Sorry Business.

Raleigh Times.

"That is a sorry piece of work a Knoxville lawyear is engaged in, as reported by the Asheville papers. The lawyer in question wrote to an Asheville attorney proposing to solicit and prosecute suits against the Southern Railway Company on account of the deaths in the New Market wreck. He has a list, he writes, of all the Asheville people killed or injured and wants their cases before a dangerous man-to run against in the Southern has an opportunity to compromise. It is a lamentable fact that this Knoxville individual is only a representative of a class that is rapidly increasing in numbers. And the pity of it is, that the reputable lawyer who is true to the ethics of his profession suffers to an extent on account of the despicable methods of the shyster. The various bar associations should make examples of a few individuals who violate decency, and it is not to be doubted that such action would produce a salutary effect."-Salisbury Sun.

We sincerely hope our contemporary is mistaken in saying this Knoxvillian is a representative of a growing class of lawyers. Lawyers are, by all odds, the most influential men in any community. It's safe to say they do ninety-nine one-hundredths of all the legislation in the State and nation. They are, after all, the custodians of justice, and largely the moulders of public

The typical lawyer is a peace-maker and not a stirrer up of strife, not a promoter of litigation. These are some of the things a community have a right to expect from its repre-sentative men. This being true, how degraded must be the conception of a lawyer who would be found acting as the one mentioned by the Sun! True, when a lawyer has been employed, then his business is to look after the interest of his client, but to Knoxville lawyer is to violate grossly the ethics of the practice and to forfeit the respect of all good people.

The Assassination of President Lincoin a Personal Matter Altogether-Slavery and the Result of the War Had Nothing to do With it What-

"In this country the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, one of the purest, the most generous, and the ablest ruler that ever lived, was the result of American slavery. It was slavery's attempt, in its death struggle, to deal a stunning blow to the head of the nation that was crushing out its life—a blow dealt in a desperate revenge for its having been compelled to submit to the triumph of liberty. It was slavery in its dying compelled to submit to the triumph of liberty. It was slavery in its dying throes, administering to itself its own scorpion sting, thereby rendering its own character doubly despicable, and its own death more certain and everlasting. Hence, the cause (slavery) of Lincoln's assassination being forever annihilated no such despicable crime can again spring from that source." rom that source.'

Such paragraphs as the above, which is taken from the Religious Telescope, of Dayton, Ohio, have repeatedly appeared in Northern religious papers. They do Southern people great injustice. He was a native of Virginia, a member of a good family, a college graduate, a brave young man of attrac-tive personality. In Richmond, Va., we boarded at the same house, ate at the same table, and we learned to appreciate his sterling worth. He possessed traits similar to those which during the Spanish-American war made Richmond Pearson Hobson the idol of the American people. And when, in the fall of 1864, a man was wanted to lead a hazardous enterprise and make a diversion on Lake Erie, he promptly responded to the call of his government. With a handful of brave seamen he seized a steamboat on Lake Erie, made its crew prisoners, converted it into a war vessel, captured or sank one or more other boats, terrorized the commerce of the Great Lakes, produced a panic in Buffalo and the cities on the Lakes, and thoroughly alarmed the Northern people. In due time he was captured. He was tried by a court-martial and sentenced to death John Wilkes Booth interested himself in his behalf, obtained from the Confederate government at Richmond, Va., the evidence that he was commissioned officer of the Confederate Navy; he obtained also evidence that his acts were only those of legitimate warfare, and that he was acting under specific instructions from the Confederate government. Booth went to Washington armed with these documents and secured from President Lincoln the promise that Capt. Beall should not be put to death, but should be treated as a prisoner of war. This promise of Mr. Lincoln gave offense to Secretary Seward, who persuaded him, in the face of it, to sanction Beall's execution. And Capt. Beall was hanged at Governor's Island, N. Y., on Feb.

John Wilkes Booth was not a well balanced man at his best. Doubtless e inherited a streak of insanity which his father, though a great actor, was from time to time afflicted.
Be that as it may, he was fearfully wrought up by the death of his friend, under such circumstances. He denounced the killing in cold blood of a prisoner of war after he had surrendered, as "murder;" and the doing it after the President had given his word that it should not be done as "falsehood" and "treachery," and vowed vengeance against the authors of this wrong.

At once he organized a conspiracy for the assassination of President Lincoln and Secretary Seward; and on the night of the 14th of April, DR. E. B. TUCKER, 1865, only seven weeks after Capt. Beall was hanged, the plot was exe-cuted. Booth shot Mr. Lincoln at Ford's Theatre, Washington, exfellow-conspirations, inflicted serious, but not mortal wounds, on W. H.

that the crime had been instigated by Confederates. Many prominent citizens of the Confederacy were arrested. The most thorough and searching examination was made. And it was conclusively proved that no representative of the Confederate government and no one in the Southern Confederacy had any part in it.
It was as sincerely regretted and as severely condemned throughout the South as in the North. Mr. Lincoln was killed, not by a citizen of the Confederate States, but by a citizen of the United States—a partially deranged man, to avenge the wrong he claimed had been suffered by his friend at Mr. Lincoln's hands.

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "Young Women: - I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegestable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely with proved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods, I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACK-MORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn. - $5000 forfelt if original of above letter

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will hold your letter in strict confidence. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health.
