NEW TRAIN NEEDED.

With one very important exception the schedule of trains to and from Laurens is very satisfactory but that exception almost entirely disconnects a large portion of the county from the county seat. There is emphatic need of a new morning train from Spartanburg to Laurens and from Laurens on to Greenwood.

Under the present schedule it requires one whole day for a person of Laurens to make even the shortest visit to Ora, Lanford Station or Enoree and it requires the same time for a visitor from either of these three towns to spend the shortest time in Laurens. With Greenwood the condition is practically the same. This condition ought not to prevail. It makes the passenger service between here and the towns of Ora, Lanford, Enoree and Woodruff, and between Greenwood and Laurens, Waterloo etc. practically useless.

There is only one remedy and that is a new morning train leaving Spartanburg early enough to make connections with the train from Greenville and the train to Columbia, and continuing to Greenwood and returning to Spartanburg late in the afternoon. This would not only be highly advantageous to Laurens but to every town on the C. & W. C. Railroad from Spartanburg to Greenwood.

This train could be put on at very little more expense to the railroad. It could be a mixed train and handled in like manner to the early morning train from Greenville. With the immense increase in freight traffic that has come to the C. & W. C. this extra train would not depend at all upon passenger receipts for paying expenses. Instead of the many "extras" that they are using at present why not this regular train?

The Charleston and Western Carolina people have always done the square thing by the towns along its lines and we hope that Supt. Anderson will consider at once the great need of this new train.

GOVERNOR-ELECT.

A Columbia newspaper writer, on the night of the day the general election was held, declared "it is now Governor Cole L. Blease." While the nomination of the governor or any other officer in the State democratic primary is equivalent to election in South Carolina, in reality they are merely the nominees of the party for the general election which is required to confirm such nomination. As we understand the matter, it is now Governor-elect Cole L. Blease and will not be Governor Blease until formally inaugurated next January.

THE CORN CLUB SHOW.

The Laurens county boys will hold their first annual corn club show here on the 25th of this month. Superintendent of Education Geo. L. Pitts is working hard to make this the most enthusiastic meet of any county in the State. He should have the hearty co-operation of every person in Laurens county who is interested in making progressive citizens and thrifty farmers out of the boys of our State. The beneficial results of this great movement can hardly be measured and Laurens county should continue to stand among the foremost by using every means of encouragement in its power.

There are fourteen excellent prizes offered for the contest here next week and every farmer boy in Laurens county has a right to compete for them. Not a single one should be missing, either, for each has a chance of winning. You may not make the greatest yield but you may make the cheapest corn; you may not make the cheapest but you may have the best variety, or the best ears and so on. Let every boy come and try for a prize. The town of Laurens is anxious to have the entire county here and The Advertiser hopes to be able to prove the contest the most successful yet held in the State.

Newspaper headline yesterday, November 15: "Democratic Landslide Followed by Decrease in Prices of Meats."

We call your attention to a solid car load of Iron Beds that we have just received, they are matchless values and we want you to see them.

The Passing of Senator Clay.

The death Sunday afternoon of Senator Alexander Stephens Clay of Georgia, marks the passing of one of the most sturdy figures in American political life—a man who had served the State, the South and the Nation nearly fourteen years in the Senate of the United States and whom against naught could be said to blemish his character. Always noted for his unswerving honesty, his economic ecumen, his tireless energy, his loyalty to party and his country's needs.

Senator Clay was in no wise an orator, nor did he every essay to deal in high phrases of honeyed-coated sentences. In debate he was careful, courteous and kind, but firm in his convictions. His greatest service was in the committees, though he was ever a constant attendant on the Senate sessions and always a careful and attentive listener to the arguments of his colleagues.

Senator Clay was born on a farm in Cobb county, Georgia, and in his youth was a typical backwoodsman. From the time of his graduation from the high school in Palmetto, Ga., his ambition was to become a United States Senator. He passed, successfully, from city councilman to the General Assembly, where he served as speaker, then to the State Senate, where he was president two years. He was chairman of the State Democratic executive committee three years, declining re-election.

He was elected to the United States Senate for the first time in 1896, to succeed Gen. John B. Gordon, for the term beginning in 1897. He was re-elected in 1903, and again in 1909. His last term would have expired in March, 1915.

Senator Clay is the first man in the 121 years of Georgia's history as a State outside of his colleague, Senator Bacon, to be returned to the Senate for three successive terms.

FARM FACTS.

The Dairy Cow.

The dairy cow does more than bring financial success to the dairy farmer. She makes him a better citizen than he would otherwise be. Her influence upon home conditions is a most pleasing contribution to those factors which are responsible for the changed conditions which prevail in the farm homes of today. Thousands of these homes are now characterized by comfort and happiness where formerly they were blighted by drudgery and unhappiness.

Better financial conditions have contributed to this change, and the dairy cow has been in no small measure responsible. She has contributed in still another way. The dairy cow teaches kindness. Her owner soon learns that only by treating her kindly can he secure the highest possible returns from her, and she responds quickly to kind words and proper care. Her disposition is one that the human family might well emulate. She is patient and long suffering, acquiescing meekly in the arrangements made by her owner for carrying on the dairy business, striving at all times to repay him for every effort made for her care and comfort.

The members of the family, as they come in contact with her and her kindly disposition, are influenced for good. As they appreciate the financial benefit to come from caring for her well they take a deeper interest in her. In doing so they unconsciously cultivate those qualities which make them better citizens.

The dairy cow—the prototype of man's best friend—is wielding a greater influence than she is generally credited with. She has always been found in the front ranks in the march of civilization and no agricultural country can long prosper without her. She is a potent factor in the upbuilding of such a country, financially and socially, and a wise people will appreciate her and encourage the industry of which she is the foundation.

Take Care of the Child's Teeth.

The child with decayed teeth, even with unclean teeth, is open to infection of lungs, tonsils, stomach, ears, nose. Every time food is taken, and at every act of swallowing, the food must pass over these germ-infected bodies into the stomach, carrying disease and decay with it.

Mouth breathers with teeth in this condition cannot get one breath of air that is not contaminated air, for every breath becomes poisoned in passing over these germ and decay-laden teeth. Bad teeth are frequently the cause of defective eyesight, headaches, dyspepsia and ear trouble. All decay of human teeth starts from the outside. A perfectly clean tooth will not decay unless particles of food remain between the teeth long enough to decompose. Decay, therefore, always means uncleanliness. The child's teeth should be cleansed at least twice daily, and no family investment will pay better than the price of regular, prompt dental care. If the cost of headaches, earaches, sore throats, dyspepsia and a number of other ills directly traceable to bad teeth could be measured against the cost of tooth brushes, bicarbonate of soda, pulverized chalk or tooth powder, and early dental attention, upon which side would the balance lie?—Mrs. F. L. Stevens, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Keeping Turnips and Onions.

Turnips may be stored about the same as sweet potatoes. The tops should be cut off. When they are covered with sand they will rarely ever wither, but if they get very warm will start to grow and become pithy, rendering them undesirable for table use. This crop may be kept "banked up" out of doors if there is not room in the cellar. To do this successfully, pile them upon some dry substance like straw and then cover with corn stalks and straw, put on a light covering of earth. As the season gets colder more dirt may be added to keep out the frost.

In storing onions, after having kept them through the fall in a cool, dry place, I like to put them in barrels or small boxes in the cellar where they will not freeze. It is true that an onion may be kept frozen, if not disturbed, but repeated freezing and thawings, such as our changeable weather is sure to cause, will spoil them. Onions keep best when kept dry and at a uniform temperature of very low degrees.—A. M. Latham, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

How to Plant the Shade Trees.

Since the front yard should always be useful, a first essential is trees, not for appearance merely, but for shade and protection. While we wish to aim at the first principle of landscape gardening by keeping the center of the lawn an open space, yet the harsh straight line of many farm houses would be broken and the place improved by a tree in the front of the house, which at the same time gives shade just where it is needed. Another place for a tree is near a corner of the yard, not directly in line with another tree at the opposite corner, but so that the two form a frame to the house. If it is possible to plant several trees, good taste in planting decrees that they should not be in straight rows. Every effort should be made in arranging the home yard to observe the type followed by nature in woodland planting. There is a delightful sense of irregularity and happen-so in the woodland type.

If my suggestions of the early spring upon the improvement of the farm home have been followed, fine types of woodland trees in the neighborhood have already been selected and a little later may be transferred to the new surroundings. If that has not been done there is still time to make selections, always bearing in mind that the most substantial and hardiest trees are best. There is no better tree than the American elm which has all the desirable qualities of hardiness, size, cleanliness and beauty of form. The American lindens are hardy, have beauty of contour and are rapid growers. Considerable interest just now in the South is being attached to the growth of pecan and other nut trees. The pecan in particular is a handsome tree, a rapid grower and offers in the end most substantial returns for its "board and keep."—Mrs. F. L. Stevens, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

AMERICAN ARMY HORSE WINS.

John Harper, Ridden by Lieutenant of Seventh Cavalry, Gets Prize.

New York, Nov. 14.—John Harper, a brown gelding, ridden by Lieut. Gordon Johnston of the Seventh Cavalry, U. S. A., took the Plaza cup at the horse show this afternoon, bringing a conquest to the United States army in its first horse show competition in a quarter of a century. Disliberation, a bay gelding, ridden by Col. P. A. McKenna of London, was second, and Black Paddy, a black gelding, owned by Lieut. Coby of the Royal Dutch Hussars, was third. The event was of international scope, and called for the judging of 18 officers.

SENATOR CLAY DEAD.

Represented Georgia in Upper Chamber for 14 Years.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13.—United States Senator Alexander Stephens Clay, of Georgia, died at the Robertson sanitarium here this afternoon at 3 o'clock after an extended illness. His death was as peaceful as it was sudden. He had been talking with his son, Herbert, a few minutes when he suddenly ceased speaking and fell back with a slight gasp.

During the morning and afternoon the Senator appeared in better spirits than usual, the attending physician stating that he was apparently recovering from the slight relapse of Saturday. Mrs. Clay came to Atlanta from their home at Marietta in the morning, but when she found the Senator so much improved, returned to Marietta about noon. The only member of the family present at the deathbed was the Senator's son, Herbert, who is mayor of Marietta.

Suffers a Relapse.

According to the physicians, Senator Clay's death resulted from dilation of the heart, superinduced by arterial sclerosis. The Senator had been ill for nearly a year and came to the sanitarium here on November 1 to take a rest cure. He appeared to be improving until Saturday when he suffered a relapse which he, in his weakened condition, was unable to stand. The body was removed to the Clay home at Marietta late in the afternoon, where the funeral services were held Tuesday.
