PLAN "NATIONAL CANCER" WEEK

New York, Sept. 23.—The American Society for the Control of Cancer, which since its organization in 1912, has been "fighting cancer with facts," sent out from its headquarters, No. 25 West 45th street, New York, announced yesterday an unusual feature of its already remarkable campaign.

This is a "National Cancer Week" which will begin October 30 and end November 5.

The purpose of the effort, the most comprehensive and important in the facts concerning cancer to any persons in the United States and Canada as can be reached, through the professional and lay press, by lectures and by the spread of informative literature. The work will be carried on by the foremost physicians and surgeons in the country who specialize in the control of this dread disease; by state and city health officers and by the public spirited citizens, who have given much of their time and considerable of their money to the movement.

The society's organization is an exceptionally efficient one and the message of "Cancer Week" will be carried to the remotest corners of the country. It includes regional directors, state chairmen and local committees, all working under the direction of Dr. Charles A. Powers, president. Assisting Dr. Powers are such men of note as Dr. Robert Abbe, one of the foremost authorities on cancer in America; Dr. James Ewing, pathologist of Cornell University; Dr. G. E. Armstrong, of Montreal, noted Canadian surgeon; Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; Dr. William C. Cline, of Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Clement Cleveland, for many years head of the Women's Hospital in New York; Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of the Crocker Cancer Research Laboratory, Columbia University and head of the Board of Scientists which aided American women to buy a gram of radium for Mrs. Marie Curie; Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University; Dr. Herman M. Biggs, health commissioner of New York state; Dr. Harvey R. Gayford, of Buffalo, director of the New York State Institute for the Study of Malignant Disease; Dr. Robert G. Greenough, of Boston, director of the Harvard Cancer Commission; and Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation. Drs. Armstrong, Cleveland and Farrand are among the vice presidents of the society.

Among others who are giving a great deal of time and effort to this movement are Mrs. Robert G. Mead, chairman of the society's finance committee and secretary of the Marie Curie radium fund committee; Mrs. Thomas Fortune Ryan, Thomas W. Lamont, V. Everett Macy, Jr., Frederick F. Thompson and James Spencer, of New York; Mrs. George E. Shaw, of Pittsford, and Frederick L. Hoffman of Newark, N. J. The latter is statistician of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and chairman of the society's committee on statistics.

Since its inception the society has maintained that accurate information concerning cancer is the best means known to lower the mortality of this disease. It believed, and it has since been proved, that a large number of cases can be cured if taken in hand early, and the society have been directed toward urging persons to seek competent advice. The instant they receive any warning of the disease, pain by the society's campaign of education. In this follow the society at first met antagonism from that element which conceived of cancer as a disease which could be cured by a single operation and which believe the less said about it the better.

Those interested in this educational movement are aware of the statistics by the fact that during the past three years deaths from cancer have, for the first time in two decades, shown a slight decrease. It does not claim that all this decrease is due to its campaign, but it believes that its campaign has had something to do with it and it intends to push its work in the future even more vigorously than in the past.

Some idea of the ravages of cancer may be had from the fact that it causes ten out of every hundred deaths in this country where the victims are more than 40 years old; that about 85,000 deaths a year are recorded and that the mortality among women is considerably greater than among men. Women are especially susceptible to this disease, but it is gratifying to know that if the symptoms are early recognized a great majority of cases may be cured. Because people are better informed early diagnoses are more common than in the past, and moreover the methods of treatment, which now include radium and the X-ray are becoming more and more efficient and effective.

"National Cancer Week" there will be lectures in New York and other cities by the foremost authorities on cancer, the distribution of numerous articles in the medical and lay press. Nurses organizations, insurance companies, Federations of Women's clubs, Social Service organizations and Trade, Manufacturers and Merchants associations, Labor Unions and Trade Councils will take part. The Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A. and scores of other organizations will give their aid. The meetings

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE

Miss Mary Van Kleeck, Director of Industrial Studies of the Russell Sage Foundation, who has been appointed a member of the United States unemployment conference, which has been called in Washington at the behest of President Harding. The conference will take place beginning September 26.

PARIS PAPERS COMMENT ON CONFERENCE

Paris, Sept. 23.—Newspapers of this city have begun to devote much attention to the conference on limitation of armaments and far eastern questions to be held in Washington, Nov. 1921 and daily publish editorials regarding the meeting. This morning L'Avenir asked if the real reason for General Pershing's visit to this country was not to carry out conversations with French leaders preliminary to the Washington conference, while the address made by Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France at the dinner in honor of General Pershing at the Allied Club last night made a notable impression. Mr. Herrick declared America was devoid of ambition, "but was without fear, confident of her right, but respectful of the rights of others; aiming at justice but never yielding to force in a just cause."

The newspaper Gaulois captioned it: "A significant speech by Mr. Herrick. Other newspapers gave it especial notice in their reports of dinner."

COMMISSION HEARS SIDE OF TROLLEY

Most of the afternoon session of the hearing before the Public Utilities Commission was occupied with speeches in behalf of the trolley company. George D. Watrous, attorney and President Lucien C. Storrs and General Manager Joseph B. Potter of the company's making statements of their side of the issue. The morning had been devoted largely to hearing of those who wanted extensions of the trolley service, and by Mayor Clifford B. Wilson, and additional speakers took up some of the afternoon in further appeals. In all about 250 applications were received by the Commission and Chairman Higgins announced at the end of the meeting that applications and statements could be handed in during the next week, after which time the Commission will announce its decision.

Attorney Watrous stressed the point that the Connecticut company had not been given a fair chance to demonstrate what it could do in the way of giving service under the regulations established in July because the regulations had not been lived up to. He said that he could not understand how the people of Bridgeport could admit that the law had been avoided as they did. Mr. Watrous stated that he believed the trolley could not run eventually on a five cent fare.

He admitted that everyone wants a new trolley, but he ascribed the present rate more to increased costs than to the competition of the buses. He said that the company was not seeking the extermination of the jitneys, but only their regulation; he advocated jitneys running where they would not cut in to the trolley service too much.

Manager Potter of the company, spoke on the subject of contemplated improvements in the trolley service but said that nothing could be done as long as they had to contend with illegal bus competition. He was cross-questioned in detail by Jacob B. Klein, attorney for the jitneys. John J. Egan of the International Association of Machinists, representing 400 members of the Walnut Branch Improvement Association, Mrs. Julia Condon of Devon, member and Mrs. Mary Callahan, representative of 2,000 factory workers, all spoke in favor of the jitneys, particularly stressing the point that the workers can not well afford a ten cent fare.

FROGS, INSECTS AND OTHER ANIMALS AS FILM STARS.

THE FROGS are the ARTISANS

Ask Mr. Raymond L. Dittmars of the New York Zoological Society who, in his opinion, are the best movie actors on the screen, and he will take you to his studio and there introduce to you the most grotesque aggregation of stars you have ever met.

Mr. Dittmars will let you spend a pleasant half hour while Mr. Douglas Flea cavorts on the silver sheet somewhat after the fashion of Fairbanks, and then he will give you a peep at Mr. Charlie Frog, who will convulse you with his funny antics and his particularly funny Chaplinesque feats.

You will see tiny gnats and beetles, beautiful butterflies and grasshoppers, awkward and ungainly elephants, lions, eagles, vultures and even the despised earthworm, give startling exhibitions of their histrionic skill in comedies, dramas and tragedies adapted from the entertaining fables written by Jean La Fontaine more than 300 years ago.

Wherever it was possible, Mr. Dittmars used live subjects. Sometimes he found it impossible to make his actors and actresses take dramatic direction, so he was forced to resort to artificial insects and trick photography.

PRICE ACTS ON PRINCIPLE

Seward H. Price, delegate of the Republican voters of the Third district, claims to be a member of that organization on a matter of principle, and not because of any grudge or grievance. The fact that everyone deemed the operation of the city government extravagant but all were afraid to do anything about it, is apparently the cause of Price's stand.

He described the leaks in the "air tight" Third and told of the remarkable results obtained from the first tent meeting ever attempted in a political, or similar to political gathering, in the history of Bridgeport. Harold E. Woods, of the Bullard Machine & Tool company, was chosen candidate for alderman.

CAPITAL NEXT MEETING PLACE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—Washington, D. C., was selected as the next meeting place of the national conference of Catholic charities, which concluded sessions here yesterday. The Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, D. D., was elected president of the organization.
