Says Good Teachers Should Stimulate

ANN ARBOR — The good teacher should now and then make his students feel downright uneasy, says Glen Rasmussen, associate professor of education at Flint College of the University of Michigan.

"The good teacher creates needs in his students," says Rasmussen in the current issue of "The School of Education Bulletin." "He makes the student want to explore some unfamiliar territory."

"Under the best of circumstances the student is not sure whether his exploration will be successful, or, if it is successful, whether or not it will bring about a disturbing change in his life," says Rasmussen.

"If the teacher is to stimulate genuine learning, he must contrive a situation which will cause the student some genuine uneasiness so the student will feel urged to seek his own solution."

"However, the student should feel free to approach the teacher for guidance," Rasmussen notes. "The teacher is often seen by a student as the only available person who has the wisdom and willingness to help with some difficulty."

"A teacher even though he is not a trained counselor, is not likely to do serious harm by listening to a student's problem. And while the teacher may often prefer to remain uninvolved it may be best for the student to use the teacher as a person who will not bring sanctions to bear."

Dainty Cup Cakes For Tea

These little cup cakes are colorful and dainty as a butterfly! A bit of orange rind is added with egg and milk to a cup cake mix. Then each cake is decorated with candy orange slice "wings" and toasted coconut. And each one is light and tender, because it's made perfect every time with cup cake mix.

Heat oven to moderate (375°F.). Empty contents of package into bowl. Add orange rind, egg and 1/4 cup milk; beat one minute. Add remaining 1/4 cup milk and beat one more minute. (If using mixer, beat at low speed.) Line muffin cups with paper baking cups or grease and flour them; fill half full with batter.

Bake in preheated oven (375°F.) 15 minutes or until golden brown. For easy removal let stand a few minutes, then loosen with knife. Cool.

Frost tops with confectioners' sugar frosting. Sprinkle with coconut. Arrange 2 candy orange pieces on top of each cup to resemble butterfly wings and a small gumdrop for the head.

Beware Of Door-To-Door Salesman; Living Costs Up

HIGH, WIDE AND HANDSOME! The cost of living is flying high, wide and handsome with new records established last month and no prospects of a decline.

According to Washington economists, the big increases during the past few weeks has been in the price of fresh fruits. Food prices set a record by themselves.

GOOD BUY THIS WEEK! If wholesale prices are any good as a standard to predict good buys, the housewife should find a bargain in cantaloups at her local market this week. Wholesale prices are reported to be approximately half of what they were at this time last year.

CAUTION! BEWARE! During the past year there has been a great increase in the number of door-to-door salesmen in communities throughout the country. Many of them, of course, sell quality products but many are inferior and some salesmen outright crooks.

When you receive that telephone call that a friend has recommended you as a leader, etc., and that you would be interested in some item, beware. Many times you are "supposed" to get an item cheaper if you supply the names of a number of friends as prospective customers.

In this case you can be sure you can buy the item at a local store cheaper and you know with whom you are dealing.

When a door-to-door salesman approaches you, it is always a good idea to check the price of the item at a local store. Housewives throughout the country are buying billions of dollars of inferior products from door-to-door salesmen. You can stop it and save money at your front door.

AMERICANS ARE MEAT EATERS! According to a prominent trade publication, the American consumer spent about one-fourth of their food money for meat in 1961. The total bill was $16 billion.

If averaged out this amounts to $277 per family in the country. This means we consume 161 pounds of meat per capita, or a meat bill of $90 per person.

And here's a note to remember, for every $1.00 you spend on choice beef, the producer got 56 cents. In other words, it cost 44 cents per pound to slaughter, package, transport and sell you that pound of beef.

IT'S INFLATION, THAT'S WHAT! If you happen to be in the market for domestic help, which most of us are not, you may be interested in knowing inflation has also hit this labor market.

In many areas of the country live-in house keepers get $45 to $50 for a five day week, plus room & board. In addition, fringe benefits include a two-week paid vacation and health insurance.

There is not enough domestic help to fill the demand.

MEAT PRICES! There will be no marked change in the price of meat at your favorite market this week or in the near future. Livestock reports this past week end put prices of live cattle higher than at any time in the past three months. Hog prices are also ahead and the market price will remain strong until the spring pig crop is ready for market in a month or so.

It's Model Boat Time

Sailors from three to eighty-three with salt in their veins and a thirst for adventure are swarming to local ponds and lakes. Summertime is sailing time, and the country's fleet of model boats and ships is ready to be launched.

Modelers like myself who have spent months building new vessels have anxiously awaited these warm days. In fact this past winter I've changed my whole scheme of model boating interest. For years I had concentrated on models of ancient vintages. But my new fleet sparkles with today's pleasure craft... motor launches, light sport cruisers, and slender sail boats.

I've enjoyed every minute of this change from selecting ready-to-run models to building kits and mapping out the right kind of power to use. Now I have a good variety of fuel power and radio control in my models. It took only one day on the water to prove to me that my new fleet was a worthy one.

As every model ship builder and sailor knows, there are few delights on the same par as launching a new ship... particularly when you've made it yourself.
