Sherwood Gets Homer.
Sherwood, the M. & M. twirler, clouted out a home run, the only circuit drive of the day.

The Bridgeport Brass, Main Plant and M. & M. game was noteworthy because the number of errors made nearly totaled the number of hits. The M. & M. nine made 10 hits to nine misplays, while the brass workers had 11 bingles to eight bingles.

"Toots" Connor, slub artist for the Houseatic, was in great form, fanning 15 and allowing only five hits against the General Electric.

The Houseatic combination is a collection of biffers, every player getting one or more off Vreeland, the G. E. twirler. Michalek and Barney were the pace setters with three each.

Gush Classy Performer.
In Gush the G. E.'s have a classy second sacker. He accepted all of eight chances.

Goyette led the M. & M. team with the willow with a trio of wells.

In fact there was heavy clouting before, F. Mandel of the Holmes & Edwards getting a trio of biffs, while Pratt and Lynch of the East Main Street branch of the Brass Workers each accounted for three safeties.

The league is equipped with a pair of efficient umpers in Bud Palmer and Whalen.

Local Firemen Favor League

Bridgeport firemen are going to enter the proposed state league of fire departments. A meeting will be held in the city hall tomorrow at which the firemen will elect a committee to represent them in the league. There will also be teams entered from Waterbury, New Haven and Hartford. There are many good ball players in the local department and a fast team will be picked to represent the Park City, should the league organization plans materialize.

Carpentier Fit To Enter Ring Now In Corbett's Opinion

(By James J. Corbett, former World's Heavyweight Champion.)

(Copyright 1931 by International News Service.)

Manhasset, N. Y., June 13.—George Carpentier is in great shape. I have sized him up carefully and I believe I am qualified to judge the condition of an athlete, especially a boxer.

To my mind he is ready to fight right now. It would be to his advantage, in fact, should the fight take place tomorrow. I mean by this that he is practically as good as he can get and if he could evade the coming days of training and dodge the chance of fighting against staleness he would be better off. I know he would be thankful.

The same applies to Dempsey if reports from Airport, telling of his condition, have not been exaggerated. Later in the week I will visit the camp of the champion. I have not seen him in several weeks and do not feel qualified to make a positive statement regarding just where he stands physically at this writing. But from what I know of him I believe that he is capable of rounding into physical perfection as rapidly as Carpentier, as they have been training about the same length of time.

Carpentier at his best. When he crawls through the ring ropes at Jersey City he will have everything to gain. If he wins he will vindicate the bright hopes of his admirers, and he is confident of winning. He has a good head, and he makes it a tough fight against the champion he will be the gainer rather than the loser after all is said and done, inside or out, as far as it goes.

George has also reached the right pitch temperamentally. In my talks with him I have found him in the best of humor. He is a very likeable chap, highly intelligent, with a keen sense of humor and withal a very interesting character all around.

He has made up his mind regarding the sort of battle he will have on his hands June 20, and is sure of that. But of course he is not telling his plans. And he is not underestimating Jack Dempsey for a moment.

When he crawls through the ring ropes at Jersey City he will have everything to gain. If he wins he will vindicate the bright hopes of his admirers, and he is confident of winning. He has a good head, and he makes it a tough fight against the champion he will be the gainer rather than the loser after all is said and done, inside or out, as far as it goes.

Carpentier's fine condition is a great credit to Manager Desamps and Trainer Gus Wilson. They have done wonders for him. They have proven to me that they know their business and when July 2 arrives they will have done their job. After the gong rings of course, the burden will be entirely on Georges' shoulders. And as he says:

"May the best man win."

Pitcher McFarland Clubhouse Boy When Flynn Was Pirate

Jack Flynn, Springfield manager, always has something to say when he hits this burg. Before the game yesterday he sounded the praises of pitcher McFarland who, by the way, was a clubhouse boy when Flynn was with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He is one of the most dependable twirlers in the league, and is getting all around with his games by using his head. He has lots of stuff, but I don't say he's the best pitcher in the league, but he has a great noodle and knows how to use it. Jack's dope was verified before the game was over, as McFarland mixed up his speedy ones with show balls and emerged out of several tight pinches.

McFarland with a good head will always win most of his games," declared Jack. This is McFarland's first league season.

FAST TRIPLE PLAY

A triple play featured the victory of the King Pin Jrs. over the Pirates 11 to 5. Participating in the brilliant feat were Lancaster, Good and Holgram. The Juniors scored four runs in the first and were never headed.

The score by innings: R. H. E.
King Pin Jrs. 4 0 1 0 3 2 1 x—11 12 4
Pirates..... 0 2 0 1 0 1 1 0 0—5 7 8

"NOT FRED HUNT"

The chairman of the Connecticut Association of the A. A. U. will be elected this month. No information is available as to who will be chosen for the office. When asked who would get the position, Captain Max Baum replied: "Not Fred Hunt!"

The only given by Baum was that some man from Hartford section.

FINN FANS 17

"Speed" Finn fanned 17 batters on the Elm City Glens outfit which bowed to the American Chain nine in a 12-inning battle. The winning run of the locals was scored on Ollieheey's timely three base hit in the final round. The locals benefited considerably by several close decisions of Umpire Lou Dewey going in their favor.

CHAIN NINE SNAPS

The American Chain baseball team stacked up against the speedy R. B. & W. team at Port Chester yesterday and were defeated by the score of 10 to 5. Scanlon and Nelson composed the battery for the locals.

Bartfield Due To Come Today. "Soldier" Bartfield, who is to be the opponent of Louis Bogash in the State street Arena next Monday night is expected to arrive in town tonight or tomorrow, to finish his training for his combat with the Bridgeport.

Steadman, who is to meet Bud Weathers on the same night, as one of his sparring partners.

"So confident is Bartfield of knocking out Bogash, he is seriously considering making Bridgeport his future home," said Dwyer. Bartfield is to become a benedict on June 28, the prospective bride being a Buffalo young woman, and he is desirous of establishing a home on the Long Island shore. With Bridgeport a boxing center the Park City appeals to him.

Bogash entered upon his regular training schedule today and will continue his workouts in the Acorn A. C. gym until next Monday. Yesterday, at the picnic of the Bogash association and Connie Lewis clubs, he again reiterated he will lick Bartfield before the limit.

BIG LEAGUE DUST

"Babe" Ruth clouted out his 19th homer of the season against Detroit, but Peckinpaugh's home run wallow was the little thing that decided the game in favor of the Yanks.

Ruth and Ty Cobb enlivened the proceedings with a near fist fight which was averted by the interference of players.

Rube Marquard had an extremely happy Sabbath. He pitched Cincy to a win over his former diamond pals, the Dodgers.

Flack, Gowdy and Boeckel were the home run makers in Boston's 12 to 9 win over the Cubs. It was a hard day for the scorekeepers as the Cubs won 19 men in the lineup.

Heine Groh, growing weary of issuing declarations that he would not play again with the Reds, has changed his mind again, having come to terms with Garry Herrmann.

Bunching six hits, which included a home by Miller, Washington overpowered the champion Indians, 10 to 2.

A triple by Rogers Hornsby spelled DEFEAT for the Giants in St. Louis.

Heine Groh, growing weary of issuing declarations that he would not play again with the Reds, has changed his mind again, having come to terms with Garry Herrmann.

HITTING THE SPORT TRAIL

With Geo. E. Firstbrook

As expected, Louis Bogash's declaration that he's willing to meet Jack Delaney in a bout to determine who is the superior mitt slammer, and the comeback of Delaney's manager that Jack is also willing, has stirred up a lot of talk in local pugdom. The conscientious opinion is that a go between the pair would be the biggest mazzuma getter for the promoters in some moons. It's an instance where local rivalry stuff would run riot.

After that $400 "touch" by Uncle Sam's income tax man Louis Bogash will probably discard the new green and white sweater he called in his wardrobe last week. After showing it around to friends he was informed it was the hue of the old Peter Maher always used in the ring. But the "hoodoo" hint failed to "take."

American soldier boys on the Rhine are maintaining the world supremacy of Uncle Sam in sports. The boys are leading the British, Belgians and French in the athletic tournament by a safe margin.

The discovery has been made that there is a "conspiracy" circle among the managers of both. Al Jennings in a recent scolded load penciled: "I am not looking for suckers or set-ups for Jack Delaney. Any middleweight will do."

Judge Landis by ruling that Heinie Groh must stick to the Reds this season knocks out the overdone assertion about the Giants "buying pennants." This is one instance in which John McGraw with all his financial backing was unable to pick a developed diamond star off by getting a chance to overtop the bids of other clubs much more in the need of a Heinie Groh than the Giants. In fact, it has been the other fellow who has been the star, in many instances for McGraw to acquire the player at a fabulous price.

McGraw should take the action of Judge Landis as a tip to develop his own stars and not rely on the other club's good players because he has the money at his command. It is no secret that McGraw, said in some circles to be the brainiest leader in the game, has let more stars get away from him within the past 10 years than a set of caravan camels have toes.

Should be an exciting brush at Newfield Park this afternoon with memories of the Argonne finish made by the Brown Derbies in the Capital City last Friday. If Bridgeport did it on a Friday why not repeat the trick on a 13th?

The Jack Flynn crowd offset its errors by thumping the curves of Leasure. In the fourth inning the visitors negotiated four tallies, three of them earned, on a trio of two-base slams by Wilder, Naughton, Duffy and a single by Silva. It was a perfect batting bee with a keen sting for the local shouters.

Supreme Jinx Supreme. It broke the heart of Leasure and the Sunday jinx stayed. McFarland was clouted for 11 hits, but was air-tight in pinches. Joe Smith being the star-binger of the day, pasting the ball for three successive singles.

The catch of Crowther's long fly in left field by Loftus in the eighth after a third sprint was the dramatic finishing performance of the alleged ball game.

There were also a pair of double executions worthy of mention in which Leasure, Lai and Rodriguez carried off the honors in one, and sixth.

Jimmy McLaughlin showed up with a batting average of .500 for the Jinx Day fete. Jamsey soaked the ball for singles in the second and fifth.

A fine exhibition of foul hitting was contributed by Duffy in the sixth when he lost out on his seventh effort to hit the ball fair.
