FAIR HAVEN NEWS

Rev. Mr. Tullar Prays for Clean Election—Says President Should Not Interfere—Matters Political.

In several of the churches yesterday, the preachers referred to the coming election in their morning prayer, and that God would bless the country in an especial manner the coming week. The topic of the evening sermon by Rev. E. C. Tullar at the East Pearl Street M. E. church was "Make your calling an election sure." In his sermon the preacher emphasized the importance of the electorate and urged every voter to vote for some candidate, tomorrow. He said there were four candidates for president in the field and every man who is entitled to vote should choose one candidate and cast his vote for him.

"I do not feel competent of advising anyone how he should vote," said Mr. Tullar. "Neither do I feel that in the politics of any state there should be any interference by the president, or by anyone in authority," he continued. "With the present established government, are we not safer than we would be in the risking of the control of this country to an experiment?" The sermon, while touching briefly on the coming election in the United States, had more of a spiritual bearing, as indicated by the text from which he spoke. He said that there was only one candidate who could be elected president of this country, but in the great election all could make their calling and election sure. He hoped that all who voted this week would do so with a view of upholding righteousness and truth.

More political matter was distributed to the voters yesterday and those who exercise the franchise will have no lack of ballots from which to choose. There is prospect of a heavy vote in this part of the city. The canvass which started so quietly and which promised to make a campaign with little or no excitement, has been anything but quiet the past week. While the people are greatly interested in the outcome of the presidential election and are very much interested in the result in New York, they have on their hands the most exciting campaign in this state in many years. On this matter of the state campaign, the result on Tuesday night will be awaited with very great and absorbing interest and great crowds of people from this section of the city will go to the center of the town to read bulletin boards and to hear the election returns in other places. Arrangements are to be made to get election returns at several places in Fair Haven. At the engine house on the east side, the firemen and their friends will receive the returns and there is talk of running a wire into the hall of Polar Star lodge, I. O. O. F., so that returns may be received there, the arrangements under the direction of Columbia castle, K. G. E. So far as the election for senators is concerned, it is expected that Major Luzerne Ludington of Fair Haven East will be one of the chosen. In the strong democratic district in which the Eleventh ward is located, the republicans do not expect to win and the re-election of Senator John Stanley seems to be a foregone conclusion.

With all the election excitement, Halloween was not forgotten. The weather on Saturday night was as good Halloween weather as could be wished and the young people were out early and remained late in celebrating the anniversary. Many were garbed in non-descript costumes and wearing masks and they promaded up and down the streets and had loads of fun. There were the usual pranks and sports. Those who did not care for that kind of fun, attended parties which were held by the score in the large Fair Haven district. There were surprise parties and Halloween parties by invitation. There were dances and several of the social organizations observed the evening in ways appropriate to the spirit of Halloween. Each year this anniversary is being more generally celebrated and probably never before on a more liberal scale than last Saturday night.

One of the largest funerals which have taken place in Fair Haven in a long time was that of Mrs. Walter Leigh, attended at her late home, 87 Quinipiac avenue yesterday afternoon. The large residence was crowded to its greatest capacity with relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Brown of Pilgrim church where the deceased was a member. Mr. Brown paid a beautiful tribute to the deceased, speaking of her fine Christian character and of her many fine traits. He also referred to the great loss in her family and in the church, by her death. A quartet consisting of W. S. Moore, Dr. Bradley, John and Stebbins, sang the hymns "Asleep in Jesus," and "Sometime We'll Understand." The interment was in Evergreen cemetery and the hearse was George C. Black, John Thompson, William Curtis, Walter R. Downes, Prof. John Tracey and William Friesbee. There was a great profusion of beautiful floral tributes which completely filled the room where the casket rested. One beautiful piece was a floral blanket of lilacs of the valley spread across the casket. Graham & Hayes had charge of the burial.

Herbert S. Nelson, English street, has gone to Searchlight, Nevada where he has secured a position in mining. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nelson will spend the winter in Newark, N. J.

With the temperatures down in the thirties yesterday morning and the cold wind blowing at a fierce rate, the day out of doors was not very pleasant. The cool weather reminded one that winter is almost here, November certainly can be like a lion.

At the fifth anniversary banquet and entertainment held the past week by the woman's auxiliary of the Annex fire department, mention of which has already been made, two handsome gavels were presented to the society, to be used by the president, Mrs. Ida M. Saunders, at meetings of the auxiliary and in her absence, by the vice president, Mrs. J. Pickett. The gifts were made by the hose company. Each of the gavels was tied with satin ribbon. Each of the diners received a souvenir of the occasion, a Chinese lantern.

Rev. Father Fitzgerald, pastor of St. Rose's church and the committee which had charge of the recent Rosebud Lecture which proved so successful, have issued a statement in which they thank all who assisted in the affair and in making it so great a success. M. J. Connolly was chairman and James Hart secretary of the committee.

The East Pearl street Chautauqua circle will meet at the residence of Mrs. John Weatherwax, 41 Houston street, this evening for reorganization. This circle, which is twenty-five years or more old, has had many members and has been very successful. It has had members from different parts of the city and those who wish to join a Chautauqua circle will be welcome to join this circle. The study this season will be on Germany and also studies in English literature.

Yesterday was communion Sunday in many of the churches. At the Grand avenue Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. Charles G. Smith, had a fine sermon in the morning on "The Christian Sacrament." At the Grand avenue Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Dr. Sneath, preached in the evening on "Victory Over Temptation," and the choir furnished an extra program of music.

Yesterday was All Saints day and there were large congregations at St. Francis' and at St. Rose's R. C. churches. The day was also observed as usual at Grace P. E. and at St. James' P. E. churches, the services having been specially for this religious anniversary. At Grace church the evening sermon was by Rev. W. P. Waterbury of Middletown.

At the Grand avenue Congregational church next Sunday the pastor, Rev. Dr. Sneath, will make an appeal to raise the sum of $500 in floating debt. The finance board wished to raise this sum before the first of the coming year and it is expected that responses next Sunday will be liberal and that the amount will be pledged.

A New England supper will be given by the ladies' aid society in the chapel of Grand avenue Baptist church Wednesday at 5:30 o'clock.

Flat Foot (Broken Down Arch) Corrected.

Demonstration By Foot Specialist, Shoe Section.

THE ANATOMIK SHOE is built like the right Suspension Bridge. The length in three parts, each part bearing an equal portion of weight. The ANATOMIK Shoe has the sole space split equally, 1-3 for heel, 1-3 for shank, 1-3 for toe. The ordinary shoe develops flat foot—"broken down arch"—wrong construction and imperfect distribution of weight. The ANATOMIK corrects, cures, and prevents "flat foot". Your foot troubles will be over in a jiffy with the first pair of ANATOMIK Shoes. Don't try "arch props"; fine 'em worse than "flat foot". Come and talk your foot troubles over with the ANATOMIK expert.

ONE difference between an Anatomik shoe and an ordinary shoe is indicated by the above cuts. The dots at which the arrows point indicate the spot where the line of body weight falls. In the Anatomik shoe it falls in the corner of the heel, which is one of its many patented features. In other shoes, it falls at a point where absolutely no support is provided. The cuts also show that a foot entering an Anatomik shoe pursues a straight line from heel to toe and does not have to twist to accommodate itself to the two axes of the ordinary shoe.

As Through a Shop Window

A pretty Gibson collar of ecru net is embroidered in deep pink and green and finished with a ruching of ecru net.

Embroidered ruffles in black, white and colors, four and one-half yards in length, are shown in the lining department. They are intended for making petticoats and are a saving of time to the woman who does her own sewing.

The small plaited belt with the square buckle at the front shows a small ruffle at each side of the buckle, from which extends a short ribbon end, finished with a tassel. It can be worn as a dressy addition to an evening skirt.

Persian metallic ribbons are most fascinating, the oriental colorings being over-spread with a high sheen of gold, which gives body as well as lustre to the ribbon. Most fetching are these used either for hat trimmings or as sashes and girdles.

For the cold winter days instead of a fur scarf there is a new muffler of knitted silk which fits snugly around the throat, and the ends lie smoothly over the chest. The purchaser can be as fastidious as he chooses in the selection of the color, for they come in all the desirable shades.

At little cost one can have a neat glass bathroom shelf made with nickel or porcelain brackets to hold the collection of bottles, brushes and salve pots that the modern woman includes among her toilet requisites. These shelves are sold in an assortment of sizes and are made of thick plain glass with rounded corners. A few of the self-labeled drug and toilet bottles that are now offered at prices ranging from 25 cents up will be useful to hold toilet water, tooth wash and the other essential aids to cleanliness and daintiness.

An all beechwood trunk is now being offered in some of the shops with the assurance that it will positively withstand the rough usage of much travel. These trunks come in three sizes and are they rounded corners, which are neither painted nor fancifully decorated, but the plain and heavy sections of wood are finished naturally with more wood braces and brass re-enforcements. Even the trays are of beechwood overlaid on both sides with small patterned linen in tan or gray. They are comparatively light and look as if they would stand a good deal of hard wear and tear.
