The Ku-Klux Offenders Can Now Return Home—An Amnesty for Illicit Distillers in Prospect.

We are authorized to say that all citizens of South Carolina accused of offences under the Ku-Klux law, who have left the State on account of prosecutions against them, pending in the United States Courts, may now return with safety to their homes, where they can reside without fear of further molestation.

Scattered about in different parts of the United States, and in Canada, there are a number of Carolinians who were charged with being implicated in crimes alleged to have been committed by the Ku-Klux in 1870-71.

The Conflict of Jurisdiction.

In the case of the revenue officials charged with the murder of Amos Ladd, Judge Kershaw has filed a lengthy and conclusive opinion refusing to grant the petition to move the case to the Federal courts.

attorney of the defendants, to appeal. The case is now in good shape, and will be carried to a final decision, which will be of great importance in defining the line of demarcation between Federal and State jurisdiction.

Their pretext of acting in the line of official duty, has been a perfect bonanza to the average revenue official. When on a raid, every watch taken, every chicken stolen, every gallon of whiskey confiscated to the private use of the revenue men, was said to be in the discharge of official duties, and justice was in every case defrauded.

and its completion will not long be delayed. Surely such practical relief as this is more valuable to the people than the gratification of spleen and spite.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE SAVING WINE TILL IT RIPENS.

There is a curious story about some native wines which are extensively advertised nowadays, and have only recently been put upon the market. Dr. Underhill, the well-known grape-grower of Croton Point, died in 1877. Some of his heirs entertained temperance views of such extreme kind, that they were unwilling to allow the stock of wines then on hand to be sold or any more to be made. The grapes have sometimes been sent to market, and sometimes left to decay upon the vines. It is only now that the other heirs have succeeded in arranging for a settlement of the estate and the sale of the wines on hand. Among these is a wine of the vintage of 1864, described as a "Sweet Union Port," but suggesting the Imperial Tokay more than any other European wine, and being wholly unlike any other wine of American growth. Its purity, age and mellowness are remarkable, and both physicians and wine-fanciers have a special interest in it as the oldest native wine now accessible in any considerable quantity. The whole stocks is in the hands of the well-known wholesale grocery house of the Thurburs.—N. Y. Tribune, Nov. 19, 1877.

The above speaks for itself, but we would add that this is the pure juice of the grape, neither drugged, liquor nor watered; that it has been ripened and mellowed by age, and for medicinal or sacramental purposes it is unsurpassed. It can be obtained from most of the leading Druggists throughout the United States, and at wholesale from the undersigned, who will forward descriptive pamphlet, free of charge, on application. Respectfully, etc.,

H. K. & F. B. THURBER & CO. West Broadway, Road and Hudson Streets, New-York.
