A FRIGHTFUL FATE.

An Unknown Man Mangled on the Track. Run Over by a R. I. & P. Locomotive and Killed Almost Instantly—The Coroner's Inquest—Who Was He?

One more unfortunate, unknown, unwept and unwarmed has gone to his doom—a terrible death by means of the merciless locomotive. At about 5:40 last evening a man whose identity has not up to this writing been established, was run over and frightfully mangled, death ensuing instantly, on the R. I. & P. tracks just west of Seventeenth street by engine No. 4 of that road.

The man was discovered by Yardmaster Hardy Hetter and brakeman Wm. Dowton of the C. B. & Q. The latter having witnessed the accident, and Mr. Hetter notified the police station and Coroner Hawes. The latter ordered the remains to be taken in charge by Undertaker Clough to whose establishment they were taken and an examination was made for something to establish the man's identity, but nothing could be found.

The body was discovered by Yardmaster Hardy Hetter and brakeman Wm. Dowton of the C. B. & Q. The latter having witnessed the accident, and Mr. Hetter notified the police station and Coroner Hawes. The latter ordered the remains to be taken in charge by Undertaker Clough to whose establishment they were taken and an examination was made for something to establish the man's identity, but nothing could be found.

Hardy Hetter, yardmaster of the C. B. & Q., testified to seeing two men, one ahead of the other, hurrying in the direction of the approaching R. I. & P. engine, and he thought they were going to jump on the engine and ride up to the depot. Afterward he did not see them, and thought they did not have time to get across in front of the locomotive and he concluded they had crossed in safety.

Dr. Thomas Galt testified to the nature of the injuries. The verdict of the jury was that the deceased was an unknown man, whose death was occasioned by being run over by "Peoria engine No. 4, on the 15th of October, at 5:30 p. m. in the city of Rock Island."

Run Over by a R. I. & P. Locomotive and Killed Almost Instantly—The Coroner's Inquest—Who Was He? Yesterday morning an apparently well to do and responsible young lady applied to Mr. W. P. Tindall's livery barn on Third avenue for a horse and buggy, promising to return the same in the afternoon. She was given the outfit, consisting of a dapple-gray horse and side-bar buggy. So far the rig has not been returned, and Mr. Tindall is informed that it was being crossed by the government bridges late last night. This morning Mr. Tindall and Marshal Miller visited Davenport and made a search of the town, but got no trace of the outfit, except that one answering the description had been seen going out towards Buffalo. The marshal and Mr. Tindall have gone in that direction in pursuit.

The Libbie Conger will continue in the Rock Island, Davenport and St. Louis trade until the close of navigation, leaving here every Tuesday afternoon. Capt. Lon Bryan is in St. Louis. It is reported that his errand there is to dispose of the White Eagle, which he accompanied on her departure from here several days ago.

In the circuit court this morning a jury brought in a verdict for the face value of a promissory note of Howe against Munger—$1,160. This afternoon the damage case of Caroline Deas against the city of Rock Island is on.

Another lot of those fine black ostrich tips—three in bunch—25 cents a bunch at McCabe Bros. during their millinery display. First come, first choice.

Nothing will so soon make a person hot as cold treatment.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

The Gates as a Device in the Interest of Public Safety—Until the Viaduct is Built Provide the Next Best Thing.

The Union in its clearly obstinate and entirely unreasonable opposition to the gates at the railroad crossings, not only at Eighteenth, but now at Twenty-fourth also, holds that as there is a good prospect of the viaduct being built within the next year, there is no necessity for the gates. This seems to be the extent of the final exertion on the part of the morning organ in its opposition to a project clearly in the interests of public safety. Its opposition to the gates is not to be so greatly wondered at. It was to be expected. The aldermen, as has before been frequently stated, expected to meet it, and they would expect to meet it the very instant they made a move in favor of the viaduct. It is an opposition wholly without foundation, and prompted solely by a spirit of "backing" characteristic of its course in all matters of this kind.

But in its kindly excuse for not ordering the gates. There is no absolute certainty that the viaduct will be built next season, though a most strenuous effort will be made to secure it, and thanks will be returned to the merciful powers if it is secured. But even in the face of the determined attempt to have the viaduct built the coming season, the gates should nevertheless be erected as a means of safety meanwhile, and the Union whose hostility was at first confined to those at Eighteenth street and has since been transferred to the Twenty-fourth street gates too, cannot sway the aldermen in their plain duty. If there is any opposition beyond that herein alluded to, it does not come from the railroads, as both the C. R. I. & P. and C. B. & Q. have confessed the danger, especially at Twenty-fourth street, and are willing to put in the gates as soon as the council orders them.

While last night's terrible fatality did not occur at either Eighteenth or Twenty-fourth street, it would have been prevented by gates at Seventeenth street, and although this is not a street so frequently crossed as the other two, and protections are not so absolutely necessary, yet such a catastrophe is all the more apt to happen at either of the streets. Give us the gates and insure safety for the present, and during the winter let us make a united effort for the viaduct.

The gorgeous banner presented to Everts Commandery No. 18, Knights Templar soon after the return of the commandery from the triennial convocation at St. Louis, by the ladies who accompanied the gallant Sir Knights on that memorable pilgrimage, appears not only to be a thing of beauty, but a joy forever to the commandery—a subject of universal admiration wherever it is exhibited. The Washington, D. C. Evening Star of Oct. 5, says of it:

Everts Commandery No. 18, of Rock Island, Ill., have with them a beautiful banner made by the ladies who took part in the pilgrimage of the commandery to the St. Louis convocation in 1886 and presented by them to the commandery. One side is composed of badges secured by the ladies in St. Louis. The members of the commandery are very proud of their banner, and it was in the opinion of many, the handsomest in the parade. It was frequently applauded by the bystanders during the march.

It cannot be said that the Davenport dude in any more absent-minded than those of his class in any other city. Yet there is a representative of the means attachment to society in that city, who has displayed it to a rather marked degree according to the Tribune, which says: "A young gentleman of this city, well known for his 'dudish' manners carried considerable meridian in a street car some time ago. He entered the car and sat down with a self-complacent smile and looked around with an air which said, 'am I not just too elegant for anything?'"

Still at Work at Johnston. A private letter from Clara Barton, who is still engaged at Johnston, reiterates the thanks of the American National Red Cross, and the suffering people there for the prompt generosity of Davenport people. She says the number consigned from this place was the first on the ground. Part was used by the military authorities and the balance went into the headquarters of the society from which the distribution of goods has been going on ever since the flood—the remainder entered into the construction of buildings for the shelter of unfortunate ones from whom all was away. The immediate effects of the flood are still fearfully apparent, and much relief work must be done, but added to this distress is the fearful epidemic of typhoid fever, which is now prevailing at Johnston. The Red Cross has done much work at that place but much still remains to be done.—Davenport Democrat-Gazette.

Use from 300 to 500 bushels of shelled corn on my farm every year, and I regard the fodder as worth nearly as much as the corn. As soon as the ears are well glazed the corn is cut and the stalks are put on a dump cart and hauled to a lot near the barn and shocked. Use what is called a corn horse for shocking—a pole from the woods, some sixteen feet long, and through the butt hole two holes and insert legs, raising this end about four feet from the ground. Then bore a hole horizontally three or four feet from this end large enough to insert a grand fork opening. We will show all the latest styles from London and Paris for the season of 1889-90. Seal jackets, walking coats, sacques, mantles and new markets. On dates only, we draw the corn horse and assume the sale prices. An experienced furrier will be in attendance to take measures for garments to be made to order, when necessary. ANY of the samples will be for sale. Inspection is urgently solicited. Remember the dates. Respectfully, W. S. CAMERON & SONS, Hars and furniture store below Third street, Davenport.

Of Davenport, May to the Ladies of Rock Island and vicinity—That on October 18 and 19, Friday and Saturday of this coming week, we will give a grand fair opening. We will show all the latest styles from London and Paris for the season of 1889-90. Seal jackets, walking coats, sacques, mantles and new markets. On dates only, we draw the corn horse and assume the sale prices. An experienced furrier will be in attendance to take measures for garments to be made to order, when necessary. For the next 34 hours for Illinois: Light rain; cooler.

CRYSTAL JOY.

Happy Celebration of the Fifteenth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ferguson—An Interesting Event.

The delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ferguson, Seventh avenue and Twenty-first street, was last evening the scene of a brilliant gathering and a most elaborate social event. Though the fact was known to but few of the 170 invited guests present, it was an occasion of particular joy as well as of generous hospitality, witnessing as it did the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding. But this occasion had been so cleverly concealed until the guests arrived, that but few knew it—and they were lavish in their remembrances of the crystal event.

The mansion was decorated with a profusion of flowers and foliage that was in keeping with the admirable taste displayed in their arrangement, while the illumination throughout was beautiful. Music's orchestra furnished inspiring music. The menu was elaborate, and comprised many courses, and by way of favors a dainty little box, one for each guest, containing a piece of the wedding cake of fifteen years ago, and which had been heretofore packed and preserved until this time by Mrs. Ferguson. Each guest also received a mica badge bearing the dates "1874-1889."

Mrs. Ferguson appeared in the costume complete of her bridal day, and Mr. Ferguson did not appear a whit less proud than he must have been fifteen years ago. The evening was one long to be remembered by all present.

Signor Campanini received a generous, whole-souled welcome—so well suited to his own nature and character. He was called back several times to the stage, and the audience literally forced him to an encore. As an artist Signor Campanini still holds his own. That which he executes in song is not more so, pleasing and grateful, and mechanically correct—it is music that penetrates to the soul. But to this consummate art he brings the most abundant material and the dramatic feeling. Nor is the latter that which is affected by the mannerisms of gesticulation, it is in the voice and man that the artist's true power lies. He has faithfully and now smoothly it is taken! One would hardly notice the change from a chest tone. And when color and dramatic passion necessary to enhance the effect, the artist still appears in his pristine strength and glory, as in days when no dramatic tenor dared to dispute his supremacy.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Markets. The Golden Eagle clothing store yesterday received a consignment of genuine Mackintosh waterproof coats. These goods were imported directly for them from J. Mandelberg & Co., of Manchester, England, and are one of the novelties of the season. They are absolutely free from odor—a real attainment by a new process invented and controlled by the manufacturers. These garments can be worn either as an overcoat or rubber coat and possess the further merit of being soft, pliable and not subject to climatic changes, which coupled with the fact of their being free from odor, is a real attainment by a new process invented and controlled by the manufacturers.

Price $3. Call and examine. The opening exhibit of fine millinery which was inaugurated today at McCabe Bros., is proving a feast in quiet and in austere art, very creditable to Miss Adams and highly satisfactory to Messrs. McCabe Bros. The time of the Merchant's carnival to be given under the auspices of the ladies of the Central Presbyterian church at the Rock Island rink, has been definitely decided upon for Thursday and Friday of next week. St. Joseph's fair in the Armory hall is thronged every night. The fair will continue this week and Monday night of next. The drivers of the street cars to Davenport and Moline come into the fair for their passengers at fifteen minutes to 11 o'clock. The pavers got past the Argus office this morning when the supply of Galesburg brick again gave out. Operations were then transferred to the under course on the north side. There will be an abundance of paying material on hand in the morning. From early morning until closing time the large clock establishment of H. Deutch, No. 111 West Second street, Davenport, is crowded with ladies and little ones making selections from the grandest stock of cloaks and childrens wraps ever seen in the west. "I am now satisfied that it pays to trade at the M. & K.," says a lady customer. "After all the blow and bluster regarding the prices of underwear, I have made the rounds, keeping the M. & K., for last, and there is not a line you have shown me but what the price is as low and in nearly every instance lower than elsewhere." A bright little sunbeam indeed has dropped into the home of Principal Bishop, of the Rock Island high school, and it is with grand anticipations of a future pupil that he is instructing his classes today, for while not neglecting either sex, he finds a new and wonderful amount of interest in the way the girls conduct themselves. Another electric car accident has been reported. An electric car ran down the hill in Des Moines Monday morning, smashed a milkman's wagon to smithereens, scared a doctor's horse into a runaway, and stood the man at the motor on his head on the hard side of a stone, and came near deluging the streets with his brains. There were a few passengers in the car, too, who added to the excitement by falling off the car in intervals.

Yesterday engine No. 14 was run out of the Rock Island & Peoria about ready for duty. It has been rebuilt throughout and is to all intents and purposes as good as a new one. It stood on the track near the round house yesterday morning as bright as a new dollar. In the afternoon Robert Wombacher, engineer of No. 12 on the Rock Island & Peoria took No. 14 out on a trial trip to Dunlap and return. Everything proving all right the engine will be sent over to Rock Island and put on duty between that place and Cable on what is known as the Cable branch—Peoria Herald.
