

THE ARGUS.

TUESDAY, JUNE 7, 1892.

JOHNAHED BY JOLIET.

The Home Team Goes to Pieces in the Sixth Inning.

The Convicts Fail to Score in the Early Part of the Game but Win It with a Rush in the End-Notes.

The story is a short one and can be summed up in a few words. The home boys took a chattel mortgage on the game in the beginning and kept it until the sixth inning when they went to pieces and allowed the visitors to score two runs, and they followed this with four in the seventh and three in the eighth inning. The following score shows how it was done:

Joliet	R	H	E	P	A	E	Rock Island-Moline	R	H	E	P	A	E
Carroll	0	0	5	3	0	0	Day	2	1	1	0	1	0

HITS.

It is no disgrace to be beaten by Joliet, but it is a heap of glory to beat the convicts.

Baxendale pitched another good game yesterday and got his eye on the ball for two singles.

The home team leave tomorrow night on a 15-day trip and will play all the way from Rockford to Evansville.

The Joliet will take six out of seven games from any club in the I-I league if they have a mind to do it.

Patsy Lynch made two costly errors yesterday, but his brilliant work at short in the early part of the game more than overbalanced them.

The game was won for Joliet by the visitors bunting their hits at opportune times and the home team bunting their errors at critical times.

President Hodges and Manager Sage this morning signed W. J. Van Dyke, formerly with the old Des Moines team and who was reserved by the St. Louis league team this season. He is one of the best outfielders in the profession and will report at once.

If Umpire Sugge owes Joliet or Rockford any favors he ought to square himself at once and try and give the home club the best of a decision occasionally at least. It would be such a relief you know. Sugge has been bunting that good record in his past two games.

James B. Reed, of Pittsburgh, champion blindfold checker player of the world, will play four of the strongest players of the three cities, blindfolded, simultaneously, on Thursday evening, June 9, 1892. Exhibition at Ald. Evans, barber-shop, at 8:30 p. m. Admission 25 cents.

Convention Bulletin.

Managers Heath, of the Western Union Telegraph office, and Albrecht, of the Postal, have made arrangements whereby they will receive bulletins of the Minneapolis convention. Both have kindly furnished The Argus with copies which are being posted on the bulletin board in front of the office.

Was Not a Ball Crank.

The minister entered an electric car yesterday morning and sat down beside the young bank clerk who sings tenor in his choir. The minister had just been reading Gladstone's speech on the woman suffrage movement, and the bank clerk was finishing an account of Monday's Pittsburgh-Louisville ball game.

"Grand old man, that," said the minister. "Wonderful intellect; so fertile in resource."

The bank clerk looked up a little surprised and folded his paper. He did not expect to see so much enthusiasm on the part of his pastor. But he replied:

"Yes, indeed, he is a grand old man, and, as you say, he plays every point in a heady way. That is the way to win too."

The minister was pleased to see the young choir singer so well posted on English politics and thought to expand the idea a little further.

"He has great force, don't you think?" he said.

"Yes, great speed," replied the bank clerk, "and can strike a corking blow when hits are needed. It makes me yell like a pirate to see the old horse trotting over the bases on a tied score."

This mystified the minister a little and rather pained him to note the use of slang speech on the part of his young member. But he said quietly:

"Grand old man!"

"Grand old sport!" murmured the tenor.

The minister looked at him over his glasses. "Are you referring to Gladstone, young man?"

"Gladstone!" The clerk turned seven different colors. "I was talking of Pitcher Jimmie Galvin. Were you not at the ball game yesterday?"

The minister signaled the conductor and got off the car quickly with "that tired feeling" showing on every feature of his kind face.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Equivocal Praise.

"Have you read my last novel, my dear friend?"

"Certainly."

"Well, and how did you like it?"

"I laid the book down with the greatest satisfaction."—Mundo Pintoresco.

COMPARISON Tells the Tale.

The proper, most satisfactory and convincing way to form a correct conclusion as to value is by comparison. It is impossible to judge from newspaper quotations. For this reason we ask you to COMPARE our line of $4.35 Men's Suits with those others advertise at $4.45; our line of $5.00 Men's Suits with those others advertise at $7.50; our line of $6.50 Men's Suits with those others advertise at $10.00; our line of $9.90 Men's Suits with those others advertise at $13.50. COMPARISON TELLS THE TALE.

If the quality, fit, workmanship and trimming is not better and the price lower than that of any other dealer, don't buy. All we ask that you compare,—nothing can be fairer.
