

Dog Leads to Rescue

Of Trapped Hound
PONTIAC, MICH.—A collie with a sense of the dramatic hailed the local chief of detectives and led him to the rescue of a hound pup whose chain had tangled in the brush and trapped him.

The collie, prancing from the woods as the chief's car approached, rolled over and yelped frantically to attract attention. The dog then led the officer through the brush to the entangled pup.

MISTOOK THIEF FOR SLEEPWALKING MATE

Spouse Razzes Prowler and Lodger Just Yawns.

CHICAGO.—Vainer husbands may dress to go sleepwalking. Not Arthur Liebson. He's an old-fashioned sleepwalker. Pajamas are good enough for him.

And so Mrs. Margaret Liebson had to pinch herself to believe it really was her husband prowling around on his hands and knees at dawn one day recently in street clothes and a hat, looking under the twin beds in their Chicago home.

"So you're putting on airs," she said. "Dressing up to go walking in your sleep. Somnambulizing, I suppose you'd say. Really, Arthur, this is going too far. Wake up now and go back to bed."

And she fell back drowsily upon her pillow as the searcher turned without a word and crawled bear-like to the door. She laughed aloud when he got to his feet and vanished into the hall.

Husband Wakes Up.

Her laughter awakened her husband, who was sleeping on the other twin bed as he should have been. "O, it wasn't you!" cried Mrs. Liebson. "O!"

She noticed then that the $1.90 of household money she had left on the table was gone.

Her husband leaped from bed and followed just in time to see a man leaving by a window no one had ever been able to raise.

The Liebsons awakened their lodger, Irwin Rumbaugh, and told him they'd had a burglar in their home.

"Then he's the fellow who was in here and took my yellow sweater," said Rumbaugh. He looked at Liebson, an attorney, 30 years old. He yawned. And he told Liebson, as he went back to sleep: "I thought it was you—sleepwalking."

Society Girl Will Dive

For Treasure Long Sunk

BOSTON.—Three women, one a society girl, were listed as divers in the crew aboard the 65-foot schooner Story II, engaged in a search for sunken gold off the Massachusetts coast.

The expedition headed for the water off Cape Cod and along the Massachusetts coast generally. Members are pledged to continue the treasure hunt until water and weather grow too cold.

Included in the crew of 10 were the schooner's owner and skipper, Herbert Talbot, a Boston wool broker, and Mrs. Talbot, and their son, Story.

The most modern diving equipment was obtained to expedite the search for treasure, announced Talbot and the women have their duties cut out for them. All three rehearsed frequently with the telephone-equipped helmets on the Boston harbor floor for several weeks, wearing lead-weighted shoes and bathing suits.

Talbot explained he has completed a study of sunken treasure ships which he believes will yield a considerable fortune.

Record of Veteran Is

Cleared After 78 Years

WESTBORO, MASS.—In 1860 Cyrus M. Bryant was an inmate of the Lyman school. He was 15.

He ran away. The War Between the States found Bryant enlisted with the Union forces. He was decorated for valor.

His travels took him to Little Rock, Ark., where he found work as caretaker of a cemetery. For the last half century Bryant was superintendent there.

Nevertheless, his conscience troubled him. At the age of 93, Bryant returned to Lyman to surrender.

His record was cleared.

Teased Bees Tee Off

SAN JOSE, CALIF.—Sergt. Ray Blackmore and Patrolman Jack Patrick feel that it is unnecessary for citizens to telephone the police to investigate cases of where gangs of boys are "teasing" hives of bees. In response to the last request of this kind, they found upon arrival that the bees were "teasing" the boys.

Fire Chief Forgets

VINITA, OKLA.—Elmer Gentry, Vinita fire chief, parked his car on an incline and walked away. When he looked back, the machine was not there. Investigation disclosed that it had rolled into a lake and was under five feet of water.

Death Covers Third Base

GIRARD, OHIO.—The excitement of stealing third base in a neighborhood ball game caused the death of D. A. Wellington, 28, from heart disease.
