from property-holders who have been reeither to the city or the property-holders or an individual. We give place to the following as an example, as it comes from a citi-

payer in this city since 1849, and have proudly seen San Francisco (at first Yerba Buena) grow from a little hamlet composed of a few people, proportions and modern improvements. But the corrupt cinching. I am, or was marked to be, the victim of one of these "cinches" and there-1 petitioned the Board of Supervisors for permission to make a slight necessary repair to a piece of property owned by me. In due time the matter was brought before a committee of the mission was granted it would cost me $10, the ort. As the whole repairs to my property greater than the cost of repairs, and as the rethe improvement has been left undone. It seems unwarranted tax, and shows the extent of a "grab" to which property-holders are being subjected. There is considerable hue and cry being made by these same officials and their cohorts at the dollar limit, but they remain silent when taxpayers are ground down by jobs of useless print-

Our correspondent has doubtless discovcinch property-holders. The Stock Report was declared the official organ of this Board decisions on the part of two departments of the Superior Court have restrained the present board from declaring the action of the last board invalid. It will be remembered that Judge Hunt declared the contract the last board entered into with the Stock Report illegal; but he could find no authority to prevent the performance of an illegal act. When the new board came into power and voted to ignore the illegal contract, the late Judge Hoge found authority to prevent the new board from refusing to recognize an illegal contract. We remind our correspondent of these proceedings to urge forbearance. It is not probable that an American community will tolerate such outrages for any considerable length of time. A Grand Jury is not limited in its range of inquiry to any particular sphere of action. If courts lend themselves to perpetuate such evils as our correspondents complain of, the Grand Jury will fail in its mission if it does not direct its attention to the courts. In fact, the courts are the sources of justice as well as of injustice. We cannot reach criminals except through the action of

SHERMAN ON SILVER.

Senator Sherman has recognized the free silver coinage issue as of about equal importance in Ohio with the tariff issue. Mr. Sherman is apparently well satisfied with the present act. He thinks it will gradually advance the value of silver bullion to its legal ratio with gold, and when this is reached both metals will be coined on equal terms and conditions. It has been assumed not warrant much hope of speedy equality etween the two metals in the legal ratio. It should be borne in mind, however, that Government purchases will cause a material advance in prices. It will probably be some months yet before this surplus will be exhausted. The Government has already turned $55,191,821 worth of silver bullion into Treasury notes, which circulate at par with gold. It may be that there is as much more, including the product of the period, to be converted into currency before the appreciation will be rapid and steady. A Washington correspondent examined the record of the Senate on the free coinage proposition. He finds that counting pairs voting there were 52 ayes and 36 noes. Fifty-nine ayes would be required to pass a bill over a veto in a Senate of eighty-eight members. In the next Senate he thinks there may be 55 ayes and 33 noes. This correspondent does not make allowence feether. respondent does not make allowance for the changes which may be effected by the adoption of a successful silver policy on the part of the Republicans. THE CANADIAN CENSUS.

The census of Canada should awaken the British North American people to the doubtful service which was rendered to the colony by the late Sir John A. Macdonald in subordinating the real interests of Canada to the fancied advantage of the British connection. The growth of population during the past decade is less than the natural increase, without immigration, and less than the increase from immigration without natural increase. In the two great provinces, Ontario and Quebec, the increase is a trifle over 9 per cent in the ten years. There is no increase in the maritime provinces. The only colonies which have made substantial gains are Manitoba and other territories carved out of the late Hudson Bay Company's country, which were a desert a few years ago, and have lately enjoyed a mushroom growth in consequence of their adaptability to wheat culture.

The census shows that the emigration from Canada overbalances the immigration. In 1881 the population of the Dominion was 4,324,810. Between 1881 and 1889, 886,171 immigrants arrived. Add this supply from abroad to the population of 1881 and the census of 1891 should show a population of 5,210,981, without allowing anything for natural increase. But, in fact, the census shows an actual population of only 4,823,-344. This proves that nearly half the immigrants from abroad left Canada as soon as they found what it was like, and that a sufficient number of natives followed their example to offset the natural increase. When this happens to a country it is on the downward path, and unless decay is arrested its decline may be confidently predicted.

And yet the Canadian Dominion is full of esources and possibilities. There is no State in the Union, except perhaps California, which possesses finer natural advantages than Ontario. Its soil is fertile, its reported; Eureka, .12 of an inch: The Needles. limate genial and healthy, its situation central. Its range of products is wide. It is inhabited by a sturdy, intelligent race of men. Under more favorable conditions Ontario should be progressing as rapidly as Ohio or Illinois. And yet it only gains 9 per cent in population in ten years. The other provinces have not been so blessed by nature, but none of them are destitute of resources. The soil of Quebec is largely sterile, but it has one of the finest rivers in the world and water-power enough to drive any possible number of factories. The naritime provinces have splendid resources in the shape of lumber, coal and fish. Why should a tract of country so advantaged as this lapse into decline, when on the other side of an imaginary line other tracts of country, not more highly favored by nature, should be steadily growing into mighty commonwealths? The reason has been given by one of the most intelligent public men of the day, Erastus Wiman, formerly of Canada, now of New York. Canada is declining because it persists in remaining an appendage of a foreign power 3000 miles away, and because it cramps the vigor of its native intellect by aping foreign ways, foreign customs and foreign standards. Instead of striking out for itself, and asserting an independent rank among nations, Canada ims at being a pinchbeck England, where he people are more loyal than the Queen, nd laws are enacted, not because they are good for Canada, but because they are agreeable to a Government sitting in Downing street. No nation can thrive in such abject servility to foreigners. It kills the intellect of a people to remain in pupil-It was the fate of the late Sir John Macdonald to typify colonial Torvism. He spent a long lifetime in persuading Canadians that they should not look out for themselves, but should concentrate their enerries on maintaining the British connection loes not seem to have been potent enough methods he succeeded in maintaining his control of the Canadian mind, the pending investigations at Ottawa are there to show; census returns reveal. The mischief which he did will live after him. The evil seed he owed has taken deep root. It may be ime. His successors in the Dominion Parament console the people of Quebec and Nova Scotia and New Brunswick by pointing to the growth of Manitoba; while at the very moment these consolations are tendered, the farmers around Winning are ulling up stakes and crossing the line, foreseen from the first, that it does not pay to grow wheat too far from a distributing market, especially if it has to be carried on Brazil and Cuba will therefore enter their coffees into the United States at cents a pound less than coffee from Venezuela. When we consider the fact that 95 per cent of the products of Venezuela exported to the United States have been admitted free and that 90 per cent are products upon which the President will have power under the law to reimpose the old duties, here seems ground for the assumption that the action of the Venezuela Congress is not exercise his discretionary powers to reimpose duties the countries whith which treaties have been made would have cause of now visiting Chicago, makes some remarkable disclosures regarding the effect of the last tariff adopted by this country on the business of that Far Eastern land. He asserts that since the McKinley bill was passed the planters of Sumatra have lost millions because they can-not afford to send the leaf to the United States under the new tariff law. The only way the planters can benefit themselves in order to get even is to come to this country and start an in-dustry here. "We knew the leaf could be culti-vited here before," said he, "but we did not have to come to this side of the water, as with our coolie labor, we could afford to ship it to America. But the McKinley bill killed the industry for us and now we must start Sumatraleaf plantations here, and we will have to have American labor to do our work as we are not

A Washington dispatch states regarding the Chinese head-tax operations of our northern neighbor: "The investigations which the United States Treasury Department have recently made have shown that there is an organization along the Northwestern border which is engaged in securing the admission into the United States from Canada of the inhibited Chinese, and that large fortunes have been accumulated in this illicit business." MAKING RAMIE CLOTH.

A Successful Experiment With the New Plant.

An experiment of great importance to the State's ramie culture was conducted yesterday at the California Cotton-mills, in East Oakland. It was the first experiment of the kind ever attempted in this country. It consisted in making an article of commerce out of the raw ramie plant fiber by what is known as the "dry process" or by treatment the same as jute and hemp is subjected to. The experience was a success, so far as it went, but owing to the lateness of the hour was not completed.

Seventy-five pounds of the raw fiber from the Haggin ranch at Bakersfield was used, and when the mill shut down last night it had gone through the successive stages of carding, combing and spinning and was wound upon small bobbins in the shape of a coarse twine, ready for the weaving ma-The experiment was conducted by W. H. Murray, Superintendent of ramie culture in this State, and was witnessed by a large number of interested persons. To-day the experiment will be completed by manufacturing the ramie into cloth. FAREWELL TO DR. STEWART.

A Reception to Their Pastor by the First Presbyterian Church. Quite an elaborate reception was tendered Rev. J. D. Stewart, associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, by the members of his congregation last night.

Dr. Stewart next week, accompanied by Mrs. Stewart, will leave for Pasadena, formerly the scene of his labors, and last night's reception was in the nature of a leave-taking between the pastor and Mrs. | Stewart and the people with whom they have been for the last two and a half years. The parlors of the church, at Sacramento street and Van Ness avenue, were tastefully decorated with flowers and ferns, the work of Miss Lucy Grove, assisted by the young lady members of Mrs. Stewart's San-day-school class. The reception itself orignated with the ladies of the church, and to their efforts was also due the refreshments served the guests by the young ladies of Mrs. Stewart's class.

The reception was largely attended. It was marked by a number of musical selections and two very pleasant presentations.
The first was a gift to Mrs. Stewart from the Bible class of the church of a beautiful and life-sized crayon portrait of her hus-band. The presentation address was de-livered by Miss Featherstone. The recipient was so evercome that she could only mur-mur her thanks and appreciation of the gift. The ladies of the church then presented Pastor Stewart with an equally beautiful portrait of his wife, the presentation being made by J. A. Watt.

The musical part of the reception con-isted of ten numbers, as follows: Violin solo, Martin Fielshman, accompanied by Miss Bertha Gray; vocal quarter, "Spring Song"; song, by the choir; song, Miss Jaquey; vocal duet, Signor Zilliani and Mr. Hughes; solo, with violin obligato, by Miss Boole and Mr. Clement; instrumental, quarter borrow Miss.

The presentations followed the music, and after that two hours were pleasantly spent at the table and in conversation. Rev. Dr. J. D. Stewart has been connected as assistant pastor with Dr. Mackenzie for two years and a half, at the First Presbyterian Church, and has greatly endeared himself to his congregation. He will preach his farewell sermon to-morrow. Early next week he leaves for Pasadena, where he will

UNDER ADVISEMENT.

The Hearing of the Deuprey-Fuhrman-Hutton Case Concluded. The hearing of the contempt charges against Alfred Fuhrman, Eugene N. Deuprey and Henry Hutton was concluded beore Judge Hebbard yesterday afternoon, and the case taken under advisement. The Judge announced that he would give his lecision on Tuesday. The only additional testimony taken was that of Fuhrman, called in his own behalf by Mr. Mullaney, and that of Rupert Manuel, Deuprey's clerk and the only one inby Mr. Mullaney, and that of Rupert Manuel, Deuprey's clerk and the only one injured in the fracas. He was called by District Attorney Barnes. Mr. Deuprey did not offer any testimony, and no one was called in his behalf. Fuhrman maintained that he acted purely in self-defense, and whatever personal in-juries he inflicted were with a cane snatched from the hands of some one in the act of striking him with it. Had he not been assaulted, he said, he would never have given the Court or any one else the slightest Manuel gave a very different version of the affair. He said that Deuprey went into the Law Library in the evening, where Hutton was, to demand of the latter an apology for the assault in the afternoon. The fracas in the corridor, in which he was so badly "bunged up," he said, was precipitated by Fuhrman, who undertook to assault Deuprey from behind, while the latter was passing by peaceably. But for his timely interference and the said while the latter was passing by peaceably. interference, resulting in his having his head nearly smashed, Fuhrman's blow might have killed Deuprey. It was so powerful that it paralyzed his (Manuel's) arm where it struck.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

Preparing an Appeal to the Supreme Court.

The case of Bunker & Heister of the Stock Report against the Supervisors to obtain an injunction restraining the board from canceling the contract under which the city's advertising is done in the paper owned by them and they are permitted to charge what they please for advertising street and other public work came up for trial before Judge Wallace yesterday. The action was brought after an attempt made by the Supervisors to disregard "the Solid Nine's" contract with the Report and give the printing to the lowest bidder. In response to Bunker & Heister's application, the late Judge Hoge granted them a temporary injunction and on his death the case was transferred to Judge Wallace's department. The complaint and answer were read to the court by Mr. Pierson. The former avers that unless restrained the Supervisors will damage the plaintiffs by disregarding their contract to perform the city printing; while the latter sets up a general denial that any legal contract ever was let by the Solid Nine, or that the plaintiffs ever had any legal right to perform the city printing, but it is alleged that under cover of doing the work for nothing large sums of money are collected from persons interested in notices of street work and the orders and resolu-tions of the Board of Supervisors, the annual charge for street advertising alone being $30,000. This sum and the $15,000 which, it is stated, is derived from other kinds of advertising, is alleged to be the only consideration for the so-called contract. Pierson stated that Judge Hoge, upon briefs filed, had granted permanent injunction and the only point at issue was the denial by the defendants that any such con-tract had been made. City Attorney Durst admitted that what purported to be a contract had been made, but it was not made in accordance with the law. The contract was then admitted with the resolution of the Supervisors of January 19, 1891, declaring it llegal and dividing the printing between other papers. . Edward Owens, Deputy Superintendent of Streets, was called and testified as to the practice of the office in collecting money for "the official paper." He said the amounts collected were recorded in order that they might be included in the assessment. He
