Mr. Riordan spent several days in the vicinity of Clifton before coming to Bisbee.

It is understood the board of supervisors propose to number the houses and property of Bisbee to facilitate the description of property in that burg for the assessment rolls. Heretofore much confusion has resulted from inadequate description of property there, by reason of absence of any system to definitely locate any property by lot, block or street number. The matter of numbering each house by the assessor while on his rounds can be accomplished with comparative little outlay and will serve to excellent purpose.—Prospector.

Mr. Robinson, of the firm of Robinson & Toohy, railroad contractors, was in Bisbee on Thursday. The railroad is now complete to Douglas on the border line, and will be pushed on into Mexico as rapidly as possible. A camp will be established at once at Fronteras and the grading will progress toward that Sonora town and then on to Nacozari, which is the terminating point on the new road. It will be over a year before the work of the contractors is complete. In regard to the road which is being built east nothing is known, even by the men who are engaged in the construction. There is considerable life in the camps of the contractors owing to the magnetism which railroad camps have in drawing to them the rough class of laborers.

The saloon keepers of this town must have changed their brand of whisky on the boys last Wednesday, for several who took a jolt or two that day immediately started out on the war path, and Judge Wilcox had some fun with them. One miner, who is well known in this section, and who was never known to have been under the influence of liquor, took a couple of drinks and some quinine to stave off an attack of the grippe, and thereupon proceeded to clean up the town. He drew a knife on a man, when he was hauled up before Judge Wilcox, where he immediately "smashed" a constable. Another constable jumped in and the two placed the belligerent miner in the lockup, and here he proceeded to thrash the other inmates. The saloon keepers had better go back to their old brand of whisky or there is no telling what may happen.

Sweet and said that at his camp down the canyon a young man, who was traveling with him from New Mexico, was sick and he thought needed attention, but that he could not be responsible for the doctor's bill. Dr. Sweet accompanied the man to his camp and found a young man lying on the wet ground, with nothing but a blanket under him, suffering from a severe case of pneumonia. Dr. Sweet had the boy taken to the hospital at once, where he gave him the name as Joseph Frame. He is in a very critical condition.

A pleasing musical entertainment has been arranged in which the best musical talent in the city, both vocal and instrumental, will take part. At the refreshment table an oyster supper will be served. This part of the festival is under the direction of Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Smith which fact alone guarantees the excellence of the feast. The Woman's Exchange will have fresh attractions on sale and will receive orders for future delivery. Prominent among these will be some of the exquisite paper work done by Mrs. McCabe. There will be a chance for the men to smoke and the confection booth will supply the sweetening of the feast. None who enjoyed the red festival will care to miss this Valentine festival and many new patrons are expected. The public are urged to attend and take part in a happy evening, and incidentally help along a most worthy cause.

The New Samples of Spring Suitings for Men Are Now Shown for First Time

And with snow on the ground. Incongruous, perhaps, but the advantage of having first choice from such complete assortments will more than make up for any incongruity.

And then, the weather isn't serious. Before the shears could be cutting out your order, the sun will be shining again and there'll be just such days when—"a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of"—clothes.

Anyway, the new samples are ready for your inspection and the Spring campaign of business begins. There's a goodly assortment no matter whether you view it from a quantity, quality, style or economic standpoint.

By ordering now one is apt to get better tailoring than when the rush of the season's business is not; more care about every minute detail. Assortments are sure to be complete, no being compelled to take second choice.

If you are an intending purchaser or just curiously inclined, we'll gladly show you the samples. You'll find them interesting.
