Hurrah for July 4th.

THE latest hanging in Texas was attended by 3,000 people. It is proper to explain that the crowd would have been larger if a recent rain had not made several of the adjacent creeks impassible.

JUST as Tombstone and Cochise were again beginning to prosper and her people were wearing smiling faces, knowing that the capitalist, eager to invest, comes Crook and his murdering pets, and knocks everything in the head. But our people from now on will take the law in their own hands and will soon put a stop to these picnics of Mr. Crook.

WE feel warranted in predicting that the appointment of Geo. W. Julian as surveyor-general of New Mexico will not be confirmed without opposition on the ground of "offensive partisanship." The republican senators might possibly overlook the fact that he once stigmatized the Democrats as "a lot of Christless whelps," but certainly the gentleman on the other side can never condone a thing of that sort.

IT is not true, as the Democratic papers are continually asserting, that the Republicans are trying to hold fast to the offices in spite of the fact that their party has been beaten. They simply ask that they shall supercede in an honest and fair way, and not by means tending to cast reproach upon them as citizens. No Republican claims to have a vested and permanent right to an office; but at the same time no man likes to be removed on false pretenses, and by reason of accusations that are merely trumped up to hide the real purpose of the Administration. That is the whole truth in the case.

IT is proclaimed by authority that the President proposes to extend the "protection" of the civil service law to many classes now exempt from its provisions. Not right away, however. He believes, it is added, that this should not be done until "after a proper proportion of the offices shall have been given to the Democrats." One of the principal features of Mr. Cleveland's course as a reformer is its careful avoidance of anything like suddenness: it is nothing if not leisurely.

A REPUBLICAN office-holder was recently removed on the ground that he had joined in giving "three cheers for Blaine" during the last campaign; and now comes a report another dismissal because a man solicited subscriptions for a Republican newspaper. Next, we suppose, we shall hear of a man being turned out who was indiscreet enough to sit on a fence and watch a Republican procession go by.

A Colorado Road Line. DENVER, COL., June 16.

The Colorado Cattle-Growers' Association met in this city at 10 o'clock this morning at the call of the President, for the purpose of considering the question for establishing a cattle trail across the State from the southern to the northern boundaries. A large number of the most prominent cattlemen of Colorado were present, and there were representatives from Wyoming and New Mexico. The various cattle associations and the counties in Colorado through which it is proposed the trail shall pass were represented by three delegates from each, with the exception of Bent, whose delegates are delayed. The President stated that the meeting was called owing to the action of the Southwestern Kansas Cattle-growers' Association in locating a cattle trail for the use of herds traversing the State of Kansas. Owing to the non-arrival of the Bent County delegation, no positive action was taken to-day. The trail was discussed in all its phases. The Southern Colorado cattlemen are a unit in insisting that the trail shall not be opened, and the sentiment of the Northern men is divided on the subject. The lands fronting on the Arkansas River, and they have united themselves in their opposition to permitting any Texas cattle to cross the river or enter the State. Several herds, numbering between 40,000 and 50,000 cattle, mostly destined for Wyoming, have been stopped on the dead line. Northern New Mexico has consequently been made the feeding grounds of this large herd, and the cattlemen of that region are kicking vigorously. They insist that the cattle must either be driven on or shipped on by rail. For these reasons it was explained to the meeting to-day that prompt action was necessary. The northern men want a trail to start in about the southeastern corner of the State, running to Grenada and from there to the Republican River, or down the Beaver. Various committees were appointed, and then the meeting adjourned until to-morrow. If the trail is established it will only be after bitter contest between the Southern and Northern cattlemen.

A telegram from Trinidad to-night says: "The committee of fifteen men appointed by the Lav Animas County Cattle Association are holding the Franchera Pass, on the Colorado and New Mexico line, and will try by moral suasion to prevent an invasion by the herds of Texas cattle now stopped in Colfax County, New Mexico. If they fail by such a course they announce that they will try prohibition. Mr. Eddy, who has a herd of cattle in Colfax County, came over the pass to-day to inform himself on the situation, and was told that there was no room for him on this side of the Colorado line, and no vacant ground for a Texas-Wyoming highway."

Money Making. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.

The second epoch in the era of Democratic reform has been reached. The proof of this appeared to-day in an account which an official who has recently arrived from the Territories gives of his experience among a number of new officials in the public service. Said the gentleman to-day to one of his friends: "You may believe I have had a rich and interesting time to-day as I went around the departments, I am here to file some reports. There seemed to be a belief that I knew all about land matters and Indian supplies, and one after another questioned me as I passed along. The burden of all their inquiries was in relation to the modes of making money. They said: 'You see, we are stranded, we don't know anything about these things. We have got the offices, and what we want now is to know how you make money out of them.'

"Now, how is money made out of Indians agencies?" said one, and another asked the same about post traders, and still another wanted to hear how money could be made out of surveying the public lands, and out of land office position. More asked about contracts than any other branch of the civil service. All said they were ignorant as yet on all of these points, but exceedingly anxious to learn all the ropes. And those who did this talking made no secret of their settled purpose to understand these things as soon as possible."
