FORMER RESIDENT HERE DIES IN LOS ANGELES.
Mrs. Louise Lettenmeyer, formerly of Seabreeze and Geneva, Fla., died in Los Angeles, Cal., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma L. Caldwell, Dec. 30, at the age of 80 years and 7 months, of neuritis. She was born in Cummington, Mass., in 1831 and was married to John Lettenmeyer in 1853. To this union was born five children, three sons and two daughters. Only two of these survive, Charles Lettenmeyer and Mrs. Emma L. Caldwell, also three grandchildren, Geo. E. Caldwell, Harold and Lotta Dexter. She was a great reader and took interest in the vital questions of the day, was kind and sympathetic, which endeared her to all her friends.

ORMOND
ORMOND, Jan. 24—An ordinance has been posted at the town hall and postoffice, relative to the laying of some two and one-half miles of sidewalks within our town. This is an important ordinance and all property owners will do well to read the same, for while the laying of cement walks means an expense to each property owner thus affected, it will, at the same time, not only enhance the value of said property, but add very much to the improved conditions of our town. Street lamps will be put up by the town as soon as walks are laid, so that by another year, Ormond will show signs of advancement, as much of this improvement will be done during the coming summer.

Another ordinance posted and which will eventually be a benefit to Ormond is the extending of Palmetto street (the river road) north, across the Hernandez strait, connecting with the John Anderson boulevard, which will give automobiles a more direct run from St. Augustine through Ormond and Daytona to New Smyrna.

Mrs. J. C. Whelan and Mrs. Parker of Whitinsville, Mass., are guests of J. A. Bostrum on the peninsula.
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Sage, who recently purchased part of the J. P. Vining property, South Ormond, gave a luncheon last Sunday at the Bretton Inn, at which Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Francis were the honor guests.

Mrs. M. A. Crim of Galion, Ohio, who will be remembered by the ladies of the V. I. A., is stopping this winter at the Inn.
Harry Wells of Glastonbury, Conn., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Francis.

The Washington Special, enroute to Key West to attend the celebration of the opening of the over-sea extension of the Florida East Coast railroad passed through Ormond last Sunday evening. Another section containing Gov. Gilchrist and many Jacksonville merchants followed the Washington Special and after stopping at the Ormond hotel for dinner the party proceeded southward on their journey.

Mrs. H. A. Gray of St. Paul, known to some of our Ormond friends, is stopping at the Bretton Inn and will be joined later by Mr. Gray.
The first dance of the season at the Ormond hotel will be given at the casino Saturday evening.

Mrs. Samuel J. Jay of St. Paul, Minn., has engaged rooms at the Bretton Inn and will remain until April.
Geo. H. Sage has purchased another hundred feet frontage of the J. P. Vining property adjoining Chas. Cook's on the river front, South Ormond.

Miss Nellie Foulke, Miss Mary E. Green and Mrs. Middleton, of Philadelphia, Pa., are guests of Miss Ella Foulke.
**The Daily News delivered to any address in the city for 15 cents per week.

Nerves of Genius.
Many of the men whose names we revere today in science, art, literature and poetry suffered from emotional disturbances, resulting in nerve storms or outbursts of mental violence, which can only be described as superacute mania. The poet Cowper had strong suicidal tendencies, yet he wrote "John Gilpin" when suffering from intense melancholia. Shelley had an insane ancestry, and at Eton he was called "Mad Shelley." Charles Lamb had to be placed in an asylum, and his sister Mary stabbed her mother to the heart while insane. Wordsworth and his sister Dorothy are almost a parallel to Charles and Mary Lamb. At the age of thirty Coleridge was broken down, and he died a wreck at sixty-two. Southey came of an insane stock. The mother of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the dramatist, died demented at forty-two. Pope was deformed and rickety, and Keats was neuropathic to his finger tips. Byron's mother was unbalanced, and so was his maternal grandfather.—London Globe.

Value of Deep Breathing.
Writing on the cultivation of physical fitness in the Herald of the Golden Age, Eustace Miles says that those who have mastered the art of deep and full breathing are thereby enabled to master their emotions—they can overcome pain and secure control of the mind and of the circulation of the blood. The control of the breathing prevents one from becoming hurried and flurried, and one acts leisurely, although not lazily. Breathing can be adapted to various needs—for instance, in producing warmth or the opposite effect—or one can breathe in order to become more sensitive. In fact, the all round value of deep and full breathing cannot be overestimated. Of all physical practices this is the first and foremost and one that can be regulated without being in the least conspicuous. If you have learned how to breathe deeply and fully people may not suspect it—they only notice that you are calm, poised and good tempered.

He Had Told It.
Next to Joseph Chamberlain, Birmingham honors no citizen more than Jesse Collings. In politics and friendship Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Collings have been inseparable for many years. They even shared their platform anecdotes, and in regard to one story they arranged that when both were taking part in a meeting the first speaker was entitled to its use.

It so happened that Mr. Collings arrived late at a meeting one night, but was due to speak before Mr. Chamberlain. As he was launching out into the story he felt his coattail pulled, and a voice behind him whispered, "I've told it." So Mr. Collings desisted, but what was his surprise to hear Mr. Chamberlain tell the story as soon as he got on his legs. "I thought you said you told it?" he asked afterward. "So I had," replied the imperturbable Joe, "but not tonight."—Pall Mall Gazette.
