

SILVER COINAGE AGAIN RESUMED

AFTER SEVEN YEARS TREASURY IS BUYING BULLION AND MINTING DOLLARS.

REPLACING DEPLETED STOCK

Act of Congress Requiring Payment of One Dollar Per Ounce for All Bullion Offered to Treasury.

Washington.—Coinage of silver dollars has been resumed by the mint after a lapse of seven years and the work of replacing the two hundred and seventy-nine million standard silver dollars taken from the treasury during the war to sell to Great Britain has begun.

Since late in March, treasury officials said, approximately twenty million silver dollars have been coined. Since May, 1920, the mint has bought about fifty-five million ounces of American silver at $1 an ounce and will continue to make its purchases at this price until the treasury's stock is replenished.

Despite the fact that the Pittman act requires the mint to pay $1.00 an ounce for its silver, Mr. Baker declared, queries are constantly received demanding why the government pays so much more for its silver than the market price. The price was fixed by the act, he stated, to stabilize the price of silver when there were indications of its reaching an unheard of height during the war. As a result the government's action in confining the treasury purchases to silver both produced and reduced in this country, the American silver mining industry was protected from overwhelming foreign competition, Mr. Baker said.

There have been scores of such cases in Athens. Smyrna, Patris and Saloniki and only those able to escape and get into communication with American consular officers have obtained redress. Hughes told a gathering of his fellow alumni of Brown University that it was not desirable that America's helpful influence should be frittered away "by relating ourselves unnecessarily to political questions which involve rivalries of interest abroad with which we have no proper concern."

"It is equally true," he continued, "that we cannot escape our relation to the economic problems of the world." "Our men did not go forth to fight for this nation as one of imperialistic designs and cunning purpose or to protect a land where avarice might find its surest reward. They offered their lives and all the energies of the country were harnessed in the supreme effort, because we loved the institutions of liberty and intended to maintain them, because we hated tyranny and the brutality and ruthlessness which found expression in the worship of force and because we found our fate linked with that of the free peoples, who were struggling for the preservation of the essentials of freedom.
