GEORGE LESLIE BELIEVES HIS DAUGHTER WAS NOT FAIRLY DEALT WITH.

HE HINTS AT DARK DEEDS,

MAYOR PARDEE IS SCORED BY THE GERMAN-AMERICAN INDEPEN-DENT CLUB.

George Leslie of 915 Fifth street, father of the late Mrs. Frankie Leslie Miller, who died suddenly at Fitchburg on February 19, is reported as being dissatisfied with the verdict of the Coroner's jury and may demand an investigation. Leslie has been to the Coroner's office several times to look over the records of the inquisition.

Mrs. Miller was 25 years of age and resided with her husband at a Fitchburg wayside house. She was attended by Dr. E. M. Keves, and his testimony, with that of her husband, Charles Miller, was to the effect that death was due to alcoholism.

The jury that heard the testimony was composed of J. W. McNeil, W. S. Peters, J. Barge, John Greaney, A. C. Loos and P. C. Smith. Their verdict was that "death was caused by chronic alcoholism, which O'Connell. was hereditary."

This verdict, the father of the young woman does not approve, and he desires and will ask that an autopsy be made and that the body be exhumed for that pur-

The father intimates that his daughter did not die of alcoholism at all, but of a stronger decoction, and he broadly hints at poison. He says that an autopsy should have been held to determine the exact cause of death. He is also reported to have said that Miller had two wives previously who died suddenly, and that the last one died while alone in the house with her brokend with the rockery from both sides. The park is to be surrounded by a cement wall six feet wide and will not contain any benches. Coroner Baldwin was not at his office last evening, but the people in charge said that the inquest was properly conducted and the verdict as rendered was in accord-

The father of Mrs. Miller was seen last evening. He refused to talk, and said he had something in store for the papers. He also said something in a vague way about getting justice in the courts and not in the bidder of the papers.

THE REVIVAL OF BOXING.

VIEWS OF ATHLETES AND BUSINESS MEN ON SCIENTIFIC FISTICUFFS.

SENATOR TONER'S BILL HAS BEEN FAVORABLY COMMENTED UPON.

The sporting fraternity of this city is anxious for a renewal of the boxing times of two years ago. Senator Toner has introduced a bill to revive this sport in this city. It provides that any one who takes part in a prizefight as principal, second or participant in bringing about the fight may be sentenced to a term of two years, but adds that the penalty is not to apply where scientifi boxing matches are held in athletic clubs in which the principals wear five-ounce

William Greer Harrison, who for many rears was presiding officer of the Olympic Club, remarked, while conversing on fisticuffs, that scientific boxing should not be interfered with, as it was as much the part of an athletic education as any other branch of athletics,

"I have never known a clever boxer whom I could call a coward," said Mr. Harrison, "and furthermore, any man who can defend himself with his fists will never resort to a pistol or a knife; in fact boxers, as a rule, do not carry dangerous weapons."

Mr. Harrison spoke strongly against slogging matches, which, he said, were a detriment to the sport and dangerous to the participants.

L. R. Fulda, who was the organizer of the defunct California Athletic Club, was in favor of a revival of boxing, provided that clubs holding boxing entertainments pay a license for that privilege.

"My reason for so saying," said Mr. Fulda, "is that unless a tax of some kind is imposed upon boxing clubs there will be fisticuffs carried on in every cellar large enough to accommodate a crowd of sporting

"I cannot understand, that is, from a humane point of view, why intercollegiate football can have full swing while boxing is frowned down upon by the very people who have witnessed and approved of a sport which has maimed so many fine young athletes. Can it be that because football is the favorite pastime of the sons of men who object to boxing, the law does not prevent its continuance? Possibly if teams of boxers engaged in the same sport and played as rough ball as the collegiates, the former would be classed as kicking sloggers and arrested at the instigation of the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. 'I cannot understand, that is, from a of Cruelty to Animals.

"There is not a sport in the athletic line that can compare with boxing from any point of view, and I have yet to see a man who retired from a gymnasium after wit-nessing a good scientific contest between well-trained athletes who disapproved of the pastime.

"The great setback to scientific boxing is that it is classed among the brutal prize-fighting so-called sport by people who have never witnessed a boxing contest. It have never witnessed a boxing contest. It is too bad that prize-fighting and boxing are confounded by so many people, who look upon any kind of fisticuffs as something horrible. I certainly believe that scientific boxing should be permitted. During the two years I presided over the California Club there was not an accident worthy of mention, although several hundred contests were decided between boxers of all sizes, weights and color."

August Dynoker a Post-street merchant

August Drucker, a Post-street merchant, said that he could see no harm in scientific boxing if conducted under competent management.

Eugene O'Rourke of 11 Third street was of the opinion that boxing had no element of brutality attached to it when held in a club, such as the old California.

Ed Ladd, a well-known merchant, said that unless a heavy license was imposed upon boxing clubs there would be an overflow of boxing institutions in this city, should boxing be allowed. He was in favor of the pastime under certain restric

Mr. Dally, who at one time acted as sec-retary of the old California, saw no reason why Senator Toner's bill should not become a law.

"To insure good sport," said Mr. Dally,
"boxing clubs should be made to pay a license, and all pool-sellers should be removed outside the city limits. It is the pool-seller who kills the men and the sport as well."

Ed Kolb of the Olympic Club said that he hoped Toner's bill would go through all right, as there could be no reasonable objection to scientific boxing matches.
"I am strongly opposed to prize-fighting jection to scientific boxing matches.

"I am strongly opposed to prize-fighting though," remarked Mr. Kolb, "and I do hope a heavy fine will be placed on this so-called sport so as to kill it in the future. A man cannot be considered a thorough representative of the Anglo-Saxon race who would cry down a clever boxing exhibition between thoroughly drilled men. Boxing is the most manly of sports."

Percy Beamish said that he had taken great pleasure in witnessing the contests held in the gymnasiums of the old California and Olympic clubs, and would like to see the former blossom out again.

"I am afraid though," added Mr. Beamish, "that the town would be overrun with two-penny clubs should the law legalize.

James Powers, a yachtsman, did not approve of boxing in any form. He thought that a young man could get along well enough without the knowledge of the so-

The Untimely Death of Frank A. Audlauer Will Be Investigated.

The Coroner's office is in receipt of information concerning Frank C. Audlauer, whose body was found floating in the bay off the Mail dock on Christmas day last. Little was known of the deceased at the time. Like hundreds of bodies picked up in the surf, his passed through the Morgue to the grave with no more ceremony than the inquest.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Cosamjou kept watch over Audlauer's effects at 435 Jessie street. Audlauer had lodged at her house for a year. She knew him well, knew him as a year. She knew him well, knew him as a quiet, sober, industrious man. The night previ ous to his taking off he did not come home. She was uneasy over his absence. She was shocked when two strange men called the day after Christmas and told her of his strange death. The men made an an examination of his room and departed. Mrs. Cosamjou was not summoned to appear before the Coroner's jury and she failed to notify Dr. Hughes, then Coroner, what she knew of the dead man, so the jury rendered a doubtful verdict. It simply found that Audlauer had been drowned. Now comes a letter from Charles Aud-

Now comes a letter from Charles Audlauer of 351 Hunterdon street, Newark, N. J., a cousin of the deceased, asking that in view of the mystery surrounding his death an investigation be made. This cousin also wrote that the dead man had $1000 in bank, and scouted the idea of suicide. The letter was written in reply to one from Mrs. Cosamjou, who makes the following explanation:

following explanation:

"When the Coroner did not come I packed the effects of Audlauer into his valise and placed it in the cellar along with his trunk. Then it struck me that he must have some friends, and in looking over his letters I found the address of an Audlauer at Newark and wrote to him. Everything belonging to the deceased is safe and awaits a claimant."

Mrs. Cosamjou was certain that Audlauer did not commit suicide, but could offer no explanation as to the incidents of his death. She is the mother of a large family and a woman of intelligence.

The bank books showed that Audlauer had $537 68 on deposit in the Savings and
