We do not favor that economy-if it may be so called-that relies upon the neighbors for many of the tools of the farm There are certain farm implements that may be owned in partnership, as a roller or reaper, but the constant borrowing of rakes, forks, etc., is not a wise and economical practice. Be provided with all these essential farm tools, and have them in good order, and at hand when the time arrives for using them.

Now is the time to look to these matters, and make all needed preparations for the busy days that will soon be here. in the peace of winter prepare for the war

THE Kleffer pear is now being much discussed in the agricultural papers, and very opposite opinions are expressed concerning it. We have tasted the fruit, and find it anything but fine in quality; but perhaps we did not have good specimens. It is claimed to be blight proof, and that its high colored fruit sells at handsome prices. We hope it may prove a decirable acquisition; Brunton's early blackberry 18 mentioned as attracting considerable at-tention. It is very early, and on that account will prove prfitable as a market ber-The early barvest blackberry may also be mentioned as a growing favorite. The champion quince is very showy, and of good quality for cooking; the tree bears abundantly when quite young, if allowed to. The Jefferson grape is a red grape, of large size and pleasant flavor. Vergennes grape is hardy and ripens much earlier than the Jefferson. It is also a

THE composition of cow's mlik is affected by various circumstances; under extreme conditions it may contain from 10 to 16 per cent. of dry matter. The milk is poorer when the quantity produced is large or the diet insufficient, and richer when those conditions are reversed. A cow is generally in full milk from the second to the seventh week after calving; atter this period the milk gradually diminishes is quantity, but increases in richness. A separation of cream takes place in the udder; the milk first drawn is poor in fat, the richness increasing as milking proceeds, the last drawn milk containing two or three on the cover and press down securely times as much fat as the first drawn. The that no juice may escape. Bake threemilk of old cows is commonly poorer than that of young cows.

THE following are the points desirable nose, dished face, fine ears, good width between eyes, eyes not too prominent; a straight, broad back of unsform width from shoulders to ham, short legs and fine one. He should stand well up on his pins, fat at any age, and, if well reared, make a weight of 250 to 225 pounds at eleven months. Now, does not the foregoing description of a model farm hog full describe the well bred Berkshire? I think all will agree that it does, and I am satisfled that if the reader will notice the character of all the various breeds of swine he will find that the most popular ones are of sifted Indian meal; stirit vigorously; those which come nearest to the model of a farmer's hog presented above.

A New Jersey poultry breeder, after trying the value of skimmed milk and teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a buttermilk as food for laying hens and tablespoonful of nutmeg or cinnamon. hogs, came to the conclusion to dispense with the hogs and feed the milk to the enough to roll well, add equal quantities fowls, as it keeps them in good laying condition in winter, and is as cheap as anything else that can be given them. He small diamond-shape cakes. Fry in thinks poultry can be kept with great profit on dairy farms.

CUCUMBERS. - A Wisconsin gardener, on the strength of experience, commends to townspeople who want fresh cucumbers, the practice of growing them in a barrel partly sunk in the back yard, filled half full of manure, and the remainder with lost vitality and kindred troubles, guaransoil, seeds planted on the surface, and | teeing speedy and complete restoration of vines dropping over the sides,

Ir is proposed to establish three creameries in Ontario at Government expense, to give instruction in butter-making. Creamery butter sells from 8 to 10 cents per pound higher than ordinary butter. One enterprising young farmer in Ottawa went over to the States, took lessons in an American creamery, and now his butter sells 10 cents of salt. Pour the boiling milk on the higher than that of his neighbors. Hence the desire to make improvements general.

One half of the care and labor required to earn $50 tilling some crop will produce ful of vanilla and one tablespoonful of that amount for the farmer if bestowed upon his flock of fowls. If you propose to him to persistingly neglect his best cow from one end of the year to the other he will set you down as a candidate for the lunatic asylum, yet a common sized flock of fowls, such as are kept at most farmsteads, will yield as much value yearly, if properly treated, as a first rate cow.

In a soil once fertile, but exhausted by improvident tillage, the loss of fertility applies chiefly to the surface, and if we go below the distance that the roots of the grain extended, we may generally find a subsoil rich in the elements that give vigor to the growth of plants. In the approved modes of agriculture, we seek to reach and bring up the subsoil by deep plowing.

FARMERS who have basement barns can feed caives through the Winter with profit providing the animals are heifers of good milking or butter breeds. If, on the other hand, they are to be butchered and not kept as cows, calves are worth the most and with the least cost when from four to five weeks old.

In shipping fruits and vegetables in cold Winter weather line the barrels and boxes with a couple of thicknesses of news or wrapping paper. So says a man who had twenty parrels so lined detained on track for over forty-eight hours, with the meroury at zero. There was no fire in the car. The apples came out all right.

NEAR any large city a pond of clear water is worth more for itscrop of ice than the rental value of the same area of average farm land. The value of the ice crop is likely to increase, as its use is extending stirring one way till it thickens, then far beyond the increase of supply. Large quantities of ice are now brought to Bouthern cities from Canada and Maine.

ONE pound of fresh eggs is worth al most as much for food as two pounds of beef. An egg contains every necessity for the development of the perfect animal; and yet eggs properly cooked are rarely found on the farmer's table.

DOMESTIC.

An English recipe recommends the following: Put into a large basin 1 lb. of ivory black, 1 lb. of treacle, and 1 lb, of sweet oil. Stir these ingredients up with a stick, and let it stand for twenty-four hours. Then add a 1 lb. of oil of vitriol, mix with three times its weight of cold water. Stir well, and let it again stand for a few hours, then add a quart of sour beer or water. Pour it into a stone jar, which keep in a dry place. Before pouring some into the small bottle for daily use, thoroughly shake the contents of large jar for sev-eral minutes. Some of the cheap "blackings" sold are very injurious to shoe leather as they crack and burn it.

ITALIAN SALAD, -An Italian salad may be made at any time of the year of any vegetable that is in season, or a suitable mixture of cooked vegetables may be taken for it. If lettuces and endive are used for it, let them be dried perfeetly before being used. Shred the Tarragon vinegar and salt. Place it on a dish that has been made as cool as forty Degrees above Zero, when I should be Several degrees Below." "Oh, no, lettuce finely, and toss it lightly with rolled in parsley and a teaspoonful of capers. Just before serving, toss the salad lightly with a quarter of a pint of mayonnaise, garnish with boiled beet root out into strips, and four hard-boiled eggs cut into quarters. Crown the whole with stoned olives and serve.

*****Troubles often come from whence we least expect them." Yet we may often prevent or counteract them by prompt and intelligent action. Thousands of persons are constantly troubled with a combination of diseases. Diseased kidneys and costive bowels are their tormentors. They should know that Kidney-Wort acts on these organs at the same time, causing them to throw off the poisons that have clogged them, and so renewing the whole system.

The Diamond Dyes for family use have no equals. All popular colors easily dyed, tast and beautiful. 10 cents s package.

FARM HOUSE APPLE PIE,-Pare sour apples-greenings are best-and cut in very thin slices. Allow one cup of sugar and a quarter of a grated nutmeg mixed with it. Fill the pie-dish heaping full of the sliced apple, sprinkling the sugar between the layers. Wet the edges of the dish with cold water; lay quarters of an hour, or even less, if the apples become tender, It is important that the apples should be well done, in a practical farmer's hog: Fine short but not overdone. No pie in which the apples are stewed beforehand can compare with this in flavor.
