

CHILD HYGIENE IN WINSLOW

The children of Washington school were weighed and measured the first of this week, under the direction of Miss Bouton, home demonstration agent, university extension service. Miss Bouton found that despite the sickness in Winslow the past few weeks, that there has been a perceptible gain in weight by those who were under weight a month ago, the increase of white cards (normal weight) being from 43.6 to 45.9 per cent. The red cards (7 per cent below normal) decreased from 24.4 to 23.9 per cent.

Many mothers are keeping the "food habits score card," which encourage the children to improve their food habits. Miss Bouton was much pleased to find that the teachers in the Washington building are co-operating splendidly with the mothers in teaching the values of milk, fruits, vegetables as articles of diet, and in keeping clean teeth and hands as an aid to good health.

The children were much interested in a movie reel, "Milk in Mother Goose Land," which Miss Bouton showed to them. Last month more than a thousand school children in Coconino and Navajo counties saw this reel exhibited by Miss Bouton.

Mrs. John LaZear, Mrs. Roy Brennen, and Mrs. Shannon Albright assisted in weighing the children.

Systematic training for mothers in the promotion of child hygiene will be the aim of a club formed this week after Miss Bouton's visit.

Eleven mothers met with Miss Bouton Wednesday afternoon at Washington school, at which time children were weighed and measured, and resolutions made to form a club to study the work.

The new organization will meet the first Thursday of each month, and the first meeting, which will be held March 4th, and at which officers will be elected, will be supervised by Miss Bouton, who will explain the work.

Any mothers or any ladies interested in this movement for better child health should get in touch with Mrs. H. B. Robinson of Mrs. A. R. Dewey as soon as possible. All are cordially invited to attend the first meeting.

One of the features of the meetings will be the weighing and measuring of children, as a chart showing the progress of the new body.

Editor Winslow Mail:

Dear Sir—Winslow to Winslow is the hub of the universe, baring those, of course, who formerly lived in California. A native son can never forget his nativity. We respect this allegiance, but sometimes, in our own pride, we wish he would be less prone and eloquent in his devotion.

Dr. Frank Crane has said that every man—"I," "Me,"—is the most important personage in all the world; and he is right to the extent that everyone is self-centered, looking more to his own affairs almost to the exclusion of all others save his own immediate family.

Someone has said that the upper pole of the earth projects visibly from every community and the world revolves about that place. This also, is true in the sense that each community has its own problems which it looks out for almost to the exclusion of all other communities. This is as it should be. It is the foundation on which this and all other countries are built.

But Winslow to the tourist and the traveling public—what is it? To them Winslow is just another town on the desert through which they must, or may, pass on their way to a more interesting place. They come over the hill from either direction, see our little community as a small oasis in the brown valley. They stop at a gas station, fill their tank and radiator, and maybe spend the night at one of our excellent camp grounds. Then they step on the gas and are off.

Have they received an impression that Winslow is any more than "just another desert town"? Do they see a park or a beauty spot anywhere? Do they see a statue of a Red Man to remind them that this is the home of this fast vanishing and noble race?

Are our natural wonders, of which Winslow is the logical center, sufficiently advertised and pointed out to catch the eye of those who pass? Can we "point with pride" to any civic center? Where is the band stand and our band that we and our transient visitors may hear a program of music occasionally?

These are some of the questions which Winslowites should ask themselves and try hard to answer. Winslow has a bountiful pay-roll. Why not use some of this pay-roll to further promote Winslow.

MOTHERS' CLUB

Dr. Hayden's talk on "Training the Child in Worship," was the outstanding feature of Washington Mothers' club program on Tuesday afternoon. The living example of the parents in the home is the source of the child's knowledge of religion, the criterion by which he in later life gauges his attitude toward God, the memory of which makes or mars his life, was illustrated by Dr. Hayden with stories of actual homes.

A number of papers on this subject were read by members, dealing with several phases, with Mrs. Harry Walker as leader.

Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Moore, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Brennen, first vice-president.

After the program, a great many items of business were brought up for discussion. The election of officers resulted in the re-election of Mrs. Moore as president; Mrs. Brennen as first vice president, and Mrs. Oare, as second vice president.

Miss Cox succeeds Miss Davis as secretary, and Miss Houston succeeds Miss Oakley as treasurer.

Mrs. O'Hara was re-elected corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Stevens was chosen parliamentarian, with Mrs. Kaufman her assistant.

The next meeting of the Navajo County Council will be held in Winslow on February 27, is was announced from the chair.

A case of need was reported by Mrs. D. E. Parker, that of a boy out of school, scantily fed and clothed.

Miss Bouton reported on the weighing of the children which showed a gain in a great many. She also thanked the mothers and teachers for the co-operation given her.

A social hour was enjoyed, with cake and coffee served.

VAN DYKE HEADS INDUSTRIAL BOARD

PHOENIX—Cleve W. Van Dyke of Miami, was named chairman of the new state industrial commission, which held its organization meeting here Monday. Other members of the commission are R. B. HIGHLIGHTS OF GOOD ROADS ASSN. SHOW ORGANIZATION FOLLOWING PATH OF PROGRESS, PAYNE REPORTS

That the path of the Arizona Good Roads association is the path of progress, the highway of smooth co-operation, and the broad boulevard leading to a future of industry, prosperity and happiness for Arizona is shown by the nature of the various resolutions adopted at last week's session of the Arizona Good Roads association, according to C. H. Payne, chairman of the Navajo county board of supervisors, who, with Supervisors W. H. Dunham and C. E. Owens, and County Engineer G. T. West, returned home Monday.

The resolutions adopted were: Expressing regret over the death of General John C. Greenway and conveying condolences to his family and associates.

Appointing J. W. Strode of Gila county, to represent the association before the next legislature.

Favoring continuance of federal aid for highway development.

Favoring removal of bill-boards from state highway rights-of-way.

Favoring federal appropriation for construction of highway leading into Grand Canyon.

Favoring appropriation of $100,000 by the state legislature to match an equal amount already appropriated by the federal government for a bridge across the Colorado at Lee's Ferry.

Favoring the appropriation of $100,000 by the state legislature to match the $100,000 of Apache Indian tribal money now available for construction of a road from Whiteriver to Cooley in Navajo county.

Favoring the construction of toll bridge across the Colorado at Ehrenburg without cost to the taxpayers of Arizona.

Favoring the utilization of state prisoners for road-construction work.

Favoring the construction of all roads in purely government territory, from which the states derive no tax income, from federal funds alone.

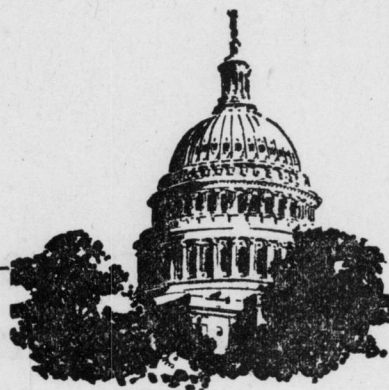

EDITOR OF "THE EARTH", SANTA FE MAGAZINE, HERE

J. F. Jarrell, of Topeka, editor of "The Earth," Santa Fe publication, and manager of the agricultural division of the Santa Fe, stopped off in Winslow Monday enroute from California to Chicago.

Mr. Jarrell was with the "Cow-sow-hen" train which has just completed a demonstration tour of southern California in an effort to promote the establishment of more cows, brood sows and chickens on California farms, in an effort to bolster up the "one crop" farms along the line of the Santa Fe.

A similar campaign is being planned for Arizona. Mr. Jarrell reports in co-operation with the University of Arizona College of Agriculture, sometime during the present year, in which event the agricultural and grazing areas along the Santa Fe in northern Arizona would come in for their share of the work.

There is much interest in this promotion work, the agricultural director said, and the Santa Fe is doing much to promote increased and diversified crops all along its line.
