THE PALE CHRIST.

They led the pale Christ through the mouthing

In Orient days far fled: For then 100 often, as now, right cringed to wrong. And many had spoken and said,

'Not this man, but Barabbas He was a thief, the pardoned one, 'tis writ:

Did worse crime stain him red? Nay, thief or murderer, what mattered it? For many had spoken and said. "Not this man, but Barabbas."

And so he walked unprisoned through the And on the stern cross bled.
The brow of Christ below the galling crown

For many had spoken and said, "Not this man, but Barabbas."

The world, for sooth, has learned its lesson wel Since that dark hour and dread. Full often accursed by the same bitter spell, Its lips have opened and said, you, declared Ben. 'Now, git out.' "I pacified Ben and went in to tell Mc Greeley who wanted to see him. The great editor listened to what I had to say and then shouted: Tell the vice president to walk right in. That fool of a boy said there was an old burn named Wilson loaf ing around outside who wanted to see me. "-Washington Post.

"Not this man, but Barabhas.

The proprietor of the new restaurant the "Sufferlbran," replete with every ac commodation, and fitted up regardless of expense, has introduced the following in genious arrangement. The large room usually devoted to billiards contains number of bicycles firmly screwed to the floor, the large wheels of which are con nected with certain machinery in the base ment by means of driving ropes. When go ing at a normal speed they are made to work a minelag machine, a coffee mill, a ventilator, a dynamo for the electric light. Thus a considerable saving is ef fected in manual labor and the cost of a gas engine.

Besides, the landlord makes an extra profit by charging one mark per hour for the use of each bievele. The place is crowded. Besides, those who ride the machines get their money's worth in the chane of good exercise without danger to life and limb. Moreover, they save the cost and keeping in repair of these expensive vehicles, avoid getting into trouble with the police, and if a man is not blessed with shapely calves be is more secure from observation than in a public thoroughfare. Selecting a Ham for Roasting. Do not select too lean a joint. The fat of a ham is often considered so much waste weight; so it may be in many families, but one would not select a very thin piece of roast beef for coasting; it would surely be dry and tough when cooked. Now a well fed and quickly fatted hog will furnish tender, juicy and fine flavored meat. Bear this in mind and you will be willing to lose a little extra fat for your gain in the superior qualities of every other onnce of the flesh. Let the joint be well rounded and plump rather than this and fat, and see that the skin is thin and pliable.-New

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md. N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else
