission should be occupied by one thoroughly trained in school administration. This opinion is not in any sense directed at you personally. My opinions on public matters are never personal or based upon personalities.
"I know you as a sincere, clean, honest and able man. Nor do I doubt for a moment the genuineness of your interest in the schools and in the children of the state.
"It therefore is my privilege as well as my duty to wish you every success in this responsible undertaking. Please call on me at any time

It'll be a three-way triumph for you—this new Fall pattern design by Marian Martin. Smart, of course, and with its softly-draped collar, quite fetchingly different! Easy to make, too—note the simple lines and the raglan sleeves that are so easy to fit. And collar and belt are detachable—an off-and-on invitation to a quick change of trimming whenever the mood strikes you! For the model shown here, Marian Martin has chosen a Scotch plaid that is actually all cotton but looks so much like wool that the wool trimmings suit it perfectly. Other good fabric possibilities are novelty silks or synthetics or lightweight wools. This pattern is available in sizes 12 to 20 and 30 to 42.

To get pattern H9541, send 15c to Henderson Daily Dispatch Pattern Department, 232 West 18th Street, New York, N. Y.

I may be of any assistance in promoting the welfare of the state through the schools. You know me well enough to know that my pledge of cooperation is not empty gesture. It means that you may count on my aid at any time."

The position taken by Dr. McDonald is the same taken by most of the school men of the state, who have maintained that the head of the school commission should be a trained school man, rather than a layman. Many have also maintained that a majority of the members of the school commission should be trained school men, that is, superintendents. While the General Assembly was in session, a strong effort was made by the backing of the lobby maintained by the North Carolina Education Association, to reorganize the school commission and make the State superintendent of public instruction its chairman instead of the lieutenant governor, and also to give the chairman the power to name the executive secretary. The school forces were so sure this plan was going through that it became known that a certain county superintendent had been promised the job as secretary. But the General Assembly refused to make these changes.

In fact, the school commission was set up by the General Assembly Gold is to be found in most of the rivers in Upper Burma.
Service in Japan's army (or navy) is universal and compulsory.

as a lay commission of business men, not to direct the administration of the school from an educational standpoint, but to determine from a hard-headed business standpoint how the school money should be expended. The General Assembly became convinced that while trained school men might know all about curricula and textbooks and courses of study and school administration that they frequently knew very little about spending money, especially other people's money. So it set up first the old board of equalization, which was later changed into the State School Commission, to act as a sort of miniature Budget Bureau for the spending of school funds. For, contrary to the prevailing impression, the school commission has no authority over anything except the spending of school money or matters connected with the spending of school funds. All educational matters, such as curricula, teacher training and the general administration of the schools are left in the hands of the State superintendent and the State Department of Public Instruction.
