

Parking Meter Case Before Supreme Court

RALEIGH — The State Supreme Court is scheduled to hear arguments tomorrow in two parking meter test cases from Wake County.

The appeals were filed by Wil-

Ham G. Seogin Jr., a Raleigh public relations counselor. In one case, Seogin is challenging the constitutionality of parking meters. In the other, he contends that more evidence than the ownership of a car is needed to convict a parking violator.

Att. Gen. Harry McMullan filed the state's answer in the two cases last week. In a 13-page brief, McMullan said the courts of other states have held that "the mere proof of registration of the automobile in the defendant's name" is

Former Game Protector Held

CAT GETS BIRD

DU QUION III — The Harry Maples suffered a small loss the other day when fire damaged their cabin on the lake. While firemen fought flames, their cat took advantage of the confusion, upset the bird cage and seized their canary.

The Story of Easter, 1.

Beginnings

PASSOVER

PILGRIMAGE

COUNCIL OF NICAEA

The first Christian churches often were in Jewish communities. Sometimes they linked the Jewish Passover to the Resurrection. One of the early church discussions centered around the need to separate Easter from the Passover. A remnant of this old discussion is the use of the term "Paschal" in connection with the Easter season. "Paschal" derives from a term which meant "pass over."

Easter celebrations. Some authorities think the need for moonlight to aid the travels of the pilgrims had an important part in setting the date of Easter as the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox.

One of the early attempts to unify Easter practices was made at the Council of Nicaea in 325. It brought together most of the bishops in the time of Constantine to thresh out perplexing church problems. Constantine himself attended.
