Local and Personal

Meet the Boyds at the school auditorium next Friday night at 8.15.

A. R. Allen, Jr., of Greenville visited home folks in Pickens Sunday.

Boys unto Mr. and Mrs. Trout's Partridge, February 3, daughter.

Misses Edna and Hattie Earle spent the week-end with their parents here.

Miss Tirza Hughes visited the family of Mr. A. M. Folger at Easley recently.

Dr. F. S. Porter was confined to his bed several days last week but is now able to be about.

Rev. J. C. Bailey filled his regular appointment at the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

Mrs. W. T. Bates and son, Henry, visited her daughter, Mrs. Looper, in Greenville this week.

J. C. Alexander invites you to eat with him when in town court week. See his ad this week.

B. F. Parsons is offering a special bargain in candy this week. Read his ad in another column.

Miss Essie Hagood of Easley spent part of last week in Pickens as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hagood.

Our readers will be interested in the statement about the Potash situation in the advertisement on page 3.

W. S. Gantt magistrate of Hurricane township and State Senator, will be in court at the county seat on business Monday.

We call your attention to the change of ad of Folger & Thornley in this issue. They are daily receiving new goods and you will find their ad interesting.

M. F. Hester has recently had the appearance of his house greatly improved by the free of cost painting both outside and inside by Howard Sweet of Easley.

Ms. Amy Weech, of Alexander, Va., will lecture at the Methodist church Thursday, February 18th. Mrs. Weech is the National organizer of the C. T. U. and lectures in the auspices of the local C. T. U. She is very highly regarded as a speaker and it is hoped that a large audience will be on hand to hear her. Admission will be free.

W. R. Hicks, of the Pumpkin-town section, was in town Tuesday on business. While here he called on The Sentinel and took advantage of our clubbing offer with the Progressive Farmer.

Mr. E. J. Cleveland, manager of G. W. Gignilliat and Co.'s new wholesale and retail establishment at Liberty, was in Seneca with relatives Sunday. Mr. Cleveland says Liberty is one of the best business towns in the state for its size, and he mentioned that Gignilliat and Co.'s store is being given a liberal share of business by the people of Pickens county. — Seneca Farm & Factory.

W. P. Stewart, who moved from this county to Calhoun, Ga., about a year ago, was in Pickens last week on business and visiting relatives. Mr. Stewart likes his new home and has met many Pickens county people around Calhoun. He says about half of the people there are from South Carolina. We expect to have a letter from him soon telling about the Pickens people who live there.

In Memory of Samuel Young

On Friday, January 8, 1915, Mr. Samuel Young after a long illness, went to be with his Lord. Mr. Young was born near Abbeville, S. C. on October 21, 1847. His father was William Little Young, and his mother's name was Miss Kizzie Bryant. While a young man he moved to Pickens county, where the remainder of his life was spent. He was united in marriage to Miss Milie Smith, daughter of Joseph Smith, Mrs. Young preceded her husband to the grave several years ago.

Five children survive this union, as follows: Messrs. Thomas W. and Arthur Young, Miss Addie Young and Mrs. T. A. Gary, all of Liberty, and Mrs. D. G. Moore, of Summerville, S. C. He belonged to a large family, most of whom survive him, viz: Mr. James P. Young and Mrs. Annora Jones, of Landon, Ga.; William V. Young, of Hazlehurst, Ga.; Joseph Young and Mrs. Della Davis, Due West, S. C.; Robert Young, Austin Young, Mrs. Nannie Willson, Abbeville county, S. C.; Mrs. Mollie Nance, Lowndesville, S. C.; and Walter Young, of Brantown, Fla.

When a young man, Mr. Young united with the Baptist church at Enon and his membership was later held at Liberty. As a young man Mr. Young was engaged in carrying the mail, although most of his life was spent in farming.

For the past seven years Mr. Young has resided in Liberty, and for several years he had been in failing health. During the last year he was a great sufferer, but bore his suffering very patiently. About three weeks previous to his death he was attacked with pneumonia. The end came rather suddenly on Friday about two o'clock. The funeral took place at Smith Grove Baptist church on the day following at 12:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. John C. Bailey and he was laid to rest beside his wife in the Mullinax burying ground near by.

All who knew Mr. Young, formed a personal attachment to him, and received the news of his death with sorrow. Our deepest sympathies go out to the bereaved ones, may the Lord's blessings abide upon them and give them strength to bear the loss. Mr. Young told his pastor that he was ready, and did not fear the end. Death is not so awful when we have the assurance of a glad reunion by and by, and then we as followers of Christ must believe that, "He doeth all things well," and that all things work together for good to them that love the Lord.

God, our Father, makes no mistakes. "The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord." While his loved ones grieved because of his absence, yet they are sustained by God's grace and the hope of a happy reunion in heaven. God bless the loved ones whose hearts are bereaved, and may they be willing to say, "Thy will" be done.

R. F. SMITH

"Life is a sheet of paper white; Whereon each one of us may write His word or two, and then comes night." The sunset of life came to Dr. R. F. Smith just west of the fifty-sixth mile-stone and before a streak of gray had touched his hair. This seems young to die, but life is not measured by the space of years but by what one feels, thinks, believes and does. He, as most successful men do, spent his boyhood days in nature's training school—on the farm. He was reared in the upper section of Anderson county, near old "Thalian Academy," so long presided over by that famous teacher, John L. Kennedy. Here he laid the foundation of his education. He then spent two years at Adger college, located at Walhalla, where he stood at the head of his class. He had a reasoning bent of mind and, consequently, delighted in the study of mathematics. He completed his literary education at the University of Virginia, where he was a college-mate of President Woodrow Wilson. He then took a special medical course at Jefferson college, Philadelphia, and in New York university. He then gave his attention to the practice of medicine for a number of years in the section where he was raised, at Gainesville, Ga., and at Easley. In his profession he was eminently successful and soon distinguished himself. But his great knowledge of men, his keen insight into business affairs, connected with the necessary exposure which attended the practice of medicine, led him to enter active business life. In this he was eminently successful. Everything he touched succeeded, his own affairs and every corporation he organized and managed. The fact that he headed a corporation meant its certain success. He organized and stood at the head of the Easley Loan and Trust company and a number of industrial corporations, every one of which succeeded and are now paying handsome dividends. No stockholder ever lost his money in the hands of Dr. R. F. Smith. It took a great amount of activity to successfully steer all these business interests, but there was in Dr. Smith a deep love of public questions and from his busy life he always extracted sufficient time to study them and help work out what was for the public welfare. He took great interest in all municipal, county, state and federal questions. Into each he never hesitated to put his time, his energy, his brains and his money.

In politics he stood for honor and principle and believed that the people with a fair chance would always work out what was best for the common good. He believed in enlightenment and that the star of hope stood over our schoolhouses and churches. For nearly twenty years and up to the time of his death he represented Pickens county on the state executive committee of the Democratic party. This position he filled with signal ability through all the storms the party has passed. He was as firm as a rock and when convinced he was right pursued that course no matter what opposition developed. For years he has headed the delegation from his county to the state conventions and was a member of the national convention which nominated W. Bryan as president of the United States and was also a delegate to the national convention which nominated that great Democrat, Woodrow Wilson, his old schoolmate, who is now president of the United States. But the greatest public service rendered by Dr. Smith and of which he was proudest was as a member of the constitutional convention of 1895. The constitution of 1895 was framed by foreigners and did not suit our people and in 1895 they called together a noble body of men from the different counties of the state to form a new one. Dr. Smith was elected by the voters of Pickens county as one of its delegates. This convention for three months, the outcome of which was the present constitution, which will last for all time. It is a great declaration of fundamental rights which can never perish. Dr. Smith took an active part in framing it and attached his signature to it. No higher honor could have come to him.

The foregoing is a brief record of the business and intellectual accomplishments of Dr. Smith. But there was in his nature a warmer side—the social, the friendly and the religious side. As a husband and father he was kind, tender and loving. As a friend he was big-hearted and loyal, and at his home he was a delightful conversationalist and entertainer. When business hours were over he devoted himself to recreation and pleasure. In the midst of his family and friends he delighted in discussing the affairs of the day, the books of the best writers and especially the Christian religion. He was of an ardent religious disposition and for many years an elder in the Presbyterian church at Easley. He was liberal in his views and found fault with no man on account of his religious belief. Kindness, loyalty, firmness of purpose and a steadfast adherence to principle were the nuggets of gold in his character. These qualities made him the troops of friends who stood by him in life and with sad hearts bowed heads laid his remains in "God's acre" and heaped upon his grave banks of flowers. In this acre angels ever walk and the song they sing is, "Sleep on and take your rest." But this rest is only of the body. There is no death since the resurrection of Jesus Christ. What we call death is but the passageway to life and hereafter is but the resting of the life lived here, and where a saved soul flashes forever with the whiteness of the diamond.
