AUTO IN SAHARA DESERT.

First Trip Excited Genuine Curiosity. Arab Chief Delighted With a Ride. The first automobile journey in the Sahara desert was recently made by Edward E. Ayer of the Field museum, in Chicago, and Mrs. Ayer. Among the incidents was the acquaintance of the chief of nomads, who was given a seat in the car to insure pacific relations to Algeria. After skirting northern Africa Mr. Ayer says:

"We kept our course south over the desert to the oasis of Biskra, where we found growing 100,000 date palms. At Biskra began the 150 mile trip toward the heart of the desert. Over the barren desert we urged our car to Toungat. "This journey over the sands and rocks was a pioneering effort, so far as a big touring car was concerned. We were forced to carry strips of matting, each thirty feet in length, which could be stretched before the machine when we came to reaches of soft sand. "The automobile excited the most genuine curiosity. I remember in particular one Arab chief who rode for a long time on his beautiful horse at the side of the car. His hand followed not far in the rear. Finally we suggested that he dismount and ride with us. This he did with every display of pleasure. We speeded the car along, and he grinned with all the delight of a child grasping a new toy."

Pleasures of Trout Fishing. Catching trout is not the only thing that makes fishing a mountain stream worth while. The early morning ride to the place where you are to commence your day's sport is in itself pleasant to a degree wholly missed by those who take their rides later in the day. During the early hours of the day the air is fresh and invigorating. Every leaf and spear of grass by the roadside sparkles with dew, and the forest is pungent with pleasant and health giving odors that are dispelled as the sun rises above the treetops and dries the moisture on leaf and twig. As you drive quietly along you may have the good fortune to see a deer browsing in a roadside clearing. He stands watching you for a moment or two, then turns quickly and with graceful leaps disappears among the trees. An old fox steps out into the road and trots boldly along ahead of you for some distance, but when he discovers that you are gaining on him he turns for an instant, shows his teeth with a snarl and then slinks away into the bushes. Farther along a partridge with her brood of chicks has also ventured out into the road, and when she, too, discovers that you are drawing uncomfortably near there is a great to do. With outspread wings and uttering the plaintive cry made by a mother partridge when she believes her young to be in danger, she hastily collects the members of her family and leads and drives them back into the security of the woods.—Outing Magazine.
