NEW BUSINESS FOR CENTRAL

Mr. F. B. Morgan, formerly president of the Bank of Central, has opened the Central Commission Company under his ownership and management. This should be a benefit to the town of Central and also those who are in position to receive merchandise shipped to Central as their nearest freight station. The new business will undertake to do business in car load lots handling cotton seed meal, acid phosphate, nitrate of soda, cotton seed hulls sacked and loose, hay, corn, cats, etc. It will also order goods wherever practical in less than car load lots. It will also undertake to help the farmer find a market for anything he may have to sell in the way of corn, potatoes, wood, etc. In fact the business will be of such a nature that anyone having anything to sell may take the matter up with him and anyone having anything to buy may secure a good price and at a small commission. It will try to induce the farmers to order together whenever possible, getting the benefit of better prices. They will be glad to hear from you what you have you want sold, or if you cannot call write for prices on anything you may have in mind of buying.

DEATH OF MISS MILDRED McWHORTER.

Mildred, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. McWhorter, passed away Monday morning, Feb. 6, 1922, after an illness of only a few weeks. She was a member of the tenth grade of the Liberty high school and being very studious she stood high in her class. Seldom a day was she absent from the school room and was in her classes only two weeks before her death.

Mildred was a lovely christian young girl and will be greatly missed in the Sunday school and church of which she took an active part. She was a member of the Liberty Methodist church.

With her parents she leaves one brother and four sisters: DeWitt McWhorter and Mrs. Gertrude Attaway, of Charleston; Mrs. Green of Greenwood; Mrs. Speights, of Greenville; and Mrs. Southers, of Liberty.

The funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon, being conducted by her pastor, Rev. E. W. Mason, after which the interment was in Westview cemetery.

THE DANCE AID TOWARD THE ATTAINMENT OF PHYSICAL AND SPIRITUAL BEAUTY SAYS PAVLOWA.

"Women all over the world are interested in the attainment of facial beauty, bodily grace and physical charm. This quest is not unique to the women of the twentieth century alone, but engaged the concentration of the gentler sex since the beginning of time," began Anna Pavlova who will appear at the Textile Hall, at Greenville, S. C., February 28th in an interview in Beauty Magazine.

"Attention to physical detail will achieve wonderful results of course, but it must never be forgotten that physical perfection without mental and spiritual co-ordination is like the flower without the perfume—the body without the soul," continued the incomparable dancer.

"To my mind, dancing is an art absolutely necessary to the happiness and longevity of life. Above all, in America where there is a constant, restless energy, the dance should be learned as a form of self-expression, even by those who have no professional ambition. It is a normal force necessary in daily life.

"The best way to start is by walking on tiptoe for at least ten minutes every morning. Walking on tiptoe not only accounts for grace and beauty of the dancer, but it stiffens the spinal column and neck and favors deep chest breathing. To appreciate this, stand on both feet and breathe normally. The respiration is abdominal. Now stand on your toes and breathe deeply. The backbone is stiffened and the breathing becomes thoracic, with the tips of the lungs doing their part. Walking on tiptoe into play muscles all over the body, including many that are seldom used in the ordinary pedal locomotion.

"The first time, when as a child, I stood on my toes I laughed aloud for sheer joy. It made me feel as if my body would float entirely off the earth. I did not then know that I was experiencing the miracle of all dancing, of which health, happiness, grace and beauty are the natural attributes."

On last Friday afternoon the Pickens chapter U. D. C. met with Mrs. Vesta McFall and Mrs. Hortense Lesene in the home of the former. Several important matters were discussed pertaining to the U. D. OBITUARY

Brother C. T. Lusk was in charge of the Piedmont and Pelzer and Williamston work, Wesleyan Methodist church. He preached the Gospel, lived by it and died by it. He was a man that was loved by everybody. He had been saved thirteen years. The memory of him will live on. When I think of him in our childhood days, it is sweet when we played together by the brooks and streams and saw the flowers and buds of God's creation, and we prayed together and sang together. He suffered with cancer for six months, and Jesus was with him all the while. He bore his afflictions patiently until death. The Angels came and took him home, where the soul of man never dies. A good man has gone to his reward. The next time we see him, there will be no pain, nor sickness nor disease. When this corruption has put on incorruption we will meet by the river of Life with Jesus and Angels and loved ones. A few more days on earth we will come, then we will go home and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are all passed away. O blessed thought, we will meet beyond the river of death. Where we will say good-by no more, in that land when Jesus has gone to prepare, where their will be no more night. By the river we will sing the new made song of Him who made our souls secure. Where we will live together and never more say goodbye. We will meet brother again and know him there in that land so fair. Give me Jesus while this fleeting life shall last, When life's evening sun is setting give me Jesus. Give me Jesus now; Give me Jesus all the while. We will meet our loved ones again. Fathers and mothers weep not, but still on the Savior rely for we will meet them again, where none of the inhabitants of the earth can say I am sick.

His brother,
E. E. Lusk.

LATE MEMBERS ARE EULOGIZED

Services for Clifton Senator of Sumter and Alexander of Pickens.

Memorial services for the late Senators John H. Clifton of Sumter and Frank E. Alexander of Pickens were held by the senate last Wednesday night, these services taking up the greater part of the night session.

Senator Moise, successor to Senator Clifton, opened the services at 9 o'clock with a tribute to the departed Sumter county representative. Senator Moise spoke in the highest terms and paid loving tributes to Mr. Clifton, his high character and aim in life. He spoke of Mr. Clifton's records in the courts of Sumter county and how it was almost impossible to beat him in a legal fight. He told of Mr. Clifton's work in the legislature, his love of his home people and service to these people and the people of the state.

Senator Watkins of Anderson opened the services for the late Senator Alexander of Pickens. Mr. Alexander's love of his people, his sense of justice and right coupled with his keen wit were attributes that would endear his memory to the house, Mr. Watkins declared. Senator Watkins spoke of the life of Mr. Alexander, how he had lived in Pickens, Anderson and Oconee and how he could have been elected to an office in any of these counties if he desired. He told of seven brothers who are now stalwart citizens of the Piedmont section and how these men are making fine citizens for the state.

Several senators spoke in behalf of both of the late senators, recalling the keen wit and humor of both Mr. Clifton and Mr. Alexander. Senator Laney recalled with touching fitness great fights led by Mr. Clifton and his keen wit and the steadfastness with which Mr. Alexander watched after the interests of his people in "old Pickens," as Mr. Alexander was wont to refer to his county. Senator Johnston also spoke feelingly for both members, as did several others. These speaking of the late senators were Senators Moise, Butler, Watkins, Laney, Johnstone, Black, Young, Wrightman and Mason.

At the conclusion of the services the senate adopted a motion of Senator McGhee to have the memorial addresses reduced to writing and printed in the journal. Upon motion of Senator Johnstone the resolutions fixing the services were adopted in full.

Shortly after ten o'clock the upper house adjourned in memory of the two former members who have been called to the great beyond.

DAM AT TOXAWAY TO BE RE-STORED.

Erection of a concrete dam at Lake Toxaway to replace the one washed away in 1916 will be started between March 1 and April 1, according to a representative. Plans are now being completed by Charles W. Wadell, engineer for the project, and call for a dam 55 feet high, 200 ft long, 50 feet thick at the base, ten feet thick at the top, and costing around $150,000.

The former dam was of dirt, and it is expected that the masonry used in the new project will insure protection against any future washing away of the land. The new dam will be of the same shape as the only one in western North Carolina to withstand the floods of 1916.

It will require about six months to complete the project, but work of filling the lake will start as soon as small section is completed, and it is hoped to have the resort ready for a formal opening on July 1, equal to the attraction offered at the mountain and lake resort previous to the heavy floods. The Toxaway dam withstood the main part of the floods, and gave away about 30 days after the other washouts in this section.

The highway from the Henderson county line to the Jackson county line will pass the resort, and it is planned to have the highway cross the Toxaway river on the top of the dam by building a concrete bridge.

FOR THE BEAUTY OF THE CHURCH.

Greenville Piedmont. In Pickens county much out of the ordinary has been happening in the last few years. The latest development is the offer of W. A. Mathews of Pickens to paint free of charge, some of the country churches in that county. In a letter to the Pickens Sentinel he says: "I see so many rural churches needing painting, and because there is no rush in my line, I am going to offer to paint some of these churches free." So he will put on free two coats of paint to the first country church of each denomination in the county accepting his offer. The church will furnish the paint and he will do the rest. Mr. Mathews gives his reason for his generous proposition: "I hope this offer will induce the country churches in our county to take some much needed interest in the appearance of their buildings, most of which are so hungry for paint that they resemble barns. I think the people will attend church better if the buildings look nice." That's so. Not only will the churches be sightlier for the addition of paint, but they will last longer. The proposal is remarkable—the first of its sort within our observation. It strikes us as altogether commendable. In this way Mr. Mathews will do his bit for the betterment of Pickens county to help make more beautiful some of the houses of God. There are a good many country churches outside of Pickens county that would be vastly improved by a little paint.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING.

Remember the meeting at the court house on the 17th? The farmers of Pickens or that day will take the first step towards marketing their cotton instead of dumping it as they do now. To-day there are two truths for us to get firmly in our minds. The first is from the Progressive Farmer's platform—"The farmer is entitled to just as good wages for his labor as others get. He is entitled to just as good living conditions for himself and family as others enjoy."

And the second is that the old saying that "competition is the life of trade" is only a half truth, for with the farmer instead of life, it is the death of his trade. In a highly organized business with its efficient book keeping, it is impossible to tell at any moment whether it is paying or not, and when losses appear to withdraw from the field, leaving it to others, and push those that do show a profit. Some will find themselves peculiarly fitted for some branch of work, others for something different; but competition has placed every man where he is especially efficient, and thus it is the life of this kind of trade.

But a farmer's work spreads over a long time. From the time he plants until he reaps, the costs and returns are an uncertainty, and even after all is completed how few know what the profit or loss is. With this utter lack of knowledge of cost he goes to market, and there comes into competition with other farmers as ignorant on this point as he is. The inevitable result is that some will sell for any kind of price offered. Even if one knows what a fair price would be he sees the betton knocked out of the market by the reckless dumping of some who do not know.

Competition like this has always been the bane of the farmer. It accounts for the low prices at which he has to sell.

As our cotton is the chief money crop it is natural that we should first improve our manner of selling it so that we may get a fair return for our labor, and furnish our families with those comforts of life enjoyed by others. And it is for just this purpose that we will meet at Pickens on Friday the 17th. Let every farmer come who is not satisfied with our present condition.
