Newfield Church Awarded Epworth League Banner

(Special to The Times.)

Stratford, June 4.—"Working Together With God" was the subject of the address given by Rev. Paul Edwards, pastor of the First Methodist church of Bridgeport, at the annual rally of the Bridgeport Epworth League group held at the Methodist church of this town last night. Over 300 young people from the First Methodist, Trinity, Grace, Summerfield, Newfield, Swedish, German, Nichols, Washington Park, Eastern and Stratford churches, Epworth Leagues were present at this rally and business session.

The banner which is awarded to the league having the largest percentage of membership present was awarded to the Newfield church, 85 per cent. of their membership being present. Stratford church came next with a percentage of 75, the First church having 69, German church 31, Grace 48, Summerfield 30, Swedish 62, Trinity 64, Washington Park 20, Eastern 42, Nichols 59 per cent.

It was voted to hold the annual summer outing in conjunction with the groups of Stamford, South Norwalk and Danbury on July 4 at Putnam Park in Danbury and the cabinet was instructed to engage busses to transport the young people on this picnic on that day.

The new officers of the group who were elected last night are: President, Francis J. Hill, of the First Methodist church; vice presidents, Richard Bayne of Trinity church and John O'Connell of Grace church. Miss Helen Barker of Newfield church was elected secretary, and Arthur Campbell of Washington Park church was chosen as treasurer.

Following the business of the evening refreshments were served in the dining room of the church.

One of the finest addresses ever given in Stratford is the way a number of the men who attended the annual reception last night to the Civil War veterans and the veterans of the other wars given by Okenuck tribe of Red Men characterized the talk given by Major William Alcorn of New Haven, who was major of the Second battalion of the 102nd Regiment, Yankee Division, in France.

The reception was held in the Red Men's hall on Church street and was attended by nearly 200 men of the town, many of them veterans of the World War, and almost all of the members of the G. A. R. in town being among those present.

During the course of his talk last night Major Alcorn told of many of his experiences during his service in France and in addition to telling of his own experiences told a number of stories of the Civil War which pleased the old veterans. Miss Marcia Phillips sang a number of soprano solos, and Sydney Colburn sang tenor solos, both of these singers being in excellent voice and receiving much applause for their efforts.

Music for the evening was furnished by the Hart orchestra of eight pieces, the accompaniments to the singing of the soloists being played by them as well as the popular songs of the day which were sung by the men present.

A number of pleasing speeches were also rendered by this orchestra.

At the conclusion of the speaking and the entertainment refreshments were served and cigars passed around. Past Sachem William H. Hart was the chairman of the committee of arrangements of this affair.

The funeral services of Mrs. Martha Curless Welles, wife of Judge of Probate Charles H. Welles, who died Monday morning at her home in Putney after a few days' illness of pneumonia, will be held Thursday afternoon from her late residence at 3 o'clock. Rev. Robert C. Whitehead, pastor of the Congregational church, will officiate and he will be assisted by Rev. Joel Ives, and the interment will be in the Union cemetery.

The dead woman, who was born in this town and who lived here all of her life, was beloved by everyone and in her demise a serious loss to the community is felt. She had been ill health for several years and was stricken with pneumonia a short time ago. Up to a few hours before her death it was thought that her condition had been improved but at 1 o'clock Monday morning she died. She is survived besides her husband by three daughters, Mrs. A. B. Worthen of New Haven and Miss Christina and Olive Welles of this town, and by one son, Ralph Welles. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. John C. Wilcoxson of Stratford, and Mrs. George Booth of Putney.

William Snaki of 305 Broad street, Bridgeport, was run into by an automobile driven by Jacob Schwartz of Brooklyn, N. Y., about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and suffered severe lacerations of the scalp and a dislocated shoulder. The injured man who had stepped from a Stratford Center trolley car near the post office, was rushed to the Bridgeport hospital in the police ambulance and is now under observation. Schwartz, the driver of the automobile, was held by the police until bonds of $1,500 was secured when he was released to appear in court Thursday morning.

Owing to the heat of the evening and so many other affairs being held in town last night there was only a small attendance of the Civic Improvement League last night and after a little routine business was transacted the meeting adjourned until Friday night at which time a large attendance is desired.

Howard, the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alston Clinton of Longbrook avenue, had his right foot crushed by being run over by an automobile driven by Alfred Stacey at Paradise Green at 4:30 o'clock yesterday. The boy tried to jump on the moving machine when he slipped and went under the wheels.

Mr. Stacey was stopped by his car and taking the boy in it rushed him to his home and called a physician. It is not expected that any serious complications will arise as the machine was not loaded at the time it ran over the foot and attention was given it soon after the accident.

Stepping on a broken glass bottle while wading out in Bruce's pond, preparatory to a swim Albert Lagerfeldt, of 280 Thompson avenue, this town, cut his foot nearly to the bone late yesterday afternoon. The young man was able to get to shore

His Finger Nails Yellow as an Egg

This Man Was so Bilious and Had Jaundice So Bad That His Entire Body Was Saturated With Bile.

HAD BAD DIZZY SPELLS

Strongest Kind of Medicine Failed to Move Him, But Cinot, the Natural Herb Tonic, Cleared Up His System and Gave Relief.

E. G. ANDERSON

"I have not been able to work for two years on account of my health," said Mr. E. G. Anderson 2409 3rd avenue, Birmingham, Ala. "I had an attack of Jaundice and my whole body became yellow as a pumpkin, even my finger nails were yellow as the yolk of an egg. I was badly constipated—even two glasses of Pluto Water would not move me. My stomach was very weak and did not seem to extract the strength from the food I ate. Gas would bloat me up and I'd be very uncomfortable. Often had pains in my back and limbs so bad I could hardly stand it."

"When the dizzy spells hit me I'd just have to stop right where I was and sit down till they passed off. I've taken two bottles of CINOT and it is the greatest medicine I ever saw. It seemed like it was made especially for my case. It began to act on my bowels and the action was so easy and pleasant; no straining about it at all. My liver also seemed to take on new life and the dizzy spells stopped and the yellow color faded away. My food now digests well, and I am getting my old time strength back again, so that I expect to go to work soon."

Cinot is a natural herb medicine, which acts on the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and the blood in a way to assist nature. It tones up all the vital organs, increases the strength and gives new energy to run-down systems.

The Cinot Expert is at Hartigan's Drug Store, 8 Fairfield avenue near Main street, where he is introducing this remedy to the Bridgeport public.—Advertisement.

AMERICAN SPEAKERS.

The first speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States Congress was Frederick A. Muhlenberg, of Pennsylvania, who was born in Trappe, Pa., in 1750, and died in Lancaster, Pa., 118 years ago today, June 4, 1801. Muhlenberg was the son of Rev. Heinrich Melchior Muhlenberg, the founder of the German Lutheran church in America, and the brother of John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, clergyman, general in Washington's army, congressman and United States senator. Muhlenberg served as speaker throughout the first Congress of the United States, and was succeeded by Jonathan Trumbull, of Connecticut, but was returned to the speaker's chair in the third Congress. Among his famous successors were Henry Clay, who was speaker for six sessions of Congress; James K. Polk, Robert C. Winthrop, Schuyler Colfax, James G. Blaine, John C. Calhoun, Thomas B. Reed, David B. Henderson, Joseph G. Cannon and Champ Clark. Only one speaker of the House of Representatives, James K. Polk, has ever reached the White House, defeating Henry Clay, an ex-speaker.

and tell his companions that he needed assistance before he lost too much blood. He was taken to his home after first aid treatment had been given. It will be sometime before he can step on the foot again as the wound was a severe one.

The pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. Isabelle Porter on Monday afternoon were David L. Rhoades, William A. Stagg, William B. Bristol and Harold Lovell. Rev. Arthur Shirley officiated and the interment was in Union cemetery.

Chief of Police William Nichols returned to his desk at headquarters yesterday, after a ten-day honeymoon which was spent with his charming wife, who was Miss Flora M. Conklin of North Main street, previous to May 23. The honeymoon trip included a sail from New York to Norfolk, Virginia, then to Richmond, to Washington, to Philadelphia, then to Atlantic City and back home. The trip down the coast was a rough one, a storm coming up shortly after the large steamboat had left the New York harbor. With the exception of the rough voyage to Norfolk the rest of the journey was an enjoyable one.

THE FIRST FAMILY HOTEL.

The first "family" or "temperance" hotel in London, the forerunner of tens of thousands of such hostleries in all parts of the world, was opened in Covent Garden 145 years ago today.

An inn for the more or less permanent accommodation of families, and minus bar, was an undreamed of thing, and other hotel keepers laughed at the project to scorn. Despite their derision, the scheme was successful, and made a snug fortune for its founder, David Low. London now has hundreds of family and temperance hotels, and before long the United States will have thousands of them.

The edifice in which Low started his hotel is still standing, and is now used for the boxing matches of the famous National Sporting Club. The building was erected early in the 17th century, and was originally the home of Sir Kenelm Digby. Cromwell's council held sessions in the building. It is said, and it was the scene of many other noteworthy gatherings before it was converted into a hostelry.

AMY ROBSART.

On June 4, 1550, Lord Robert Dudley, under the title of Earl of Leicester, married Amy, daughter of Sir John Robsart of Cornwall. The bridegroom was only 18 and the marriage took place at Sheen, in the presence of the young King Edward VI. The pair lived happily together for 16 years, but had no children. Dudley rose in the favor of his sovereign, Elizabeth, and had been unmarried, might have aspired to the royal hand. In order to advance his position, when Elizabeth showed her fondness for him, Dudley got rid of the wife of his youth by having her thrown down the stairs, claiming that she had fallen down accidentally and had been killed. Although he paid outward respect to her memory, by burying her magnificently in St. Mary's church, he was never beyond the suspicion of his neighbors. He is known to have committed many wicked deeds and his subsequent life shows that he was fully capable of ordering one woman out of the world to make room for a new.

"DADDY" GEORGE IS 53 TODAY

William Reuben George, internationally famous as the founder of the "Junior Republic" at Freeville, N. Y., and the inspiration of a number of "kid nations" for bad youngsters in America and England, was born at West Dryden, N. Y., 53 years ago today.

It was a little "human interest" story in a newspaper which led George to establish the "kid republic," which has been so widely copied. It was about 30 years ago, when George was a young but highly successful business man in New York, that he read the article which stirred his imagination so effectively. It told of a street urchin who dared arrest by walking on the grass in a park to pick what he thought was a flower, and of the lad's keen disappointment when he found it was only a scrap of orange peel.

This passionate love for flowers entertained by nearly all the poor children of New York gave Mr. George the idea of taking a number of street gamins to the country, where they could have all the wild flowers they wanted for the picking. In 1890 he took 40 boys and ten girls—youngsters—about as tough as they make 'em—to a summer camp at Freeville, near Ithaca. He continued his experiment for several years, and became the host to several hundred boys and girls. However, he was dissatisfied with the result, since his efforts smacked of charity and pauperized the recipients. He determined to make his guests earn their living, and in 1895 the first Junior Republic was founded with this end in view.

The Republic was so called because the citizens were permitted to govern themselves and elect their own officials, under a constitution and laws similar to those of the United States. "Nothing without labor," was the motto of the republic, and the farm became an all-the-year-round community of workers, who paid their own way and were proud of it. Mr. George was superintendent of the Republic until 1916, when he resigned to devote his entire time to establishing similar institutions in other parts of the United States.

Pearl (in surprise): "What? You let that young man kiss you? Why, I am surprised? Don't you know that the rules of our club firmly state that any girl who lets a young man kiss her will be suspended?"

Ruby: "Well, I was suspended, dear. I was in a hammock!"
