The Model shoe store, near Harper house, is closing out to quit business; must vacate store at once. Now is the time to secure bargains in shoes.

Make every purchase count. A purchase of Rock Island soap of any brand counts three times: Once for good work, once for premiums and once for the good of our town.

The Model shoe store's closing out sale is drawing immense crowds of purchasers. The manager has secured extra help and will try to get everyone waited on promptly.

One of the handsomest styles ever turned out by the Rock Island Shoe company is that new line of $2 black kid shoes. All widths from AA to E at Hurst's, he cuts the price, opposite Harper house.

Hans Kruse, of Davenport, employed in Moline, while on his way to work this morning, was struck by an eastbound Rock Island freight train at Fifteenth street in Moline. He was thrown a considerable distance, but escaped any serious injury.

Says a lady patron: "Ever since our boy has worn trousers I have bought his clothes at M. & K. Never missed it but once, and if I could be forgiven for this time will promise never to go outside of M. & K. for clothing."

Every day the M. & K. store draws closer to the hearts of the people. Their honorable business methods and superior qualities does the work. People have grown tired of snide clothing, and when wanting up-to-date, reliable merchandise, the reliable M. & K. is the place to get it.

Word was received today that Judge Kohlsaat, in the United States court at Peoria, had decided in favor of J. & M. Rosenfield, of this city, for whom Hon. E. W. Hurst was attorney in an action instituted against the firm by the Dubuque Harness and Saddlery company. The case was the outcome of some sub-let Rock Island arsenal contract work.

Names of Litigants.

In an old Indiana case a man named Shallcross undertook to live up to his name by running an unlawful ferry, but the decision of the court said to him, "You shall not cross."

The name of an adopted citizen of the Chickasaw Nation, whose adoption was canceled and who was thereupon expelled, was Run Hannah.

A California woman who said in her will, "I have no fear of the hereafter; O my Lord, teach me to live right, then in dying there is no sting," bore the prophetic Christian name of Euthanasia.

The name Dr. Physick, which might be looked for in some allegory, appears as the name of a real person in a recent law report.

Some peculiarly suggestive combinations of names in the titles of cases are these: People versus Kaiser, Priest versus Lackey, Kick versus Merry, Protected Home Circle versus Winter, Grant versus Lockout Mountain Company.

In reminiscences of the early Minnesota bar Judge Charles E. Flandrau tells in the Minnesota Law Journal of an argument before the supreme court in 1853 by ex-Chief Justice Goodrich on behalf of an Indian convicted of murder. The Indian's name was Zu-ai-za, but as the counsel could not pronounce it he always referred to him in his argument as "my client, Ahasuerus."—Case and Comment.

The Inexpressible Small Boy.

This is a true story, and it really happened in a New York family. It looks as if it might be an old story brought up to date or renovated for the occasion, but it is exactly as the small boy arranged it and not to the edification of his family. The small boy was very fond of ice cream. It never cloyed his palate. It was with the same delight that he saw it each time brought on the table, and upon each of these times he showed the exuberance of his feelings by crying in rapturous tones: "Oh-o-o! Ice cream! Ice cream! Ice cream!" much to his mamma's annoyance.

"People will think we never have ice cream or anything else to eat," she said to her son one day. "Now, we are going to have company to dinner tonight, and I don't want you to say a word when the ice cream is brought on." The small boy promised. He really was a good little boy, and he intended to mind. But when the cream was brought on the old feeling of rapture was so strong that he forgot entirely and cried out as usual. Then he remembered and stopped short, looking very repentant. He had not intended to call out, and his mother was mortified. He changed his tone entirely.

"We have ice cream almost every night," he remarked carelessly.—New York Times.

Your Money Back If Dissatisfied

Is practiced here to the letter, as well as preached continuously. Other stores have taken up the watchword, and if they practice what they preach, some of them will find the practice more difficult than the preaching when applied to ordinary clothing.

"Your money back if dissatisfied" is a safe policy only when it is fully intended and when the goods to which it is applied are made and priced so as to be absolutely sure of giving satisfaction.

How much ready-to-wear clothing in Rock Island justifies the use of that maxim, and how few of the stores which, parrot-like, copy the phrase give back money cheerfully, without making a desperate fight to retain it by hook or crook?

"Your money back if dissatisfied" means here that we want the goods back if they should prove unsatisfactory, because we could less afford to have them working against our future market than we could afford to promptly refund the money.
