The Typewriter Girl.

The beautiful typewriter girl puffed out her golden pompadour nervously.

"My speed'll increase, Mr. Meer—excuse me, Mr. Wellington—my speed'll increase 30 or 40 percent every day.

Broker Wellington frowned. The girl had taken his dictation slowly, and in a stern, sceptical voice he said: "How so?"

"It's your new vocabulary that puts me out," she exclaimed. "I had Mr. Meer's vocabulary very pat—as per, 'contents noted,' 'the same'—he only used about 30 words."

Her flattering smile warmed the man like a sunbeam.

"But you, sir, have a real literary style. 'Beg to submit,' 'our best attention,' 'slump,' 'bullish,' 'hypothesize'—they're all new words to me, and, of course, I can't rattle them off very fast at first. But just you wait say, till day after tomorrow. Then you'll see."

"All business men have different vocabularies, eh?" said the broker.

"Yes, sir. Some large, some small." Again her smile flattered him. "Your's is larger than most. I should say it was thirty or forty words larger. Real literary, I call it."

"Miss Hoskins, if there's—er—any supplies you need, all you've got to do is to ask," said the literary broker, fatuously.—Tit-Bits.

Points for the New Curate.

Dean Pigou gives a few reminiscences of Doncaster, where at one time he was vicar. Among the stories he tells is this, concerning one of his curates. He went to see an old woman with whom visiting had perhaps been overdone. She at once accosted him.

"So you are the new curate, aren't you?"

"Yes," he replied.

"Well, just you sit down on that 'ere chair." It was a three legged stool of most uncertain standing.

"Now, I'll tell you what you does on that stool. You then read me, mind, a short psalm. Then you gives me a shilling, and you can go."—Vanity Fair.

Very Serious

It is a very serious matter to ask for one medicine and have the wrong one given you. For this reason we urge you in buying to be careful to get the genuine—

THE FORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT
Liver Medicine

The reputation of this old, reliable medicine, for constipation, indigestion and liver trouble, is firmly established. It does not imitate other medicines. It is better than others, or it would not be the favorite liver powder, with a larger sale than all others combined.
