THE bargain hunter falls an easy victim to the blandishments of the mail order house. All advertising of the catalog concern is designed to appeal to the cupidity of the reader, and excite suspicion as to the honesty of local dealers. The broad claims of saving made by mail order houses refute themselves because anybody should know that they are not based upon actual accurate knowledge of local conditions and prices which certainly are not the same in all localities. By one fell swoop the mail order house denounces local retailers as robbers and hoists itself upon a pedestal as the only simon pure, honest and straight-forward concern in the world—and the mail order buyer believes its statement. Mail order trade is built largely on bluff and brag; it can not stand the crucial test of comparison price for price and quality for quality with the local dealers' goods. Most mail order buyers are not proud of the fact that their greed for gain causes them to sacrifice every generous impulse that is inspired by consideration of friendship, sympathy and support of their neighbors and fellow citizens. Aid in adversity, comfort in sickness and sympathy in bereavement are given by neighbors and friends without thought of return; but ingratitude is sure of its own reward at last, and this fact is so well known that none is so mean as willingly to be called or thought ungrateful. These are facts that should determine the policy of the local retailer in meeting mail order competition.

THERE is no disputing the fact that official Washington is very anxious about conditions in Mexico, and while the Administration is doing everything consistent to aid the regularly constituted government, yet there is genuine apprehension that it may become necessary for the United States to intervene. The president of Mexico has let it be known that in such an event, the United States would be as an enemy, and he pretends to know what he is talking about when he asserts that a move of this kind would mean war. Of course Uncle Sam would be very much pleased to have Mexico adjust its own internal dissensions, but the best informed men in the Capital are quite free to admit that intervention is quite probable.

A writer contended that he must have Parcels Post because he paid $72.00 to express a cow from Minneapolis to Phoenix. Some advocates want to mail thrashing machines.

One Way To Advertise

A man went into the office of the comptroller of the currency in Washington last week, thoroughly mad, because he had received in his mail a perfectly good check to his order, drawn on a real bank, for real money. He wanted to know if there wasn't "some way to stop this thing."

The officers of the department told him there was not; that anybody who had money in the bank had a right to draw checks against it payable to anybody at his pleasure.

The bank on which the check was drawn was fairly buried under literally bushels of other checks of the same sort which people brought in to be cashed. The man who drew the checks has a considerable account with the bank, which explains why the bank officers dissembled their real feelings.

The checks were for five cents each and went through the mail to hundreds of Washington people with a request to "spend his nickel for carefare" and visit the giver's place of business.—Commercial Union.

ARIZONA and New Mexico will no longer "come begging" at the doors of the Congress, as the delegates used to say. Now New Mexico has two men in the House where formerly there was one without a vote, and there are two in the Senate, whereas that branch of the government was, in former days, manipulated only through such influence on the part of Members as the delegates might be able to command. In the case of Arizona there is one Representative in the House and two in the Senate. At last these two great sections of the southwest are not only represented on the flag, but are also actually on the legislative map.

With the race between President Taft and Col. Roosevelt yet on, the general prediction is that Speaker Clark will be nominated by the Democrats. He seems to be second choice of followers of almost every other candidate.

A Socialist was tried in New York the other day for trampling upon an American flag, while speaking. At the trial his lawyer said, "Hand me that rag!" The attorney escaped with an apology to the court.

LET us cultivate a public spirit and talk less and do more. Encourage our local authorities in making improvements. Speak up, speak well, talk encouragingly of our town and of its bright prospects. It is these many little considerations that make a town grow. Nature has showered upon us her choicest blessings, in the way of good land, healthy country, pure water, excellent schools and churches, coal, oil, natural gas, timber, water, power, etc., and with perfect unity and effort for the good of our common cause, great will be the result.

An Ohio man settled in Florida asks for Parcels Post so that he may yet have his laundry work done in Ohio. There is no limit to what selfish, short-sighted people want the Federal Government to do. He had not encouraged the location of a laundry. "Partial Post" would encourage factories located in the West to move back East to get labor, power, rents, etc., more cheaply, as the Government would equalize costs of hauls.

From present indications the Winslow Frontier Celebration this year will be one of the best ever given in the Northern part of the State.

AMBITION TALKS

REAL GREATNESS IS IN THE SOUL AND STAYS THERE

"The heights by great men reached and KEPT" calls attention to the fact that real greatness never permits BACKSLIDING.

There are not many instances in history of men prominent in youth or middle age who fell later into obscurity—and such of these as there are were not really great.

Greatness is a SOUL QUALITY closely allied to hard work. The man whose soul has been fired with zeal of a wonderful cause cannot lay down his weapons.

Successful men seldom retire.

When Abraham Lincoln first entered Congress in 1847 he found John Quincy Adams there, working in plain clothes.

Benjamin Franklin could have left a name big enough for a thousand years of history if he had died at 40. But he had won for America the aid of France in the Revolutionary War 30 YEARS after his name had become a household word in America and Europe through Poor Richards Almanac.

Benjamin Harrison returning to his law practice after his presidency, Charles Dickens killing himself with work after his name was internationally famous, Walter Scott repaying a debt of hundreds of thousands after age and fame had met their seals upon him, Edison working 16 hours a day for a score of years after the crown of olive had been placed upon his head—these are but a few conspicuous examples of the VITAL PRINCIPLE OF GREATNESS.

Men are great, not because they are able to attain something they want—but because they WANT SOMETHING they have NOT ATTAINED.

The barbarian Alexander, who wept for more words to conquer, expressed the only kind of sentiment that could have enabled him to conquer ONE.

Greatness is not situated at a goal—it does not lie at a terminus. It is IN THE SOUL of a man and exists both before and after the accomplishment of every noteworthy deed.

Great men do not retire from greatness, because they can't. Backsliding is a characteristic of men who have NEVER been truly great, and is a proof of it.

The man who wants to be great in the hope that he will be able to sit around and watch, in a sort of dignified, scholarly ease has never read much biography or seen many of the real specimens at short range, for HARD WORK and SUCCESS are CLOSE OF KIN, and leisure is not even a distant relative of either.

THE Good Road workers are still on the job and are doing everything to divert the National Highway our way. Gov. Hunt and other State officials were in town last Sunday looking over the local situation and made a trip to Chevelon Creek in an automobile to view the ground where the people of Winslow want a bridge so bad. Gov. Hunt stated that it will be only a short time now before work will be commenced on the same.

That the recall of judges is a question bound to be fought out in this country, has again been emphasized by the introduction of a bill, the author of which is Representative Taylor of Colorado. It provides for the recall of Federal judges whose official acts do not meet with public favor. The Taylor bill specifies that Federal judges may be recalled every four years in the event that they are guilty of misconduct in office.

A proposition in the Senate is to reduce the subscription price of the Congressional Record to $2 for long session and $1 for short sessions, or fifty cents a month, payable in advance. As a matter of fact, under the present arrangement, any person who will agree to read the Record can get it free by applying to his Congressman.

Congressman Hill of Connecticut says: "If Parcels Post be established, the yearly deficit on that would be one hundred and fifty million dollars. Yet the advocates of Parcels Post will not compromise. They don't want to experiment; they want to go to the limit."

Good roads are winning a permanent place in popularity with our citizens and no community is considered progressive that has not improved its public highways. Let us build good roads and place our community in the progressive class.

Almost A Miracle

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

My Doctor Said

"Try Cardui," writes Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I was in a very low state of health, and was not able to be up and tend to my duties. I did try Cardui, and soon began to feel better. I got able to be up and help do my housework. I continued to take the medicine, and now I am able to do my housework and to care for my children, and I feel as though I could never praise Cardui enough for the benefits I have received."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Cardui is successful, because it is made especially for women, and acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That explains the great success which it has had, during the past 50 years, in helping thousands of weak and ailing women back to health and happiness.

If you are a woman, feel tired, dull, and are nervous, cross and irritable, it's because you need a tonic. Why not try Cardui? Cardui builds, strengthens, restores, and acts in every way as a special, tonic remedy for women. Test it for yourself. Your druggist sells Cardui. Ask him.
