SPENDING MILLION A WEEK

Think of having the job of raising $50,000,000 and, on top of that, the job of spending that $50,000,000 at the rate of about a million a week!

William J. Mulligan has such a job, and he is making good at it.

William J. Mulligan is the chairman of the Knights of Columbus committee on war activities, which has charge of the supply of comforts and attentions for the spiritual, physical and mental needs of the million and more American soldiers in this country and overseas.

Mr. Mulligan is a lawyer, and before he devoted his time exclusively to K. of C. war relief work practiced his profession in Hartford, Conn.; he resides in Thompsonville, Conn. He is a graduate of Yale law school. Among the many strong features that enter Mr. Mulligan's makeup, the predominating one is perhaps the power of organization. His ability in this direction has been proved by the accomplishments credited to him as a result of his tour abroad. In France it only required 60 days for Mr. Mulligan to put the entire K. of C. overseas organization in smooth working order. Besides contracting for a great number of K. of C. huts, he ordered that there be constructed 50 barracks, and in addition purchased a great quantity of tents which K. of C. secretaries and their attaches are using.

DEAN OF WAR REPORTERS

The king of Bulgaria, on the battlefield of Mustapha Pasha, before Adrianople in 1912, said to his chief of staff as his troops were going into action: "Observe that Englishman passing up with the artillery. He has seen more fighting than any soldier alive."

He meant Frederic Villiers, artist and correspondent for the Illustrated London News, who, from 1871 to 1918, has seen all the world has had to offer in the way of warfare. He recently turned up in New York, after two and a half years on the western front and a trip around the world that led him to the frontiers of India.

"The end is quite a bit off, yet," said Villiers. "How can it be otherwise when the German still thinks he is 'top dog'? It may last several years."

"Since the Alsine I have had no doubt of the ultimate end. Tommy took Fritz's measure there. Until then we were 'up in the air.' We felt here was a new thing and a bigger thing than we had ever tackled and we weren't just sure of ourselves, but we knew what we were up against now, and there is nothing more to fear. It is merely a question of rounding up the Germans."

"It will be done in the air, I am sure. For years I have predicted that this war would be settled in the air, and today I am surer of it than ever. Why they don't send an immense fleet of battleplanes over Berlin I can't understand. Three days' unlimited slaughter there, sparing only cats and dogs (I like the German cats and dogs, for they are friendly animals), would settle the matter."

QUICK IN NAME AND ACTION

Quick in name, thought and action, Sergt. Maj. John Henry Quick of the United States marines is one of that noted organization who, after being cited for bravery on the battlefield years ago, again comes to the front by performing valorous deeds in France and again being cited for bravery.

He was awarded the congressional medal of honor for his conduct in fighting at Cuco, Cuba, in 1898. The enemy was hiding in ambush and he volunteered to stand against the sky on a high crest and signal firing directions to the U. S. S. Dolphin. He stood with his back to the enemy and, although bullets were cutting all about him, sent the signals as nonchalantly as if he were in camp.

On June 6, 1918, he volunteered and assisted in taking a truck load of ammunition and material into the town of Bourges, France, over a road swept by artillery and machine gun fire, thereby relieving a critical situation. For this deed he was highly commended and cited by General Pershing.

NEW CORPS COMMANDER

Brig. Gen. Oman Bundy, who has been placed in command of the Fifth American army corps in France, was born at Newcastle, Ind., and was a student at De Pauw until he entered West Point in 1878. He first won distinction as a fighter in the Philippines at the battle of Bud-Dajo-Mount Dajo—when as a major he led a column of men up the side of an extinct volcano to attack 1,000 Moros in the crater. Fifty-two per cent of his men in one company fell, 50 in another; still the line kept moving forward, held to its course by the commander, and cleaned out the enemy.

In 1915 Colonel Bundy was detailed as adjutant general at San Antonio, Tex. In connection with Pershing's expedition into Mexico unusual administrative responsibility fell on him, and the manner in which he discharged this no doubt made a further impression on Pershing. After war was declared in 1917 Bundy was made a brigadier general and ordered to France.

A quiet man is Bundy, but sociable. He is a student of military subjects and was for a time an instructor in the infantry school of the line at Fort Leavenworth.

FARM HOUSEHOLD ACCOUNTS URGED

Two Simple Methods of Making and Classifying Records of Expenditures.

USE ORDINARY BLANK BOOK

Details Encourage Economy and Show Relation of Home Expenses to Farm Business—Ten Divisions Satisfactory.

The modern farmer's wife is no longer satisfied with the old accepted idea that "the farm gives us a living," but she gets out her pencil and paper and asks "How much of a living does it give us?"

Generations ago neither the farm nor the farm household had any but minor dealings with the outside world. Under such conditions the need for accounts was slight. But those conditions no longer exist. The farm household, though still in many cases receiving its major support in farm products consumed at home, purchases far more extensively than ever before from outside sources. Farm household accounts have become essential to economy.

Household expenses on the farm are very intimately associated with the business of the farm itself. The farm normally supplies much material which otherwise would become a household expense. The household, in turn, very often furnishes board for farm labor, which would otherwise be a farm expense. Merely from the standpoint of keeping track of household expenses as related to the farm business, household accounts are desirable and should serve to supplement and round out farm accounts.

Ways of Keeping Records. There are two methods of keeping a record of household expenditures. One is to record the purchases or money paid out without classifying the expenditures. The other is to classify when the record is made.

The first method is very simple, requires no special form, and gives all necessary information regarding expenditures. At the end of the month or at the end of the year the total expenditures readily may be determined. In order, however, to know the totals for each kind or class it will be necessary to make up a monthly summary, in which the items will be distributed in different columns, by classes. This extra work at the end of each month (or at the end of the year) may cause discouragement and neglect of classification, with the result that the greatest good that could be derived from the records is not realized.

Under the second method, in addition to being entered all together in one column, the items are classified in separate columns. This method has the same advantages as the first method and the additional advantage of allowing for the distribution of the items of expenditure to the proper classes without the inconvenience of turning to some other page. The distribution may be left to moments of leisure if the farmer is busy at the time the entry is made. When the page is filled the next page is begun, the top line next to the heading being reserved for the total carried forward from preceding page. The items may be totaled at the end of the month and these totals carried to the summary page at the end of the book.

Book Not Important. The kind of book to use is not important. An ordinary blank day-book or ledger book with a stiff cover may be bought at a reasonable price. If the vertical rulings in the book do not serve the purpose others may be inserted with a pen or pencil. Accounts are sometimes kept in a book having small pages. A small page, however, is soon filled, is often crowded, and the information is scattered over too many pages for convenience in recording and studying the expenditures.

In order to simplify accounts it is well to group expenditures. If all individual items were listed in separate columns, it would require a great amount of detail work. The distribution of the different household expenditures into groups is largely a matter of individual viewpoints. The following ten divisions should be satisfactory for the average farm family: Animal food, fruits and vegetables, cereal products, other groceries, clothing, household furnishings, running expenses, advancement, incidentals and savings.

Peppers and Celery in Brine. Green peppers and celery can be preserved for future use by brining. If properly done peppers so prepared can be used as substitute for fresh peppers in pickles or salads, or after freshening in water can be used for stuffed peppers. Properly prepared they can hardly be told from fresh peppers. The method of brining is as follows:

Remove the stems and seed and pack nose down into a water-tight, non-metallic receptacle, such as a keg, barrel, crock or glass fruit jar. Cover with a brine made by adding two pounds of salt to each gallon of water. If a keg, barrel or crock is used, suspend a wooden cover in the brine so that it will keep the peppers well below the surface. If the cover is placed on the peppers and weighted without suspension, it will crush the peppers and make them lose their shape. Add more salt to the cover until no more will dissolve. If put in fruit jars or other containers that can be sealed, no more salt need be added. In this case, allow to stand for three or four days to allow gas to escape, then fill perfectly full with brine and seal tight. Kegs or barrels that have a good head can be filled full with peppers and brine and headed up. Fresh peppers can be added from time to time as they mature. Before use, freshen in water to remove salt and then use like fresh peppers.

Celery can be preserved in the same manner, and after freshening is excellent for soups, creamed celery and for flavoring purposes.

Save Sugar. Use "one teaspoonful to the cupful." Serve more fruits for dessert. Make fruit juices and sirups. Use sirups in general cooking. Can without sugar. Dry your fruits and vegetables.

CHANCE FOR HOMELY GIRL

Soldier in South Carolina Wants Wife Who Is Poor and Honest.

Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C.—Arthur Carl Lindstrand, twenty-nine, no relatives, from Chicago, has asked the papers to find him a girl to share his fortunes of finance and war. She need not be pretty, although a little plumpitude more or less won't detract from the situation. She must be poor and honest so she will properly appreciate the $10,000 legacy he intends to bequeath her if he should come out loser in the big rumpruss across the water. She must be lonely so she will appreciate the affection he expects to lavish upon her should he and not the $10,000 be the legacy she receives at the close of the war. The address is Twenty-ninth Company, Eighth Battalion, One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Brigade, Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C.

Fortunately, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and used a box. They helped me so much that I kept right on taking them and five boxes cured me entirely. #### AN ARKANSAS CASE.

T. Hiatt, Merchant St., Oswego, Kan., says: "For over five years, I was in misery from kidney ailments. I took treatment from specialists in Chicago and Kansas City, without receiving a particle of benefit. My local physician said I had an abscess on the kidneys and tried to have me undergo an operation on my left kidney where all the pain seemed to be. I was laid up in bed one time for two months. The passages of the kidney secretions were scanty and painful, obliging me to get up often at night. I also had terrible headaches and dizzy spells. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and now I am in better health than I have been for years."

Easily Arranged.

One beautiful summer night, when the crickets were chirping in the grass and the caterpillars were dropping from the trees, John Henry turned to the charming girl who was sitting on the veranda at his side.

"Edith," said he, a trifle timorously, "there comes to me a thought, I might say a fear."

"Well, what is it?" queried the fair girl, as she other hesitated.

"I suppose," responded John Henry, suggestively, hopefully, "that were I to steal a kiss you would have me arrested?"

"Perhaps," was the ready rejoinder of the girl, "but you could find somebody to pay your fine, couldn't you?" —Philadelphia Telegraph.
