No. 55. Pineapple lands in Dade county, on railroad. 5 acre lots, $20 per acre. If you want pineapple land or a pinery already in bearing, write us.

41. A pretty little grove with fine location for house on river bank. About five hundred boxes fruit this season. Wharf on the property and new packing house.

Do you want an interest in bearing orange grove? No better investment in Florida. Write for particulars, estimate of profits, expenses, etc.

43-acre tract, one of the best in San Mateo for oranges or peaches, about 20 acres cleared, fences not in best of shape, small house and packing house.

Five acres in San Mateo corporation, $500. One-fourth mile from post office; lies well for two or more lots for winter cottage.

Building lots in good location, $100 to $500; 100x200 feet to 5 acres in extent.

We have properties running from a few hundred to $18,000. Write us about price you would want to pay for a place and we will write you about what we have around your figure.

There are orange groves here that are paying from $100 to $1,000 per acre.

A Boston gentleman came down in December for his health, bought 10 acres of land for $500, had it set out to oranges and grapefruit; and before he left in spring could have sold at enough profit to have paid all his expenses for the winter. He refused to sell.

Fifty acres, part cleared, railroad one side, river on west; one mile from San Mateo postoffice, on hard road; $500.

Wild land, large tracts, up to one thousand two hundred acres; five miles west of Palatka; $5.00 acre. County building hard surface road through it; lies between two railway lines.

Buy your ticket to San Mateo; see what we have to offer. It costs less than to go farther south and then come back.

If You Want a Home in Florida, Come to San Mateo and see what We Have to Offer. You Will Make a Mistake if You Don't.

GARDEN OF EDEN IS FOUND AGAIN

In India North of Bagdad According to Sir William Willcocks, of Egypt.

With Captain Bertram Dickson, formerly British Military Consul at Van, having located just where the ark struck real land after the deluge, and having demonstrated additionally that Noah was much given to the juice of the grape, even though he invented the "water wagon," Sir William Willcocks, the British adviser to the Turkish Ministry of Public Works, now has come along with a statement as to the precise geographical location of the Garden of Eden. According to his measurements the homestead of Adam and Eve was situated in the Harilah district, just about 250 kilometres north of Bagdad.

This spot, so, it is explained, is an oasis, situated in the centre of a vast, desolate plain, which is traversed by four arms of the Euphrates, which represent the four rivers that are mentioned in Biblical stories of the Garden of Eden. Of the four rivers referred to the Euphrates apparently is the same river which still is known by that name, and the Hiddekel has been almost universally identified with the Tigris.

The object of commentators who have sought to put a literal construction on the passage, therefore, has been to identify the Pison and the Gihon, by finding two rivers, which, together with the Euphrates and the Tigris, fulfill the conditions stated in Genesis:—"And a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from thence it was parted and became into four heads." As there is no river which forms a common source for the Euphrates, the Tigris and two others, recourse has been had to a strained construction of one kind or other.

The quarrel between Cain and Abel, so Sir Williams holds, arose, according to local tradition, over the water supply. Cain and his followers were agriculturists, who cultivated the banks of the river, while Abel was a shepherd, and it was necessary for his flocks that the pasturage on the plain should be irrigated. That is to say, if the river flowed in its natural bed the tillers of the soil would prosper, but if the waters were spread over the plains the shepherds would prosper. As the result of the row victory rested with Cain.

As to the deluge, Sir William suggests that the dams or dykes built by the pastoral dwellers to conserve the waters of the Euphrates and the Tigris burst and the plain between the rivers was submerged, the greater part of the population being drowned. Noah, having advance information as to the condition of the dams and foreseeing their collapse, built the ark and thus escaped the big flood when it did come. Hence his voyage may not have been as long in point of distance traversed, as often has been credited in his maritime record.

Brains of Men and Brutes.

Prof. Ranke sometime ago brought out a new fact concerning the brain of a man as compared with that of other animals. It has long been known that the brain of a man does not weigh as much as that of a whale, or an elephant, and that there are birds and apes whose brains are heavier than man's in proportion to the weight of their bodies. But Prof. Ranke showed that the way to reveal the actual superiority of the human brain is to compare its weight with that of the spinal cord. Measured in this way, man's brain is proportionately far heavier than that of any of the lower animals.—Harper's Weekly.
