HIS PECULIAR CASE

Arthur Withrow, Taken With Hiccoughs Three Months Ago, at Point of Death.

COMPLICATIONS HAVE DEVELOPED

Rendered Unconscious in Attempting to Rise Last Evening.

Arthur Withrow, the well-known conductor on the Fourth avenue street car line, is lying at the point of death at his home, 3014 Fifth avenue. He was taken ill nearly three months ago and in a most unusual manner.

While apparently well and able to attend to his duties he became afflicted with hiccoughs and in a short time he was compelled to take to his bed. For days the physicians attending him were unable to cope with the ailment, but at length the hiccoughs were gotten under control. About this time an abscess of the liver developed and this was also apparently about cured a couple of weeks ago.

Internal Troubles. Lately the patient has been feeling quite well, but last evening he attempted to rise and was at once rendered unconscious, supposedly as the result of some internal derangement.

HEAT WITHOUT COAL:

SUPPLIED BY SUN'S POWER

Springfield News: The scenes of suffering witnessed during the coal famine of this winter should stimulate inventors to solve the problem of heating cities without coal. A gentleman who has been making some observations on the coal supply of Illinois said that he did not expect the price of coal to the consumer to be less than it is now, but rather more. He declares that vast as the deposits of coal seem to be in this vicinity they are being worked out to a degree that will soon increase the difficulty and cost of mining to an extent that will put the price up much higher than it is at present. In a conversation on this subject between this gentleman and a stranger at the Lealand hotel, the latter said: "It is not too much to hope that some system of heating by the simple use of the sun's energy will be discovered before long that will be much cheaper, more effective, more cleanly and altogether more durable than the use of coal. I don't know how it is going to be done, but I think we will live to see it that all public and private buildings will be heated in this way, and it may be that cities will be able to collect and distribute heat just as they do water for a nominal charge. It would be a grand thing to have it so, for much suffering among the poor could be relieved. I have no doubt that even streets could be so heated as to prevent the accumulation of ice and snow upon them, and that in many public places warm quarters could be provided for those who have no homes."

"Leaving out of the question the possibility of the coal supply running short the question of transportation is becoming a serious one through the tremendous increase of traffic of all kinds over our railroads, due to the growth of population. The invention of some such method of adapting and using the sun's heat as I have mentioned would make it possible to obtain the desired results at practically the same cost in all localities, regardless of the local conditions as to fuel supply."

"I hope to see the inventive faculties of our thinkers brought to bear upon those things which will result in making it impossible for some men to traffic in the necessities of others, and will make it possible for all the people, rich and poor, to enjoy food, water, warmth and comfort practically free of cost. It is horrible to think that helpless women and children are freezing to death for want of a little coal and that men are enabled to control the miserable dale of fuel that they need to keep life in their bodies and to charge prohibitive prices for it. I believe one of the problems that the twentieth century is to solve is that of bringing the necessities of life, warmth, food and shelter within the reach of everybody. No, I am not a socialist, only so far as that goes. I believe after we have done that much we can find some way of making the miserable loafers and tramps who want to monopolize the good things of earth earn their board and lodging and fire."

MARRIES AND DIES

Edward J. Malone Passes Away an Hour After His Wedding.

NORA ADDRESS IS THE BRIDE

Deceased Said to Have Been Heir to a Large Estate in Ireland.

Death came to a bridegroom of an hour at 2109 Third avenue last evening. Edward J. Malone was married at 5:20 to Nora Address and at 7 o'clock he passed away. The story is a strange one and sad.

Malone, who had been in the city several months, was 58 years of age. His occupation was given as that of doctor and he boarded at the above number, where Miss Address kept a lodging house.

He was a large and portly man and was never while here in very good health. Last Sunday he was overcome by a fainting spell and a physician was summoned. It was found that the patient was suffering with fatty degeneration of the heart and he was told that he could not live many days. Since Sunday he had been confined to his bed, but he had steadily insisted that he would recover.

Decide to Marry.

Soon after coming here an attachment formed between himself and his landlady and yesterday they decided that they would marry. The bride-to-be personally procured the license and at 5 o'clock Justice McFarlane was called to the house to perform the ceremony. Mr. Malone was confined to his bed during the ceremony and was unable to speak, signifying his assent to the questions asked him by signs alone.

Soon after the ceremony he lapsed into unconsciousness and at 7 o'clock he passed peacefully away. Deceased was a native of Dublin, Ireland, where, report has it, he is one of the heirs to a large estate. Little is known here concerning his past life. He was married once previously and his first wife is understood to be dead. He claimed to have no immediate relatives. Mrs. Malone was formerly Mrs. St. Clair, but secured a divorce a couple of years ago and was allowed to resume her maiden name. She is 45 years of age and has grown children.

A post mortem examination is to be held over the remains.

FARMERS' SCHOOL

Successful Institute Brought to Close Yesterday at Edgington.

INTERESTING PAPERS ARE READ

Addresses by Prominent Agricultural Men--Officers for Year.

The Rock Island County Farmers' institute closed at Edgington yesterday one of the most successful sessions ever held in the county. The meeting began Wednesday morning and ended at noon yesterday. The attendance was unusually large, including a number of prominent farmers from Mercer county.

Wednesday's program opened with prayer by Rev. T. R. Johnson, of Edgington. Dr. A. J. Miller then welcomed the visitors and the response was made by President W. H. Ashdown, of Port Byron. The subject for the morning discussion was "Up-to-date Farming--What It Will Do for the Farmer," by E. N. Cobb, of Monmouth, director of the institutes for this congressional district.

Papers on Stock Raising.

In the afternoon stock raising was the topic for consideration, and good papers were read by S. L. Woodburn, of Port Byron, and Willard Farmer, of Edgington, on "Hogs;" by C. A. Bopes, of Hamlet, on "Cattle," and by W. H. Weeks, of Edgington, on "Horses."

"How to Keep Children on the Farm" was the subject of an address in the evening by E. N. Cobb and "Instruction in Agriculture in the Rural Schools" was treated by Prof. Frank Hall, of Aurora, ex-superintendent of the state institute for the blind. There was music and a recitation by Mrs. A. J. Miller.

Officers Elected.

The closing session yesterday morning was devoted to the business of the institute and to a most interesting and instructive discussion of "Corn Culture" by Dr. C. G. Hopkins, of the State Agricultural college, at Urbana. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President--Frank A. Wood, Edgington.

Vice President--W. H. H. Dow, Hampton.

Secretary--A. Saddoris, Port Byron.

Executive Committee--H. B. Carpenter, S. J. Ferguson, W. H. Ashdown.

OBITUARY RECORD.

The funeral of Enoch Wilson, of Rural, will be held from the home at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning instead of at 2 in the afternoon, as stated in yesterday's Argus.

Police Points

John Kennedy, of this city, who was engaged in doing a plumbing job at the plant of the Standard Table Oilcloth company in the west end of the city, was arrested last evening on complaint of City Plumbing Inspector Yerbury for working without a certificate from the examiners and at a hearing before Magistrate Johnson he was fined $10 and costs.

A watch which it appears was stolen from the Commercial house a few weeks ago was yesterday located by the proprietor, J. P. Sexton, at the pawn shop of J. M. Siegel, on Twentieth street, and Constable Goldberg secured its return to the owner on a writ of replevin issued out of Justice McFarlane's court. The pawnbroker bought the watch from a stranger.

SMALL MORNING FIRE

IS CAUSED BY A SPARK

Sparks from the chimney set fire to the kitchen roof of the residence of Mrs. J. W. Potter, 721 Seventeenth street, at 10:30 this morning. Neighbors noticed the blaze, and the fire department being summoned quickly, the fire was extinguished with minimal damage. The sparks are believed to have been caused by the burning of the greenery that was used for Christmas decorations, which was consumed in the grate. The loss is covered by insurance.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.
