The KITCHEN CABINET

WHEN THE MEN COME HOME TO LUNCH.

TELL you, we hustle to beat the band. When the men come home to lunch. We can't put them off in the usual way. With a hurry, a gulp and a munch.

If potatoes aren't left from the dinner before we slice raw ones, exceedingly thin. Add bread crumbs, milk and butter, too. And set them the oven within.

Not one ounce of meat! Never mind, there are eggs.

Or in haste we can borrow, if need be. Just scramble a few—I'm sure this will do. If the man of the house isn't greedy.

"There isn't a bit of fresh bread," you say?

Fix some toast—bread he never will miss. Make drawn butter sauce from the old scraps of cake. And garnish the meal—with a kiss.

Fruit Frappe.

A nice dish for dessert (if unexpected company comes in), is a frappe of some sort of fruit. Of course, this presupposes that one is near an ice cream stand. In small frappe cups place some fruit—fresh or canned—add the ice cream, and on top put another light layer of the fruit. Sprinkle sugar over all. This is nice for an emergency, and if one cannot get the ice cream, make a soufflé by mashing the fruit, berries, bananas or chopped pineapple, very fine. To the well-beaten whites of two eggs, add sugar, and lastly the crushed fruit.

Potato Flour.

This is something our grandmothers thought essential to good house-keeping. It makes breads, cakes and puddings more light and tender. It is prepared by allowing grated potatoes to settle and soak in water—changing the water often, and rubbing through a sieve. The farina must be then pulverized, bottled and tightly corked. A little of this is a wonderful addition to ordinary flour.

Simple Fried Cakes.

One quart unsifted flour, one teaspoon soda, two of cream of tartar, one of salt, one egg, and a little "shortening." Last, put in a cup of sugar and milk to make a soft batter. Fry in hot lard.

Ted's Favorite.

This is a pleasant change in the manner of serving the ever popular strawberry. Place alternate layers of strawberries and pulverized sugar in a glass bowl. Pour over them orange juice in the proportion of three oranges to a quart of berries. Let stand for an hour, and serve well sprinkled with powdered ice. Some use claret instead of the orange juice.

THE CHANGE IN BRYAN.

Proof Not Forthcoming That Old Fallacies Are Abandoned.

In Mr. Bryan's extenuation it is put forward that he has changed. They whom resentment or indecision or the desire to be placated more, represent that the peerless one is not at all dangerous this time because what made him so he has forsworn. Once he was for free coinage—to that he has said a long farewell. Once he railed at the courts—now his roaring is gentle, like that of a sucking dove. Once he was for government ownership—that he is trying as hard as possible to forget. Once he was an ardent free trader—that, perchance, he may yet disown and at any rate, he has to omit a sound that might alarm the most timid manufacturer.

Let us freely admit that all which Bryan once believed he now disavows. How long is it since infidelity to immortal principles and the mobile adjustment of one's views to the exigencies of the hour became a sure passport to the trust and confidence of the American people? Are we to understand from the evidence that Bryan is so great and indispensable an executive that whether he has any views or not becomes a negligible matter?

If Mr. Bryan should be elected it might be found that these ideas he has for the nonce concealed are really only subordinated until such time as he can get into position to put them into effect. And against such a contingency Lloyd's offers no insurance.

How About Uncle?

"Well, Georgie, you've been fishing with your uncle, have you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Your uncle told us he caught a dozen big fellows. Can't you tell us how many you caught?"

No response from Georgie.

"But you haven't lost your tongue, have you? How many did you catch?"

"I haven't lost my tongue, sir, but papa's still just over there and he always punishes me for lying."

GIRLS' AND CHILD'S APRON.

Paris Pattern No. 2470. All Seams Allowed.—This simple little apron may be developed in almost any material and many variations in the way of trimming will give it an entirely different effect. For instance the body portion of the garment may be made of checked gingham, with the yoke-band, belt, pocket and wristband of plain gingham, or if the apron be made of white Persian or Victoria lawn, the yoke-bands and wrist-bands may be of all-over embroidery, and the hem and pocket finished with feather-stitching. The pattern is in five sizes—ones to nine years. For a child of five years the apron requires 2½ yards of material 27 inches wide, or two yards 36 inches wide.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Historic Facts Recalled.

In connection with the death of Grover Cleveland, it is interesting to note that only twice before in the history of the nation has the United States been without a living ex-president. George Washington died in 1799, when John Adams, the second president, was in office. Andrew Johnson, at the time the only surviving ex-chief executive, passed away in 1875, two years before Gen. Grant retired to private life.

The Key to Domestic Peace.

"Tell me, do you love me?"
A tense silence followed the passionate words. The woman bent toward him with hand pressed to her bosom. Her very life seemed to hang upon the answer.

At last he spoke:
"Yes, I love you!"
And earnestness calculated to dispel all haunting doubts was in his answer, the same he had given her every day of their 40 years of married life. For it is the nature of woman to keep on asking.

An Exception Noted.

"And what are you going to be, my little man?"
"I'm going to grow up like papa."
"That's right. You want to be just like your papa, don't you?"
"Yes, ma'am. Only I ain't a-goin' to kiss Bella behind the door an' have ma' hatch me."
