LOCAL NOTES.

Two car loads of furniture just received at Kohler's.

It is estimated that the weight of the Head Center mill which is being moved to this city will be approximately 200 tons.

A very rich strike is reported in the Nicholas mine, owned by Van Burt and Pearson. Further particulars tomorrow.

At the match game of baseball played on the foundry grounds Saturday last, Toomey's nine waxed the opposition by a score of 40 to 22.

The Beautiful Dream in the Air, by Miss Belle Bertrand and Stanselle. Reserved seats without extra charge at Walker's.

The brother of Mrs. John Jane, arrived to-day from Nevada City, California. He came up in private conveyance from Benson.

If the man who took a gold pen, a pocket-knife and a pair of scissors out of this office yesterday will return them, he will receive the curses of the editor.

The funeral of the late John Jane took place this afternoon and was largely attended. His friends were many. None knew him but to respect him in life, and the memory of a good man still lives in the hearts of his acquaintances.

The Mexican who was nearly beaten to death by four of his countrymen at Fairbank yesterday is in a bad way. His nose is broken from contact with a sixshooter and his skull mashed by a blow with a rasp. Two of his assailants are in the county jail, and two more are yet to be captured.

Old newspapers for wrapping purposes for sale at this office; 25 cents per hundred done up in bundles of one hundred each.

P. O. S. of A.

Tickets for the ball on the 22nd inst. for sale at Pete's and Yonge's drug store, Joe Brown's book store and Seaman's jewelry store. Tickets sold to those only having invitations.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

Of the Rights to be Seen at the Carnival next Month at Guaymas.

The excursion to Guaymas, of which we have made previous mention, is now an assured fact. The sale of tickets will commence on the morning of March 1st. Tickets will be good to return on last train leaving Guaymas on March 5th.

March 3d, is opening day. The festivities commence with a carnival procession, music being furnished by a full military band, which will play every day during the carnival. In the evening will occur the carnival ball, for which excellent music will be furnished. This will be a grand affair, the hall being expensively decorated for the occasion. In the afternoon of the second day is the "Juego de Harina," which, with the dancing on the plaza by the participants, is well worth a trip to Guaymas.

The third day is set apart for the Feast of the Cascaronas, which is a novel and interesting sight. A second grand ball takes place on the evening of the second day to which all are admitted. Although nearly all attend in fancy costumes it is not essential that they should be worn. Tickets for free admission to the balls can be procured by application to Chas. R. Hudson, N. M. & A. R. R., Guaymas.

These attractions, together with sight-seeing, fishing, shooting, boating etc., cannot fail to pay any one for the time and expense of the trip.

Going down the train will stop forty-five minutes at Hermosillo, thus giving passengers an opportunity of driving about the city. The company wish to put on enough extra coaches at Benson to accommodate all who wish to go. That sufficient coach room shall be provided it is essential that all proposing to join the excursion should give their names as early as possible to Geo. H. Kent, agent at Fairbank, or C. D. Gage, superintendent of the Stage company at this place.

The great vanishing illusion! Don't miss it! Produced by Stanselle, the wizard, and Miss Belle Bertrand—Thursday night.

George Johnston, a merchant of Memphis, dropped dead when suddenly called upon for a speech at an entertainment. It ought to be against the law to jump on a man that way.

Charley Smith, who was shot so seriously last summer by Cunningham, is out on the street again. The nature of the wound made it very necessary that he should keep his leg in one position for many months. Although not able to walk yet without crutches, he will gradually be able to use the injured limb without them. He is a walking advertisement of the skill of his physician Dr. Dunn.

There are explosives which have seventy times more power than gunpowder, and yet it is only now and then that a man seats himself on a keg of powder to enjoy a quiet smoke.

Ladies are astonished, children are amazed, gentlemen are pleased by the wonderful feats of Stanselle, the wizard.

HARQUA HALA.

Some Interesting Notes From an Old-Timer

Who Thinks It Will Be the Biggest Camp in Arizona.

George Peterman, an old Pacific Coaster and one who has been in nearly every mining camp on the coast, returned Friday last from the Harqua Hala district. He gives the new district a very flattering send-off and believes it will be a great country in the near future. The bonanza boys are not doing anything on their property, but some parties owning the third extension on the same ledge have sunk a shaft fifteen feet deep and drifted both ways from six to ten feet to determine the character of the walls but are still in ore. Their rock is of the same character as the original find and every pan of dirt taken from the bottom of the shaft shows up a fine prospect. The country for twenty miles around is being prospected and every new character of rock brought into camp is eagerly scanned by the miners and in the morning bright and early the discoverer is watched and his tracks are followed by a score or more of curious prospectors.

A well was sunk close to the big ledge and an abundance of water struck at the depth of thirty feet. There are two mixed stores there and on the way out Peterman met Wyatt Earp going in with an immense load of bar fixtures and liquors, accompanied by two women. Earp thinks it is going to be the biggest boom ever seen on the Pacific coast and goes prepared to build a substantial building. He will locate near the mine, where the water was struck, and endeavor to draw others to that spot and start a town there. Nellie Cashman has gone away. Jim Coyle is there watching his locations. Mrs. Coyle is with him. Bloomer is still monumenting.

There are a number of old shafts around the country and evidences of old workings everywhere. Just before Peterman arrived there a prospecting party discovered the skeletons of two men and three horses about six miles from camp. They had probably been killed by Indians as there were no signs of saddles or other handwork of man around. There is an old woman living at Harrisburg who has monumented the whole country around there, having no less than 300 locations. Year after year she has relocated these claims but never recorded any of them. A piece of paper bearing her name can be found under a pile of rocks in nearly every direction. Her name is Carmillita. The bonanza mine, it is understood, is in litigation. It is asserted that a fourth party claims an interest in it and had it not been for this the claim would have been headed long ago. It seems that four men were in the party originally and that the fourth man went to Yuma for supplies leaving the three to prospect. While he was gone these rich mines were discovered. Three claims were located and the fourth party was left out in the cold. He naturally objected to this style of partnership and still objects. Mr. Peterman left a partner on the ground with a three months' supply of provisions and will return himself just as soon as he can get things in readiness.

The Harrisburg mill will start up in a few days and there will be plenty of rock to keep it going all the time. This mill has been run on ore from a mine near the mill and only shut down for the reason that the ore at a depth of 200 feet ran into sulphurets which could not be milled. Mr. Peterman believes it will make a great camp. He brought some rock with him taken from a location made by himself, which he will work at once on returning. The ore is lively-looking and horns well.

After George Thafter, of Natchez, had made a legal affidavit that on the 24th of December, 1888, the current of the Mississippi river flowed up stream for half an hour, half a dozen parties went at it and proved that he was drunk all that day. It was the current of his whiskey that flowed up stream.

COAST CLIPPINGS.

John Coulter of San Adreas killed fifteen pigeons at one shot last Friday.

R. A. Marshall finds time to run a newspaper at Burbank, another at Newhall, and to act as Justice of the Peace.

A San Diego man has planted ten acres in mulberry trees, preparatory to going into the business of raising silk worms.

Robert Ward & Co. and Hall & Gospel at Victoria, B. C., offer to insure sailing schooners against seizure and capture by American vessels in Behring Sea.

The boys whittle the desks to pieces, shoot off firecrackers and howl like dervishes during school hours at the Folsom public school, says the Telegraph.

When a Vacaville man wants to post a letter he has to walk to Sacramento to buy a stamp. The local postmaster finds it does not pay to keep any stamps to hand.

Since electric lights were introduced in Willows not a wild goose has been seen to fly over the town. The Journal suggests that large farmers put in these lights in their grain fields and stop hiring goose-borders.

The Monrovia Messenger says: The tin mine, of which mention was made two weeks ago, promises to be a bonanza to the owners. An assay of the mineral proves that it is a fine quality of tin, and the extent of the deposit is practically inexhaustible.

The bones of the mastodon recently unearthed by some pioneer miners near Salmon Falls, Idaho, are on exhibition at Shoshone. It's ribs are nine feet long, and the whole mass of bones is estimated to weigh 3,000 pounds.

Herman Huber, a well-known and wealthy farmer, living about nine miles north of Freeport, Sacramento county, while on his way home Sunday afternoon, riding a young and spirited horse, was thrown, and falling on his head his neck was broken.

During the car strike in New York and Brooklyn over 2,000 policemen used their clubs at different times. There must have been a brisk demand for armica and court plaster during the week past.

Judge Stillwell returned from Wilcox on the noon coach. He represented the Territory in the case against Anderson, who was arrested on a warrant sworn out by McKean for the larceny of a wagon. The defendant was discharged, as there was no evidence to support the charge.
