THAT BIG NOISE WILL HAPPEN TONIGHT

INDIAN VILLAGE MOVES OUT FOR ILFELD CO.

Oh You Kid. J. Sam is Going to Open the Airdome and You Can Take a Trip to Chinatown While You Wait

The Airdome, open air theater, at the corner of Copper and Second streets, opens tonight for another successful summer season. J. Sam Houston, manager of the Airdome, has engaged a force of twenty-eight capable assistants, and in choosing the name "Dreamland," as a subtitle for the popular emporium of amusements, says that the opening will be a "dream," and that it "won't stay dream either."

A company of ten, gorgeously dressed, will present "A Trip to Chin Town." This is a musical comedy, packed with fun and realism. Special scenic effects will enhance the piece, as will the snappy work of a musical chorus. Picturesque films will follow. The stage director of this part of the performance, Mr. Selden Towne, is an capable operator, and by some is styled a past master mechanic in the production of nervous photographs. The cameras will show some of the largest life pictures exhibited in the west. A special wild west film will appear to night.

Among the coming events promised by the enterprising management is a woman automobilist with the pseudonym of Mrs. Murphy, who loops the loop in our, and then leaps a gap for good measure. Jungle town will be on tap, when several barrels of monkeys running in suit from the mounting howoon to the spider web tail, will be released upon the boards. A feature that the management boasts, is that no boisterous or uncouth conduct is permitted, and it is the endeavor of the local people who conduct the "dreamland theater" a consistently high grade diversion at a little price.

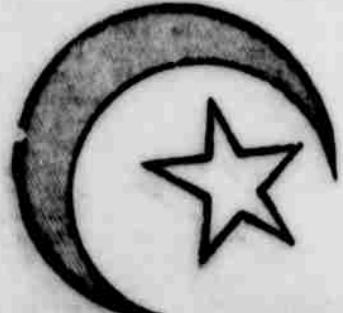

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Charles F. Trout, sister of Mr. Burton F. Coane who with her infant child died recently in Manila, U. S., has received word from her sister that the funeral will probably be held in Albuquerque. Mrs. Coane was formerly Miss Anna Towles of this city, and the husband, who is accompanying the body to America, is well known here.

Mrs. M. E. Leverich, a prominent citizen of Phoenix, Ariz., was to the city yesterday. Miss Leverich is a remarkably woman, enjoying the distinction of being the largest landlady in the two territories of Arizona and New Mexico. She has placed more than fifteen acres of Melo

Attorney Louis Barth has returned from a visit to Tucson, where he went on legal business. He reports that conditions in the Southern country are more prosperous than in years, and states that many of the homesteaders who had become disengaged and left are returning. Optimism is prevalent throughout the section, he says, and a bumper year is expected.

Wheat Again Climbing Up On Weather Report

BEARS HEAR THAT CROPS LOOK GOOD

City Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire

Chicago, May 4.—With the weather map showing continued absence of rain in the northwest, the drought gods took a fresh start today and helped off the price of wheat. Cable reporters of an improved demand for cargoes at London furnished additional encouragement to the bulls. On the other hand, fine crop prospects both in Europe and America were reported to the bears. Opening figures were the same as last night to 1-10 3-80 down. Wall Street Trading.

New York, May 4.—Bonds ruled somewhat lower on the stock exchange this morning, but after showing symptoms of acute weakness early in the session the market rallied and held fairly steady. Bear leaders made use of the Mexican crisis and prospects of congressional investigations of corporations and attacked the market sharply at the opening, although they succeeded in causing a temporary break supporting orders were sent in sufficient volume to check the movement. There was some further realignment which was partly responsible for the lower range of prices. The bond market showed considerable activity and strength with a large demand for Block Island collateral fours, Interborough-Metropolitan 3½s, Third Avenue certificates, Wabash debentures and New York City 1-10, which made another record, selling at 194-1-4.
