Democrats Who Are Already Seeking Offices.

AFTER THE FEDERAL PLACES

Some of the Fattest Plums and What They Pay-Those Who Are Striving for

Although the smoke of battle has not yet leared away the Democrats are puttin forth their claims to the numerous Federal esitions of patronage in this city.

There is a scramble for the heads of all ne departments, and from the number of lalmants already in the field the contest mises to be a hot one. "Cleveland has learned from a costly experience," remarked a prominent Democrat to a CALL reporter yesterday, "that it will not do to delay in these matters. He made enemies enough to defeat him the last time by keeping the men out of office who elected him. This time he will know better. Yes, the men of both parties believe that to the victors belong the spoils."

This appears to be the prevailing sentiment among the winners, as they are restresponsibility, and thus render four years of service to their country. The Mint is the main bonanza, and a

D. A. Macdonald, the president of the Enterprise Mill and Building Company, has been put forward by his friends, who have already in circulation a petition to the President-elect in his behalf.

The gentleman was seen about the matter yesterday, but he appeared to be somewhat reticent about talking about it.

"I have been approached on the subject," he said, "by a number of gentlemen, but I cannot say that I have agreed to endeavor to secure the office. In fact I have been in California for forty years, but never in all that time solicited an office at the hand of my party. This matter, I presume, will be in the hands of the State Central Committee." Mr. Macdonald left the impression, however, that he would not reject the place if it were tendered him, though he gave no sign of being in very hot pursuit of it.

producer. "Yes, sir," he observed at the rooms of Tes, sir," he observed at the rooms of the State Central Committee yesterday, "I am out for it and I cannot be stooped with the backing that is behind me. You see, in the first place I claim the office by virtue of the relative positions of the Government's edifice and my place of business. They are only across the street from each other edine and my place of business. They are only across the street from each other. Again, I have served the Democratic party for a long time and spent my money in the work. Twice I have refused the nomination for Sheriff. Adam Herold, the ex-State Treasurer, will not yield up, however, without making a desperate struggle, and he is regarded by many shrewd politicians as a sure winner. A brass band had been engaged and after several soul-stirring tunes had been played, Mr. Forman was called for.

He appeared on the balcony and made a short address, in which he thanked his audience for this demonstration of their good will, but suggested that they had made a mistake, insinuating that the demonstration should have been postponed until tonight, and that the name should then be that of Cleveland instead of his.

He assured his hearers—although he thought his assurance was unnecessary—that when he entered upon his duties an era of honest and sensibly practical administration would be commenced and maintained until the term of his official career should cease.

Three cheers were then given for Mr.

FEDERATED TRADES.

A Brief and Unimportant Meeting Held Last Night. That organized labor needs to form a new central organization if it does not desire to loose all prestige was strikingly illustrated at last night's meeting of the Federated Trades. There were scarcely twenty-five members of the council present, and after the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was over there appeared to be hardly any other business on hand.

One of the delegates moved that the salary of the recording secretary be no longer continued and that his office be made an unsalaried one. He stated that the monthly income of the council is only $97 and the regular expenses footed up $113, glving this as a reason for his motion.

At about 8 o'clock last evening a dirtyfaced, dust-bedaubed boy about 9 years old stood near the entrance of the Lick House crying most piteously. In a short time several gentlemen collected about the little fellow to ascertain the cause of his tears. The youngster said that while he was on a Post-street car near Grant avenue trying to sell his papers, two newsboys jumped on the car and knocked him off. He fell on the hard stones, he said, and hurt his leg and lost his money, 30 cents, out of his pocket.

CHARLIE FAIR'S DAY OUT.

Princess Captures the Ladies' Stakes-A Great Match Made Between Charmion and Princess-Tc-Day's Races.

The words "glorious weather, fast track, splendld racing and a big attendance" are becoming somewhat stereotyped, and still they fit the situation neatly every day at the fall meeting of the Blood-horse Association. Again they must be repeated about the sport at the Bay District Track yesterday afternoon.

Three favorites and two second choices landed the first money in the five events on the card, and punters broke about even. Esperanza, Princess, Santa Anna and Applause each won their races very easily. The last race produced one of the closest finishes yet seen at the meeting, Gibson just winning the five furlong handicap by a bare nose from Geraldine. That grand mare, though defeated, was not disgraced, for she carried and gave away lumps of weight, and Porter Ashe must have been prouder than ever of her when he saw that game response to the call made on her when the lighter-weighted Gibson had already forged half a length ahead ten lengths from forged half a length ahead ten lengths from the wire. For some seconds the issue was in doubt so far as the public were concerned, so close was the finish, but when Gibson's name went up Mr. Fair and the popular Dick Havey, to whom great credit is due for having purchased and trained the Joe Hooker gelding to the hour, were surrounded by their friends and heartily congratulated on their victory.

During the afternoon an important match was made between Dan Miller and Charley Fair for a three-quarter mile race between those two crack two-year-olds Princess and Charmion. The stakes are $2500 a side, and to this the association will add a handsome gold trophy. The race will take place next Tuesday, and will be certain to attract an enormous crowd, as it is a race for blood, and will be run rain, hall or shine.

The whole of the eight horses colored on the card started in the opening dash over

The whole of the eight horses colored on the card started in the opening dash over six furlongs, Esperanza being the favorite at long odds on. Gladiator got off with the lead, but was quickly passed by the favorite, who led Gladiator half a length to the drawgates, where, after a ding-dong race between the pair, Baldwin's filly stayed the longest and won handily by a nose from Gladiator, who was under the whip. The time, 1:14½, was good. Regal was third.

Princess was marked out on many of the bookmakers' states for the Ladies' stakes. It was a big gallop for Charley Fair's magnificent filly, who rollicked home with ridiculous ease under a big pull by one and a half lengths in 1:15½. It looked as if there would be a fight for the place at the drawgates, but Ledalia had all the best of Orta and beather out by an open length with ease. Panchita was last and pulled up lame. The third race was the mile handicap, for which Santa Anna 129, Captain Al 120, Little Esperanza 169 and Minnie Elkins 85 started. The first named was, of course, very hot shot. When the flag fell a very pretty race ensued. Little Esperanza ran out in front, but Minnie Elkins passed her on the backstretch and was first around to the three-quarters, the remainder, however, all in a closed-up bunch. Entering the straight, the favorite went to the fore and Esperanza came up on the rails second, Minnie Elkins dropping back last, while Captain Al made a stringgle on the outside, but to no purpose. The favorite won in a gallop by three parts of a length from Appleby's game little mare, who beat Minnie Elkins for the place by half a length, the latter, with her light weight serving her, coming again and making quite a run at the finish. Time, 1:43½.

The one and a quarter miles race was the medium of spirited speculation. El Rayo was picked upon to beat old Applause on the sirength of his win on Thursday, while not a few played Miss Walling for a place, but Mero was friendless. Good old Applause cut out the running with Mero and Miss Walling close up, and the favorite trailing. Thus they raced past the stand and around to the backstretch. Applause was still first Walling close up, and the favorite trailing. Thus they raced past the stand and around to the backstretch. Applause was still first when the half was reached, with all the others right up. El Rayo then took second place in the lower turn, and soon after Miss Walling fell and threw Richards, but he was fortunately unhurt. The race now resolved itself into a contest between the favorite and Applause, The latter, however, was first into the stretch, and, going with his well-known striding gallop, he stretched El Rayo's neck to a grand tune, and won looking around by daylight in 2:09. Mero was a fair third.

The grand mare Geraldine, with a "house

ing around by daylight in 2:09. Mero was a fair third.

The grand mare Geraldine, with a "house and lot upon her," in the shape of an impost of 127 pounds, was a big favorite for the last race of the day, a five-eighths haudicap for all ages. Motto and Gibson were most fancied of the remainder. Pescador played up badly at the post and delayed the start some fifteen minutes. When they got the flag they were all moving well together. Charger was the first to get his nose in front, but Geraldine soon assumed command, with Motto and Gibson close along with her. The favorite was first around the bend for home, when Hill brought Gibson even up. The pair singled themselves out and ran one of the greatest races ever seen at the Bay District Track. At the drawgates the weight began to tell on Porter Ashe's speedy mare, and a mighty shout went up when the people saw that Gibson had her in trouble. He was soon half a length in front, but Geraldine came again under Mike Kelly's desperate riding, and amid a scene of enthusiasm seldom surpassed, the pair ran locked together under the wire. Thousands of throats voiced the word "Geraldine!" and thousands "Gibson!" It was a magnificent race, and worth going a thousand mites to see. When the judge announced that Charlie Fair's horse had won by a nose the cheering was terrific, and was renewed again and again for both the gallant equines. This is the first race that Geraldine has lost during the meeting. Motte was third, Pescador fourth. Time, 1:0134.

A GOOD BILLIARD SHOT. The Object Ball Made to Describe

Diamond-Shaped Figure. New York World. The following instructive billiard shot has been arranged by Professor Vignaux, the celebrated French expert: It will be observed that the object ball, in passing around the table, describes an almost per-fect diamond-shaped figure.

The cue ball should be struck horizonally below the center, care being taken not to make the stroke too low. The blow should be quick and sufficiently hard to allow the object ball to traverse the dotted line and lodge within the dotted semicircle. The draw will cause the cue ball to carrom to the third and force it into position in the semicircle, close to the object ball.

The Coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide because of ill-treatment and family troubles. She was a native of Germany, aged 27 years. Her husband testified that they had been married about a year and that she had a violent temper, which brought on frequent quarrels in which she threatened to kill herself. About four years ago she had tried to commit suicide by jumping from the Sausalito boat. Other witnesses testified that they had once seen her covered with black and white spots, which, she said, was the result of a beating by her husband.

The last words left by Samuel Dutcher was a letter to The Call, in which he stated that he came near dying from an overdose of powder given by the doctor to induce siece. It is acknowledged that if this letter had been received previous to the inquest it might have thrown light on the half fearful investigation made by the Coroner's jury. They were afraid of leprosy and the inquisition was made as brief as possible. Dutcher left no written word to them to tell whether or not dissolution was by his own hand and they gave him the benefit of the doubt, attributing death to natural causes, glad togetaway and have the body burled. That he took polson there is no doubt, but there is an inference left by his last plaintive letter, dated but a few hours previous to his death, that it might have been an overdose taken unintentionally and that he succumbed, after all, to its effects. He still expressed the belief that he was improving and thanked some friends that had interested themselves in his behalf. Some of these were a committee from the First Unitarian Church, who, as stated in THE Call, had received $50 from the trustee for his relief. Rev. Charles W. The city election will be held next April, and already there is considerable talk concerning it. There will be elected two Trustees, the terms of E. B. Mastick and C. S. Neal expiring, and two School Directors, the terms of C. A. Brown and D. J. Sullivan expiring. There will also be elected a City Recorder, City Treasurer, City Marshal and City Assessor. Heretofore no party lines have been drawn and it is not party lines have been drawn and it is not likely that this custom will be changed at the coming election.

THE PLEASURE OF FALLING. One Way of Dying Declared to Be Exceedingly Pleasant.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"When my time comes to cross ever the river I hope to be killed by a fall," said Dr. H. C. Smith. "It is a beautiful death, and the victim passes from time to eternity as sweetly and painlessly as an infant fall-ing asleep. The old Roman method of execution by hurling from the Tarpeian Rock was much preferable, from a humanitarian point of view, to electrocution, be the latter never so sudden. I have had several falls

THE SPANISH PRETENDER.

The Outbreak for Don Carlos, Who Aspires to the Throne. London Daily Graphic.

There has been of late a noticeable revival of Carlist activity in Spain, and signs are not wanting that there may be ere long another blow struck. For some years after the war the Government displayed a watchful vigor, which made further conspiracy almost impossible; but since then it has had its hands full with so many other domestic foes—Republicans, Federalists, Zorillists, anarchists and the rest of them—that the Carlists are perforce left almost unmolested. For some time now they have been steadily at work perfecting their organization over the whole kingdom, and I am credibly informed that whenever the Carlist standard is again raised it will not be without something very like an absolute certainty of victory. Don Carlos is one of the most humane men alive, and the loss of life involved in the last war so affected him that he determined never to recommence hostilities so long as the issue remained at all doubtful. Committees have now been established in every town and village of the highlands, and to an almost equal extent throughout the rest of Spain; and each town has its club, if only a room or two, where Carlist literature may be read and almost impossible; but since then it has had inave the body buried. That he took polson there is no doubt, but there is an inference left by his last plaintive letter, dated but a few hours previous to his death, that it might have been an overdose taken unintentionally and that he succumbed, after all, to its effects. He still expressed the belief that he was improving and thanked some friends that had interested themselves in his behalf. Some of these were a committee from the First Unitarian Church, who, as stated in The Call, had received $50 from the trustee for his relef. Rev. Charles W. Wendle, who brought it about, states that a meeting will probably be called within a few days to take steps toward starting a reform movement for the benefit of such outcasts.

When the opium den was raided at Ninth and Franklin streets by Officer Scanlon the other night a leper was captured. This was Ah Lem, who was taken to the city prison with four others, who were frequenters of the den. The Chinaman, who has been middled five years, will be taken to the Dutcher cabin at the County Infirmary grounds. His disease was detected yesterday by Health Officer Dunn.

The shanghaiers have apparently captured Charles Boswell. He is a young man who has been living with his father at Fortleth street and Broadway. He had a habit of lingering about the wharves and has not been seen since Thursday morning. The will of Joseph Santos has been field for probate, leaving property worth $19,000 to his three children. Santos was the farmer near Centerville lately killed by a runaway accident.

TAKEN AT HER WORD.

She Gave Him a Lecture, But Did Not Illustrate It by Practice. "You cannot always take your own medicine or even be measured by your own standards," said a woman recently who prided herself upon being exact and systematic in all things, and who could enjoy a joke even at her own expense. "I was at a reception not so many years ago," she said, rather demurely, "and was playing upon the plano to entertain a small group of friends, when a man who had shown me considerable attention suddenly interrupted me by acking."

me by asking:

"If you were very much interested in a young woman, what considerations would prevent you from asking her to marry

"Well, I, of course, was somewhat taken aback, and not being in the mood for a scene right then and there, turned around and answered: 'Well, I should never propose to a woman I have met only at receptions and in company, I should make it a point to call on her at all sorts of unexpected times, to see how she looked at home in the morning, whether she went about in an old wrapper with disheveled hair and slipshod; whether she helped her mother or lolled about reading novels until noon. A man makes a great mistake when he takes it for granted that the woman he admires possesses all the domestic virtues in the calendar and is always attractive and aniable. In fact," she added, "I gave him a long lecture on the added, "I gave him a long lecture on the subject, for which he thanked me. I may add that I never met the man again. Next morning, contrary to my usual custom, I slept until nearly noon, coming down to a 12 o'clock breakfast. Mr. H—had already called three times."

A Credit to Her Sex New York Su The women students at Oxford have since 1884 obtained several first-class honors in modern history. This year, for the first time, a woman has achieved the distinction time, a woman has achieved the distinction of a first class in the final classical school. And at the same time a Parsee student, Miss Sorabjis, has accomplished the more remarkable feat of taking a third class in the examinations for the B. C. L., the most difficult law examination of the university. Of twenty-five men with whom this woman student had to compete two failed altogether, two obtained seconds and not one a first.
