

create public opinion that international difficulties be settled by conference instead of war.

Whereas there are many motion pictures before the public that ridicule the sacred things of life and also many pictures which by their evil suggestions exert a bad influence on the young.

Be it resolved that the women members of the State patronize good pictures and object to bad pictures and that we register our approval of desirable pictures.

Whereas the G. F. W. C. has purchased and established Headquarters in Washington, D. C., funds for same to come from the voluntary gifts of Federated Clubs.

Be it resolved that the N. A. D. F. endorse a campaign for Headquarters Fund, recommending that all clubs in our federation support this campaign as liberally as possible.

Whereas the advantages of Direct Membership with the G. F. W. C. are both numerous and obvious, be it resolved that it is the desire of the clubs of the Federation, here represented, to enter into such direct relation, subject to the action of the Arizona State Federation.

Extracts from Mrs. McMullen's Speech

I believe in the Woman's Club movement. I believe in it so earnestly, and completely that I am prepared to say that I think the women of today, the largest leisure class the world has, have in their hands the chance to do a piece of constructive work for society unequalled by any other one group.

I wish to ask a few questions in order to get our minds to running in the same channel.

What is growth? Why do we have the word evolution? What does it mean? What is it necessary for us as individuals to believe before we have what may be called a social consciousness? Is evolution something imposed on us by the Infinite, or is evolution the thing upon which the Creative power depends in the development of its Infinite purpose? Is evolution or growth something which takes place without effort or direction in the human race, or does it depend for its well-being and development upon the power of determination of the human race?

"Responsibility, not freedom, is the key to democracy. Responsibility for one's self, for the good of the neighborhood, for the well-being of the democracy. Until every citizen feels this responsibility as inescapable, there can be no permanent growth or complete democracy."—(Bailey.)

Personally I am an optimist, I have no patience with the calamity hollerer, who fails to see and marvel at the growth in our feeling of the world brotherhood. But I cannot help but wonder how many of us realize that if every community were able to solve its own problems, take care of all questions of social need, poverty, wealth, crime, etc., that there would be no national nor international difficulties? And if this statement is true where lies both the opportunity and the responsibility? Following the World War many people the world over believed there would be a great step forward in human relationships.

The hopes of many have not been realized but I believe if we look closely and long we will find ground for hope.

The burden of proving that Christian democracy can be real and live up to our ideal in health and beauty is necessarily upon Americans; that means upon you and me. So what are the various concrete things with which we need to concern ourselves? First as women in community life, we must grow in the understanding that we are fighting things, not people. Women the country over must enlarge their powers to work together, leaving personal feeling chained up at home. The most needed achievement is an increase in personal tolerance. As new citizens, with the new power of the ballot, we have confronting us the need for helping to solve the problems of the distribution of wealth; of the public health; of character building education. If America leads in world consciousness, we must lead in science, in the mastery of inventions and machinery. We have without question in America both the enterprise and ability. Our hope of success lies in the growth of our sustaining conscience. We hear all sorts of things, "that we must have leaders" etc. I believe that leaders are born not made, and that if we educate our young people to become capable, willing, co-workers, that leaders for the various occasions and needs will emerge.

I believe that a certain amount of public sentiment and general information must always proceed active organized effort. Of course, if there is the nucleus of common interest, then organization and its resulting concerted effort can accomplish marvels.

This then is my vision of community. That it must rest upon the firm foundation of a conception of world brotherhood; that the individual must find his life through devotion to this ideal; that organization must follow and never precede a generally felt need and that all community effort must swing completely around the cycle in the knowledge that its purpose must be a conscious effort to realize as I have said before, that "God is the helping of man by man."

$1,441,486 A YEAR'S DISASTER RELIEF COST

Red Cross Aided 145,000 Victims in United States—Losses Total $30,000,000.

Seventy-two disasters, with hundreds reported killed and injured, and more than 145,000 either homeless or requiring assistance, called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,441,486.38 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, according to a statement based on the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. The greatest toll of life was taken by hurricane and tornado, while the overflowing of rivers, the breaking of dams and torrential rains drove the greatest number of people from their homes. The property loss was estimated at more than $30,000,000.

The year's disasters reported included twenty-six floods, nineteen tornadoes, fifteen fires, four epidemics, two theatre collapses, two shipwrecks (one an airship), and a bridge collapse, mine explosion, railway collision, and a drought. Of the floods in the United States that at San Antonio, Texas, caused the greatest property loss, $8,000,000 and the high mark of fatalities, 100, while the flood in the vicinity of Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss., forced 31,000 persons from their homes.

A National Calamity In the Red Cross disaster relief records there will probably remain for many years one calamity which touched nearly every state with a sense of horror and of loss. This was the distressing collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre in Washington, D. C., resulting in ninety-six deaths and 125 persons injured. Situated in the center of the beautiful Northwest residential section, this motion picture theatre was patronized by many persons of prominence both in the official and civil life of the National Capital, whose family and personal connections radiated out over the entire country. The horror was intensified by a terrific snowstorm which, though it retarded, did not block Red Cross relief.

Airship Crash Finds Aid at Hand The crash and destruction of the U. S. Army's large airship Roma in Virginia last February with the loss of 34 officers and men and 11 injured was the first disaster of its kind to call for Red Cross relief in this country. The suddenness of the accident tested the preparedness of the organization and of the Chapter at Hampton, Va., but the response was immediate and relief furnished the survivors, also funds for the expenses of relatives of the dead, who came from long distances to claim their own.

In the year's overseas record for aid rendered by the Red Cross are two fires in the Philippines, one in Manila, which destroyed 1,000 homes, with a loss of $1,500,000 and 5,000 persons made homeless, the other at Tonia, which drove 3,000 from their dwellings. In medical relief that was quick and effective the smallpox epidemic in San Domingo, which had a total of 22,000 cases with 225 deaths in a single day, tested the readiness of the Red Cross for action, and the same can be said of the San Domingo hurricane, which killed 12 persons and reduced the homes of 182 persons to wreckage. A flood in San Salvador, with a death toll of 50 and 2,000 refugees, was also effectively handled by the local Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Relief Machinery Perfected The year has seen the further perfection of disaster relief administrative measures in every field of American Red Cross activity, and that the work may be carried on to still greater accomplishments the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during the annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from Armistice Day (November 11) to, and including, Thanksgiving Day (November 30).

Red Cross Roll Call Heard World Around

The Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross for registration of the membership for 1923 will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, and close on Thanksgiving Day, November 30. The ground work for this stupendous task of re-enrolling the membership throughout the world has been laid in a plan for the first complete and comprehensive system of registration of the Red Cross membership in all its 3,300 active chapters at home and abroad.

An important feature of the round-the-world Roll Call campaign will be a universal effort to re-enlist the service of war-torn Red Cross workers in the peace program by their participation in the Roll Call. In this way the vast army of volunteers will once more affiliate with the work of the Red Cross in its manifold phases. Cooperation also has been assured by Government and private maritime interests in a deep-sea Roll Call that is designed to reach every member or potential member in every part of the world who may be en voyage or temporarily in any port. Thousands of chapters will adopt the home canvass plan of enrollment which originated in Pittsburgh, where last year it resulted in a membership increase of 50 per cent. All records in this year's campaign will be kept on standard size cards to be filed by each chapter for future use.

A farmer in the cotton belt had a reputation for never wearing good clothes. His wife was continually reproaching him for his negligence.

With the maturing of his crop he journeyed to the city with the "first bale". The bale brought ten cents a pound more than he had expected and he decided to surprise the "old lady."

He went to a nearby furnishing store and purchased a complete and shining new outfit. Instead of putting them on in the store he placed them under the wagon seat and began the homeward journey.

When about one mile from the farm he stopped by a creek, stepped behind a large clump of shrubbery and proceeded to take off his clothes, at the same time throwing them into the creek. They were carried away by the current.

Turning to his wagon, naked as Adam, he found that some one had stolen the entire outfit, from shoes to hat. "Giddap, Bill!" said he, jumping into the wagon. "We'll surprise the old lady anyway!"

Smith is the best-hearted man in the world, but nobody would accuse him of being handsome. The other day he went to visit an old college friend had a daughter, Annie, about four years old, he brought a box of candy for that young lady.

"And are you going to give the nice man a kiss for that?" inquired Annie's father.

Annie looked at Mr. Smith thoughtfully. Then she looked at her father. "I'll kiss you, papa," she decided, "and you kiss him."

MINER WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

To The Voters of Mohave County

Of course you want your business affairs handled by able business men. We are all stockholders in the business affairs of our county. The success of our county, which influences our prosperity, depends upon our selection of capable men who can assure us an HONEST AND SOUND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION.

Knowing that you are interested in selecting the right man to look after your county business affairs, we wish to call your attention to the candidacy of George A. Bonelli, for the office of Supervisor of our district.

Mr. Bonelli has lived in our county 'since boyhood'. No one knows our needs better than he does.

It was Mr. Bonelli who fought for the north and south road. It was he that called the attention of the Governor and other officials of our state to allow a state appropriation of $40,000.00, which was being transferred to the general fund, to be used on a road to the Colorado river. In fact he has always fought for good roads to develop our county resources.

During the late war he sent two of his sons to serve in the United States Army. He supported the government in the purchase of the various bond issues. He has always stood for good citizenship.

Mr. Bonelli is one of the heaviest individual taxpayers in our county. He will exercise the same careful constructive business ability in looking after your county business as he has in his own.

When Mr. Bonelli served as supervisor a few years ago we recall that he was known as "the best supervisor Mohave County ever had". He can do it again.

Mr. Bonelli is running for the office of supervisor of District No. 3 on the Republican ticket. Say it with votes.
