QUEER OLD NATURE.

"Why is it," asked a wondering child "Why is it," asked a wondering child (Sweet, simple little thing),
"That the foolish tree puts on its clothes
When the sun shines in the spring,
And then, when chilly autumn comes
And the winds of winter blow,
Why does it stand out there, all bare,
In the frost and sleet and snow?"

"Wise nature has arranged it thus," I told the little one,
"The rustling leaves can only live Beneath a smiling sun; The tree that in the summer time Makes shady bowers for you Must have its rest, therefore it stands Asleep the winter through."

She sat in silence for awhile
And gazed far into space,
And lines of thought and trouble came
To mar her childish face,
And so, at last, she turned and said: "I'm sorry for the tree, And glad that nature wasn't left hit things with her projectiles Jacky has become a specialist in getting that work out of her. He does it in two of the year it was customary for court places—at the guns and at the engines. Correctly pointed guns are of no use unless the platform on which they rest is put in proper relation to the thing to be hit and kept there. Equally it is useless to get the ship into proper place unless the guns are correctly pointed. Men who can do either of these things must have natural capacities and be susceptible to education, and only men of this sort are eligible for our navy.

To fix things up for me!"

Accordingly the "beach comber," or the "rock scorpion," or any other variety of that ruck of marine refuse which drifts around the great maritime ports and ships in any craft where 'grub" is plenty and work light, no onger slings his hammock on Uncle Sam's berth deck, as he used to do, to the shame of the service, in years gone by. Treble the number of men seem to be required to work the same caliber of though there is no special reason for this, unless it be due to the fact that the army guns are mounted on disappearing carriages and are not provided with turrets, which naturally limits the space of the operators. An army 8 inch gun takes 15 men to work it; a 10 inch gun requires 18 men, and a 12 inch gun, the largest now constructed by the army, calls for 21 men.

It will be seen, therefore, that a 13 inch naval gun is operated by six men, while an army gun of one inch less caliber calls for 21 men. The navy gun can be fired just as rapidly with its six men forgotten. as the army gun can be fired with its larger number. - Boston Herald.
