School opens Monday.
W. Y. Price went to Tucson Thursday.

Frank Marion was down from the Buttes this week.

John T. Mates came down from Kelvin Wednesday.

Jake Thomas, the mining man, came down from Ray Tuesday.

Casimero, Ariz. and family are spending the week in Phoenix.

Miss Mabel Burgess, teacher of the Mt. View school, was in town Thursday.

Geo. P. Blair, late superintendent of the Mammoth mines, left Wednesday for New York.

C. W. McKee and F. A. Harvey, of Phoenix, registered at the Florence Hotel Thursday.

George Morse, foreman of Shields & Price's Kenilworth ranches, was in town Thursday.

Mrs. T. F. Weedle and her daughter, Miss Jennie, returned last Sunday from Los Angeles.

Jesse Brown, superintendent of the Newberry Mining company, will leave tomorrow for Boston.

Mrs. Imogen La Chance, territorial president of the W. C. T. U., left Monday for her home in Phoenix.

The Sunday diners at the Florence Hotel are well patronized by the people of the town, and deservedly so.

C. G. Powell returned from Troy Tuesday. He says the camp is flourishing and jubilant over the prospect of a railroad.

Juan Aguilar and family and Sam Torres have been spending the week with friends in Phoenix, returning yesterday.

Carmen Molino, a county patient, died at the hospital Thursday of quick consumption, and was buried the following day.

Will Flint has resigned his positions as constable and janitor, and left for Troy last Monday in company with Fred G. White.

Captain John G. Keating, chairman of the board of supervisors, will leave today on a short visit to his old home in Ft. Smith, Ark.

Mrs. Helen Ledlie came down from Kelvin this week and will take her place Monday as teacher in the Florence public school.

J. C. Pby has been appointed janitor at Kenilworth, and his son Isam has the same position here, in place of Will Flint, resigned.

The Board of Supervisors met Monday and accepted the tax roll, the total of which foots up $1,785,903.89. The tax rate is $3.75 on the $100.

Messrs. Brandenburg and Anderson were in town this week from Aravaipa canyon with loads of delicious fruit, for which that section is noted.

Mrs. S. H. Summers and Mrs. Isaac Bierry and children returned yesterday from San Francisco, much improved by their summer's outing.

The condition of Peter Will is much improved, and his daughter Mary will return to Tempe to-day and resume her studies at the Normal School.

The business houses of Florence were closed Thursday out of respect to the memory of our dead President. Many were deeply draped in mourning.

The compulsory school law will be vigorously enforced in Arizona this year. The law plainly states the course to be pursued, and the arrest of parents or guardians of children not attending school will be made.

During their recent trip to Sonora Gabriel E. Angulo and Phil. Nicholas came near losing their lives in crossing a stream near Arivaipa. As it was, they lost clothing, watch, gun and other articles of value amounting to over $300.

In Honor of the Dead.

The news of the death of President McKinley at the hands of the anarchist assassin Czolgosz was first given to the Florence public through these columns last Saturday morning, and since that time the entire nation has been in mourning. Monday afternoon a meeting of citizens was called and a committee of fifteen appointed to make arrangements for properly observing the solemn occasion.

It was decided to hold memorial services Thursday evening at the Court House where the following programme was creditably carried out:

Orchestra—Dirge.
Choir—"It is well with my soul."
Prayer.
Choir—Chant.
Address by Judge F. M. Doan.
Choir—"Nearer, my God, to Thee."
Address by Mr. T. F. Weedle.
Choir—"Lead Kindly Light."
Remarks and Reading by Dr. G. M. Brockway.

"America," by the Audience.
The court room was deeply draped in mourning, and was comfortably filled with people from town and country. The services were very impressive. Bells were tolled between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, at the exact time when the funeral was taking place in Canton, Ohio.

J. H. Emmert, managing director of the Phoenix and Eastern Railway, came in from Prescott Monday, and spent a couple of days looking over this section with a view to learning of prospective business for his road. It is understood he was well pleased with the outlook. Mr. Emmert was accompanied by Charles Holborn, an old resident of our town, now residing in Prescott. They secured a private conveyance and will go over the proposed line as far as Benson, with the same object in view. The survey is now completed beyond Riverside.

O. R. Anderson and J. R. Melrose, of Tucson, were in town this week taking subscriptions for an oil company that is about to be formed to bore on the Graham ranch, at Kenilworth where the indications are said to be better than at any point yet discovered in the territory. Our citizens have subscribed liberally. Mr. Anderson, who is an oil expert, is very enthusiastic, and claims to have undisputed evidence of the existence of oil in paying quantities.

The new firm of A. Arriola & Co. is now ready for business at the corner of Ninth and Bailey streets with a large and well-selected stock of dry goods, groceries, hardware, etc. It is one of the newest places in town and the goods are bought and sold right.

J. A. Rood and his sister, Miss Anna Belle Rood, were here this week from Oracle. The latter has been appointed teacher of the public school there. She is a graduate of an eastern college and will get a territorial certificate on her diploma.

Dr. J. K. Doolittle, of Phoenix, returned Monday from Troy, where he left Miss Lyons, the trained nurse. Dr. Woodruff has now a complete hospital there, and will give his patients as good care as they can get in the city.

Claude and Miss Natalia Mieha will be home tomorrow from California. Miss Mary Sweeney will return with them as far as Casa Grande. From there she will go to Picocho, where her school opens Monday.

J. N. Olivas came over from Tucson Wednesday and will return to that city with his family. His two boys, Ventura and Juan, have secured good positions with L. Zeckendorf & Co.

Hon. M. A. Smith was selected by Speaker Henderson to attend President McKinley's funeral, but the notification came so late he was unable to be present.

Notice to the Public.

I am compelled to have cash for meat in order to liquidate my accounts. Hereafter bills must be paid on the 1st of each month. This means everybody, regardless of friendship or politics. If bills are not paid promptly on the first of each month do not ask for further credit for you will certainly be refused.
G. E. ANGULO.
Florence, Ariz., Sept. 21, 1901.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order, it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

Judges Street and Humphreys.

[Washington Special to the Minneapolis Times.]
The department of justice is at present clogged up with charges involving the honor of federal judges. Chief Justice Webster Street of Arizona is under suspicion. The charges against him are not very clear, but the statement of his accusers does not lack in distinctness.

It is said that when he was appointed he was a poor fellow without money and plenty of debts, now, with a salary of $3,000 a year, he spends as little of his time as possible in Arizona and a great deal of it in New York and Atlantic City. In New York he stops at a big hotel with a byphenated name and spends money freely.

The case of Justice A. S. Humphreys is even more interesting. He represents a fight between the American party and the strongly established Missionary party in Honolulu. The missionary element is made up of the descendants of the early missionaries. They acquired the titles to valuable properties and their children now are the richest people in the island. In fact, their money is dominant in a commercial and mercantile way. Dole is of this missionary party.

Opposed to him is the native element. It is the stronger in the legislature, and when the territorial lawmakers were in session they refused to pass some laws which were sent to them by the Dole party. Governor Dole promptly accused them of being bribe-takers. A grand jury was called to investigate the case, but got no proof.

It was charged that Dole and his friends were distinctly offended because the government at Washington had refused to prescribe a property qualification for Hawaiian voters. They wanted a property qualification as their riches would enable them to remain in power. The policy then was to throw discredit on the native legislature, with hope of inducing the government practically to take the franchise away from the natives.

The leader of the natives was an American, A. S. Humphreys, federal circuit judge in Honolulu, owner of the most influential newspaper on the island and a stirring man of affairs. When the case got into the courts he had trouble with the attorneys. Some of these he sentenced to imprisonment for contempt of court.

Governor Dole pardoned the first before the sentenced man could get across the street. He said he would pardon the others who might beset him.

Humphreys said he would carry the matter to the department of justice. He was anticipated and charges were made against him. In his reply to his accusers he swears that there was at the time the trouble arose a stockade in Honolulu with quarters for 250 females. The profits of this establishment he estimated at from thirty to forty thousand dollars a year. He said this was divided among the high officers of the territorial government. He further said that the regulations for the management of this establishment were provided by the high sheriff of the city, who was appointed by the governor. As stated, the contest is between the American party and the native party. It is anticipated in official circles, with good reason, that Judge Humphreys will be sustained. That means the downfall of the Dole government. In fact, they are now looking about for a first-class native successor of Dole.

J. W. Z. Earle arrived in Prescott yesterday from Val Verde smelter. He is making his initial trip as ore buyer for that smelter. He is equipped with a full line of photographs showing the smelter to be one of the most up-to-date plants in the west. In fact, Mr. Earle has seen all the smelters in Arizona and New Mexico, and says that the Val Verde smelter is the most modern of them all, and is equipped to handle more ore economically than any of them, and more machinery is still to be put in. The Val Verde smelter and its managers are all right. They mean business and came here to stay, become prosperous and make the country prosper.—[Prescott Courier.]

W. J. Bryan has purchased the Watchman for five dollars. Well, we would rather edit a five dollar paper than stop bullets for all the cranks in this country.—[Jerome Reporter.]

BURT GIBSON COMES BACK.

His Supposed Connection With the McCarty Case.

[From the Phoenix Republican.]

Burt Gibson, a hunter, came to town yesterday. Gibson has been figuring in a sensational story, which got into circulation soon after the discovery of the body of John McCarty, when charges began to be more or less publicly made that the remains were not those of McCarty, but were a part of the property in a plot to defraud insurance companies to the amount of $28,000. Gibson was known to be in the neighborhood of McCarty's camp at the time of his disappearance. For a long time Gibson was not heard from by any person in this part of the country. It was known that he and McCarty were unfriendly, so that when the body said to be McCarty's was found a suspicion was uttered that it was the body of Gibson and that he had been killed by McCarty in furtherance of the alleged life insurance plot.

When the body was brought here it was said by some of those who had been hunting for it that at the time of its finding Gibson was alive and well in his camp, about four miles away.

That story was doubted by acquaintances of Gibson, and the doubt was not removed until he appeared in the flesh punching a lot of burros yesterday morning.

Recent Decisions Affecting the Mining Industries.

Liability of Employer for Dangerous Explosives.—An employee who is given charge of dangerous instruments, such as dynamite, represents his employer in the care and custody of same, and is not a fellow servant, and hence the employer is liable for injuries to other employees through negligence in the care of such articles.—Rush vs. Spokane and Northern Railway company (66 Pacific Reporter, 509); Supreme court of Washington.

Facts to be Determined by the Jury.—Where a party was injured by the falling of a rock from the roof of a mine, in which he was working, it was error in the trial court, in instructing the jury, to assume that it was the duty of the mine owner to keep the roof in safe condition at the point where the accident occurred, as the most that could be done was a submission of the question to the jury whether, under the custom of the mine and the contract of employment, it was the duty of the plaintiff or the defendant to keep the roof in safe condition.—Sandy River Canal Coal company vs. Candill (60 Southwestern Reporter, 180); Supreme court of Kentucky.

If Governor Murphy should resign his office it would please the people of this part of Arizona to have his place filled by the appointment of Major S. M. McCowan. Major McCowan is one of the brightest men in Arizona, associated with no clique or clan and would give us an honest administration of affairs. By all means let him be the man.—[Mohave Miner.]

Gus Heyman, the well known and always good natured commercial man, is in town. Gus scatters seeds of sunshine wherever he goes, hence his coming is always welcomed.—[Prescott Journal-Miner.]

Gus don't scatter any more in Bisbee.
