PRISONER IS DEAD

Frank Owens, Awaiting Action of Grand Jury, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

DIES AT THE HOSPITAL

Confined in Default of $300 Bond to Answer Charge of Larceny—Home in Davenport.

Frank Owens of Davenport, under bonds to the grand jury for the theft of a coat from the front of Johnny Jones' second hand store, died at St. Anthony's hospital yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Owens was taken ill at the county jail, where he had been confined since Jan. 30 in default of the $300 bonds required, and Thursday was removed to St. Anthony's hospital. He was suffering from pneumonia, and the effect of his confinement in the overcrowded jail made his condition more serious. When Sheriff Kittleson called the attention of the board of supervisors to the condition of the jail Thursday, he mentioned the case of Owens, the prisoner then having a temperature of 105 degrees. The county physician, Dr. C. J. Rochow, who attended Owens, states that one of the worst features of the jail is the lack of ventilation in the cells, and that this is particularly serious in cases of even slight illness.

Home in Davenport.
Owens was a stepson of Paul Stringer of Davenport. He gave his name, when he was arrested, as Bert Bloomington, and his home as Sioux City. He was about 24 years of age. He served a term in the Iowa reform school, being sent there in 1901.
