cratic party during the fall cam-

month.

The original navel orange tree brought from Brazil more than 100 years ago and is now in a greenhouse of the department of agriculture in Washington.

The long-lasting little flowers called "immortelles" in France, orating soldiers' graves.

Three Ways to Greatness

BY MR. JAMES I. WILSON, (Founder of East-Church Wood Movement and Chairman Federal Council of Churches of America.)

There are three ways to grow great.

There is the method of accretion.
There are people who grow as a snowball grows—by what sticks to them. They are great in proportion to their possessions. They are distinguished by reason of their things.

It was the method of the rich fool, who had so much that he had to increase his storage place. Having done so, he said to his soul: "Thou hast much goods laid up for many years. Take thine ease." But instead of being on Easy Street he was on Judgment Day Avenue, for God said to him: "This night thy soul shall be required of thee." He owned everything but his soul.

Then there is the method of inflation. There are people who grow as a football grows. They are great in proportion to their self-esteem.
They are swollen with conceit, puffed up with hot air. A puncture brings on a fatal collapse. It is people who have achieved greatness by inflation of whom the apostle speaks when he says: "If a man thinketh himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself." It is a laconic way of calling such a man a fool. And so the rich fool with the big barn and the little soul is not the only fool.

Then there is the method of evolution. There are people who grow as a tree grows—from within outwards. They are great in proportion to their convictions. They are distinguished not because of what they have, but because of what they are.

It is of this way to greatness that the apostle writes when he says: "Add to your faith virtues; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity. For if these things be in you and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful."

Neither this world nor the next calls the man who is great in this way a fool.

Today's Events

Vermont keeps a holiday today in celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington.
Duluth today will begin a golden jubilee festival in celebration of its 50th anniversary as a city.
James Wilson, for 16 years secretary of agriculture of the United States, celebrates his 50th birthday today.

Wholesale country dealers from many parts of the United States, Canada and other countries begin an international convention at St.
Louis today.

In the Day's News

James Wilson, former secretary of agriculture of the United States, who reaches the four-score-and-five today, has the distinction of having served the longest term on record of any cabinet official. On March 5, 1897, he entered the first cabinet of President McKinley and continued to serve through the administrations of Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, until March 5, 1912.

After a life spent variously as a farmer, as a teacher, as a state and national legislator, and as a cabinet officer, this native Scotchman and great American is spending his declining years in the quiet of his home farm in Iowa. During the 16 years that Mr. Wilson was at its head the department of agriculture grew and prospered. Its growth and prosperity were not, of course, due solely to him, but his is the credit for his right leadership. He has been a long day, a well filled day and a day which has been a good one for the country of his adoption.
