FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1897

Coxey might secure the side show and red lemonade privilege for Debb's co-operative march to the West.

It's the color of the explosive fire-cracker which permits the remark that it, too, when it goes on a blow-out, paints the town red.

Mr. FORAKER did not attend the convention of the Ohio Republicans. He remained in Washington to sit up with the tariff bill. In the autumn he will go to Ohio to sit up with Mr. Hanna.

The New York Sun says: "The Hon. Thomas E. Watson, of Thomson, Ga., who is stepping to the helm of things once more without any very pressing invitation from anybody but himself, remarks with conviction that 'free silver is itself too small an issue on which to appeal to the people.' Consequently he is about to offer himself as an issue of the right size, and to surround himself with the initiative and referendum and other new attractive goods. Mr. Watson makes a very comfortable party himself, but when he wraps himself up in the initiative and referendum and lets his bright bronze hair shine like a beacon upon the Middle-of-the-Road, he becomes not merely an ornament, but a happiness. His convention or conference at Nashville next week will be watched with jealous eyes by his innumerable rivals, whether they belong to the middle or side of the road or to the ditch.

WHEN a firm is in the heyday of its prosperity, when business is good and competition not felt, it is no unusual thing for an advertising solicitor to be informed that the concern is so well known and its business already so extensive that advertising is a useless expenditure of money. We have known a number to argue in this way. In almost every instance where this has happened we have seen younger competitors, by judicious advertising and push, pass them in the race for business. Then these concerns that were too well known to advertise would awake to the situation and their advertisements would again appear, but while they were sleeping their wide-awake competitors must necessarily have made inroads into their business, which, with fair treatment and business-like methods, they will hold. Let the largest house in any line stop advertising and note in what incredibly short space of time a larger business will be built up by somebody who works while they sleep.—Williams News.

Out at Toledo Hanna is swearing eternal fealty to Bushnell and Bushnell to Hanna, but neither is willing that the other shall select a chairman of the Republican State committee. Rendered into plain English this means that Hanna expects Foraker and Bushnell to sacrifice the Legislature to re-elect Bushnell, and that they expect Hanna to give the whole State ticket the dump to save himself.

The probability is that both will be compelled to drop the particular favorites for State chairman and accept a compromise field marshal that can't be trusted to play fair. The bitter struggle of the Ohio Republican factions for control of the party organization indicates that Ohio politics are going to be of the red hot variety this fall, and that those most interested want to be in position to look out for themselves and let the devil take the hindmost.—Philadelphia Times.

CRUSHING HOME INDUSTRIES.

The Philadelphia Times, a Democratic, gold bug organ, that supported the Republican ticket last fall repents of its sins in the following wall:

"Do not the Republican leaders in Congress see by this time that the tariff is being shaped entirely to satisfy monopoly and political interests? If they do not see it, they must be stone blind; if they do see it, they are submitting to the most onerous and dangerous form of taxation that can invite only political revolution in the near future.

The wool schedule as adopted by either house is simply a movement to crush some of the most important home industries of the country. The theory of imposing a high tax upon carpet wools, not a pound of which was ever grown in this country or ever can be grown here, can mean neither more nor less than crushing out the carpet industries of the country, which are largely centered in this city. It is protection run mad to tax wool that we cannot grow, in the vain hope of protecting our wool growers, who furnish a quality that cannot be used as a substitute in our carpet industry. In short, the wool schedule as approved by either branch simply means crushing out an important home industry and crippling many others.

Another and even more flagrant effort to crush out one of the great industries of this country was a proposition adopted in the Republican Senate caucus a few days ago to impose a tariff tax upon hides. It was done in obedience to the demands of the Cattle Trust, and there is not a Senator or Representative who urges this tax who does not know that he is simply serving one of the most oppressive monopolies of the country. Some may be deceived, but others must certainly have an interest in this demanding legislation for the benefit of the Cattle Trust while taxing the whole 70,000,000 of people for their shoes and crippling our leather industry, that has grown up not only to supply the whole country with the cheapest and best shoes ever made, but now exports nearly $20,000,000 a year.

Unless protection is to be made so odious that the people must reject it absolutely, the Republican leaders in the present Congress must at once set their faces like flint against legislation for monopoly and political interests, which can result only in crushing important industries in the nation. Thus far there has been no honest attempt to make an honest tariff, and monopoly and politics have dominated every important movement in shaping the new tariff bill. Will not the Republican leaders be admonished in time?

The Lordsburg Liberal gives an account of a recent attempt of deputy sheriff Clark, of this county to round in a gang of cattle thieves, who had taken refuge in Grant county, New Mexico. It says that whenever Grant county criminals have taken refuge in Graham county our officers have always aided the New Mexico officers to arrest the criminals. Mr. Hart, in this instance had followed a number of "rustlers" over there and had them located; had a posse with him sufficiently strong to capture the whole outfit, but being in New Mexico he must have a New Mexico official with him in order to make his acts legal. He telephoned Sheriff McAfee, explaining the situation, and asked for one of his deputies to be sent up, said he did not need any assistance to make the arrest, simply wanted the deputy to be present to legalize his acts. The Liberal says the sheriff refused the aid and predicts that it will be a long time before Graham county officers will assist Grant officers to capture New Mexico criminals who have taken refuge in Graham county. In this the Liberal is mistaken. While there is no justification for the act of sheriff McAfee, our officers are not the sort who give shelter to the criminal class, and if a Grant county criminal should escape into Graham county, our officers would humiliate the Grant county sheriff, not by refusing aid, but by exerting every energy to place the criminals under arrest.

THOSE CONTEMPT CASES.

The last of the sugar contempt trial cases has been concluded; Broker McCartney being discharged from arrest. Judge Bradley has made a clean sweep of these cases, holding that Senator Allen's questions were not pertinent, and that he had no right to ask them. Allen, coming from a prairie state, from the wild and woolly West, does not part his hair in the middle, and when it comes down to genuine eastern justice as administered in our courts, is not in it by a little bit. The people may think he is right, he may think he is right himself, but who are the people and who is he?

If the courts of this country can nullify the action of a co-ordinate branch of the Government, and deny them the right to investigate subjects pertaining to the action of their own members, the Senate had better sell out, quit business, and let some Judge go to Washington and administer the Government and make laws. Out West Allen is considered considerable of a man; he is broad minded; a jurist of long standing; but it seems from the decisions made in these sugar cases, that he has been very much over-ruled. If these cases had been tried before a Justice of the Peace, a trembling world stands aghast at what might have been the possible result.

EDITORIAL BONBONS.

McKinley is probably conscious that he is losing ground, but he will not regain it by annexing new territory.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

General Weyler should import a few Populists to quiet the populace who dislikes to accept his paper money.—Atlanta Journal.

The prospect of an early passage of the tariff bill is pleasing to business men, however little they may be pleased with the provisions of the new law.—Boston Globe.

It is to be hoped that the Prince of Wales made the most of this diamond jubilee, as the chances are very much against his ever having one of his own.—Washington Star.

The United States Senate must find some difficulty in recognizing itself amid the complimentary things that are being said of it for rapid progress on the tariff bill.—Indianapolis Journal.

Bob Ingersoll can fill a lecture hall to overflowing in almost any city in the land, but the fact that Bob is the most popular man on the lecture platform might not avail him as a candidate for President.—Omaha Bee.

The English may boast of the superior stability of their institutions, which permit the chief personage of the realm to hold office for sixty years without a break, but they miss a good deal of fun in thus discarding the American periodical campaign system.—Baltimore American.

ANOTHER postponement by Reed is extra proof to the members that it is he and not they who count in this House of Representatives.

Foreign Notes of Real Interest.

Three Berlin artists, Max Liebermann, the head of the naturalistic school; Richard Friese, the animal painter, and Peter Breuer, the sculptor, are the recipients of the large gold medal for distinction in art conferred by Kaiser Wilhelm this year.

An East End of London clergyman, who sent out invitations to a jubilee banquet among the poor of his parish and received seventy acceptance, on announcing that he would have no beer lost fifty-three of his guests and was besides grieved by the newspapers.

From Lourdes comes the tale of the miraculous cure of a young woman of 23, who had been paralyzed since she was three years of age. She could neither sit upright nor turn in her bed without assistance, nor could she walk a step without support. After two baths at Lourdes she was able to walk as easily as anyone, and astonished the people of Pongères by walking through the town on Ascension Day.

Alfalfa as a Soiling Crop.
Alfalfa is one of the very best soiling crops. It may be fed in this way to better advantage than if the stock are pastured on the field. Cattle and sheep cannot be safely pastured on alfalfa, particularly when it is young and tender, or after there has been a heavy dew or rain. They are likely to bloat if fed with green or wet alfalfa. Horses and hogs are not affected in this way. The loss of sheep and cattle from tympanitis, hoven, or bloat, as it is called, is very great every year, and, though a herd may go through an entire season without loss, it is never perfectly safe to permit it to depasture the alfalfa, writes J. G. Smith in Field and Farm.

By a proper arrangement of feeding pens and corrals alongside or near the field, the method of soiling—that is mowing the alfalfa and feeding it in a partially wilted condition—is a cheap and perfectly safe one. The additional cost and labor of cutting the crop and hauling it to the feeding pens will be less than the loss that will be sustained if several head of stock die of bloat during the season. Young horses will make a very rapid growth if pastured on alfalfa, especially if supplemented by the daily addition of a small feed of oats. One of the disadvantages of depasturing alfalfa is that the soil soon becomes trampled and hard, and for this reason the roots are not able to make a sufficiently strong growth, and the field is sure to deteriorate.

One acre of alfalfa will furnish forage for from ten to twenty hogs a season. There is no cheaper or better way of producing pork than to allow growing pigs to run in a field of alfalfa. At a conservative estimate ten pigs to an acre will gain 100 pounds each during the season from May to September, and 1,000 pounds of pork can not be produced so cheaply on any other feed. The pigs will come out of the field in autumn in capital condition to fatten with corn or small grain. The alfalfa in a hog pasture should be mowed once or twice during the summer, or whenever it begins to get hard and woody. This will provide plenty of young and tender herbage, which is more nutritious, weight for weight, than fange from the older plants, and if the swine are provided with this food in its most nutritious condition, their growth will be most rapid. They need to be provided with an abundance of fresh or running water in the pastures.
