FOR THE SALVATION ARMY.

What promises to be the last big drive for funds that will be sprung on the people of Ottawa the present season is now underway—that of the Salvation Army. In spite of the fact that subscriptions in the past have been liberal, it is to be hoped that something has been held in reserve for this cause.

The Salvation Army does a work peculiar to itself. It goes out into the highways and byways seeking whom it may help physically, mentally and morally. It has been the last hope and resort of many a man and woman who was "down and out". Except in the instance of holding its religious meetings on the streets, its work is quiet and unostentatious, but its charities from day to day would surprise the uninitiated. Charity is bestowed only after personal investigation and so secretly that many an impoverished mother with children will accept aid from the Salvation Army when pride would compel her to refuse it from any other source. The close personal investigation and the methods employed enable the Army to give true aid without pauperizing, one of the tenets of the organization being that a man or woman must work and earn if possible, and as soon as he or she is able, must help in aiding some other unfortunate.

During the World War the Salvation Army came into its own. Its workings were never so well comprehended before nor was the complete unselfishness of the organization so well understood or appreciated. During and after this great struggle complaints came about this or that organization to whom a generous public contributed, but never a word of criticism that the Salvation Army had fallen down on any part of its work or in any section. It was found at training camps, in the trenches and in the hospitals, doing its best to relieve suffering and to cheer up the sick, wounded and disheartened. Many phases of that great tragedy are drifting into the past and may well be forgotten, so far as possible, but the work of the Salvation Army "over there" will never depart from the memory of many a "buddy" who found one of its members or one of its stations when he needed it most.

The present drive has for one of its objects assistance in erecting a home on a piece of property the Army has acquired on La Salle street, the building of which will enable it to enlarge its field of usefulness and do more for Ottawa and this vicinity.

It is recognized that many have already given "until it hurts", but it is to be hoped that all will dig once more for the upkeep of what is probably the world's greatest organization for charity and the moral rescue of fallen humanity.

MINERS ARE MEETING PRESENT COAL DEMANDS.

October weather which would do credit to an average August has been the means of making optimists of thousands of coal consumers. Either the mild weather or some favorable condition of trade has brought the general production of coal in the country to equal the needs of the general public, according to the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. But while the production of coal, both bituminous and anthracite, is said to be equivalent to the daily demand of the middle western states, it has not been in such quantities as to permit of meeting the full requirements of the northwest, nor to replenish the depleted stocks of industrial and domestic consumers. In Illinois production has increased but slightly, and the car supply is still insufficient to cover the demands on the mines. Government authorities are exerting their influence to have railroads arrange their service so that they may be able to meet the requirements which are sure to arise, sooner or later, when cold weather sets in and the householders increase their orders for fuel.

The increased production and distribution of coal has had but little, if any, effect on retail prices, the consumer paying about the same as was demanded of him months ago when the strike was in effect. The material advantage that has been gained lies in the banishment of the fear that an early winter would find the country actually suffering from cold. But even that condition has not been made impossible by the resumption of mining, for the report of the bank is to the effect that the amount produced is insufficient to admit of replenishing the greatly reduced stocks which resulted from five months of idleness at the mines. The government's committee of inquiry into the mining situation may be in a position to advise a course that will help future emergencies, but it is scarcely probable that any report it may make will help to keep the fires burning in the stoves and furnaces of the American homes during the severely cold weather of the coming winter. That which is required is more action and less talk.

TODAY'S MARKETS

GRAIN VALUES HELD DOWN IN TODAY'S SALES

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Scattered commission house buying, together with lack of demand, proved sufficient to hold down values in the wheat market today during the early dealings. Apparent stoppage of export buying counted in particular as a bearish influence. The fact that the Liverpool quotations displayed no new signs was also a subject of comment. Initial prices here, which ranged from 1/2c to 3/4c lower, December $1.14 1/2 to $1.14 3/4 and May $1.12 1/2 to $1.13, were followed by a slight rally and then a fresh decline.

Expectation of enlarged receipts of corn acted as a weight both on corn and oats prices. After opening 1/2c to 3/4c off, December 66 1/2c to 66 3/4c, the corn market continued to sag.

Oats started unchanged to 1/4c lower, December 41 1/4c to 41 1/2c, and later descended a little all around.

Provisions had a downward drift in response to lower hog values.

Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 31.—Early gains ranging from 1 to 4 points were largely cancelled later when heavy selling of Studebaker, which dropped more than 2 points, a reflection of speculative disappointment that the directors had failed to declare another extra dividend today, and market weakness in domestic oils, turned prices downward again just before noon. May Department Stores, however, had extended its gain to 10 points, before acute weakness set in throughout the entire list. Burns & A. Products and Refiners, Tidewater, Associated, Pacific and Phillips Petroleum all dropped 1 to 2 points. Weakness also cropped out in a number of special issues. General American Tank Car declined 4 1/2, Delaware and Hudson, 3; National Biscuit and American Steel Foundry preferred, 2 1/2 each, and American Staff, 2. Call money opened at 5 per cent.

Poultry.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Poultry—Alive lower; fowls, 13-15c; turkeys, 25c; springs, 17c; roosters, 14c; geese, 15c.

Live Stock.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Hogs—Receipts, 39,000 head; held over, 7,639; very slow; practically no trading; $8.50 paid for choice 200 pound average; quality fairly good; average cost yesterday, $8.25.

Bishop Visits St. Andrew's. The visitation of Bishop Anderson at St. Andrew's, Farm Ridge, was, as is always the case, looked forward to not only by parishioners but the people of the community as well. Bishop Anderson took for his text "Bring up a child in the way he should go." At the conclusion of the services a recess of ten minutes was held, giving all an opportunity to personally greet the bishop. The latter during his address paid a very fitting tribute to Rev. N. B. Quigg for the great work he was doing in and for the community, especially among the children, and urged that the parents and adults cooperate with him. After the recess a parish meeting was held, at which reports of the church were given, which were exceptionally good. A move is on foot for the erection of a parish house or community center. This was also presented to the bishop, who expressed himself as especially interested in the talked of building. St. Andrew's has always been one of the bishop's loved parishes it being the only rural church in the diocese of Chicago. He encouraged the people of the community to carry on and appreciate the work that those who had left bequests had so hoped to see come to pass. There was a good congregation present.
